Challenge is the key to self-awareness.

When exploring our capacities for understanding, life no longer continues without meaning or satisfaction.

High school extends to us many invitations which may or may not evoke a response:

Experience, and learn.

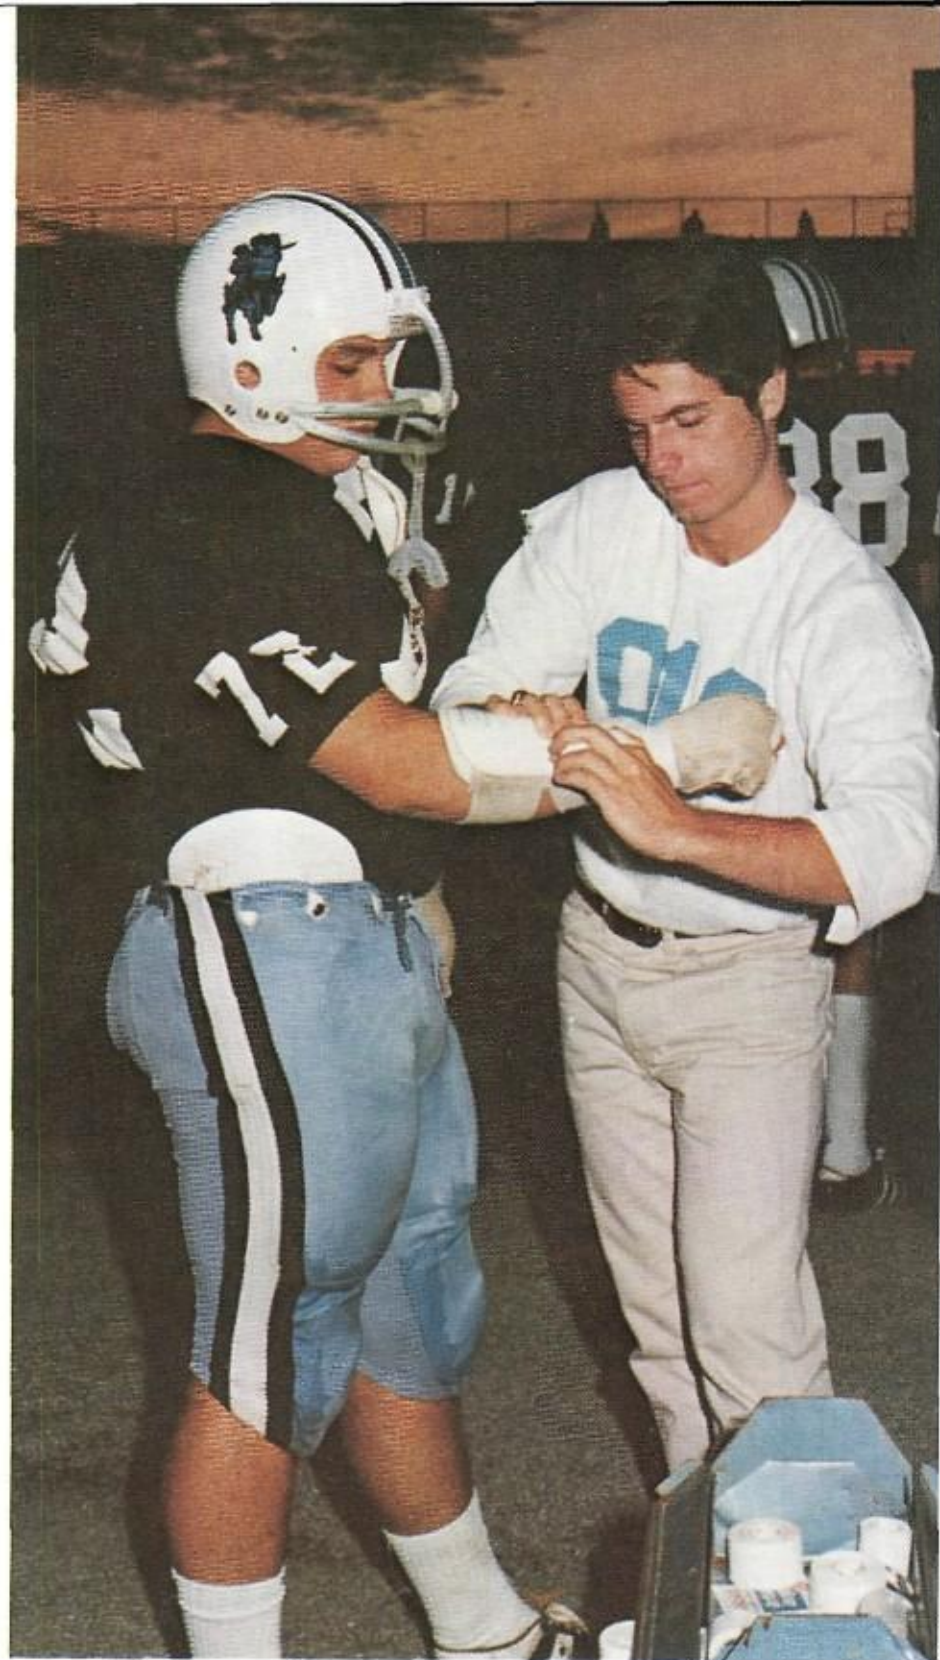

Strive for excellence.

Discover your priorities.

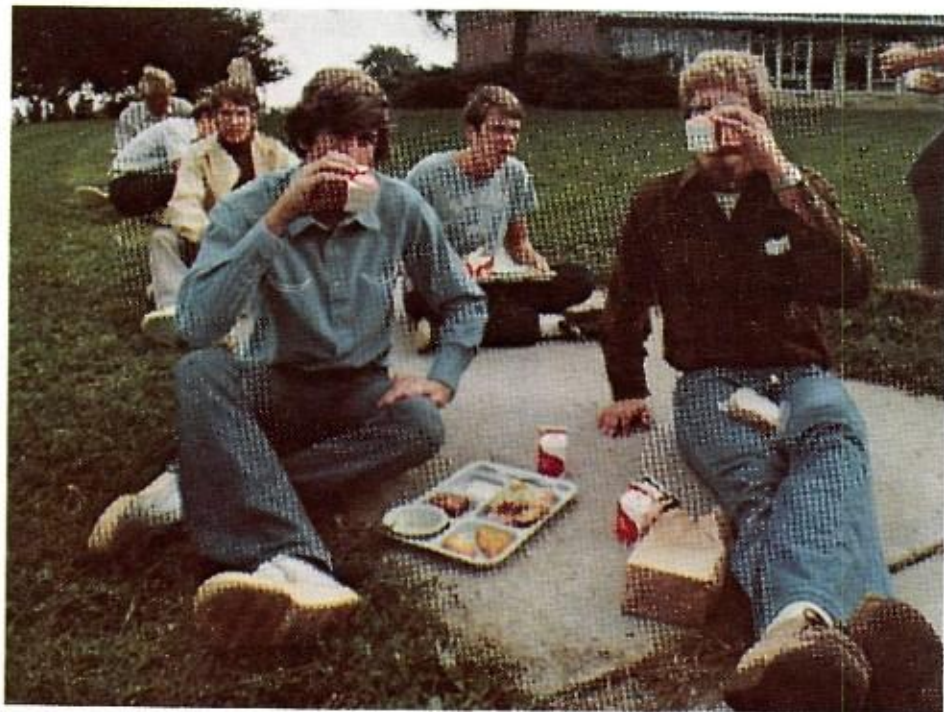

In the midst of confusion and conflicting values,
Struggle for self-identity.

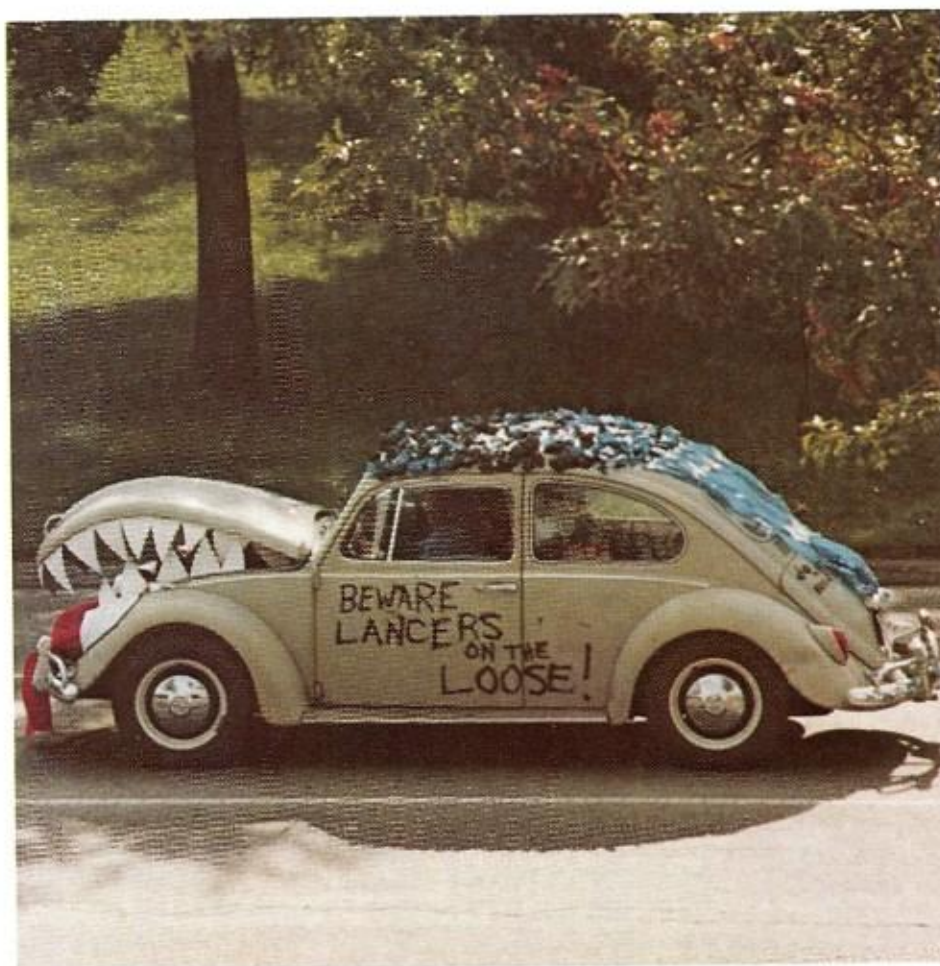

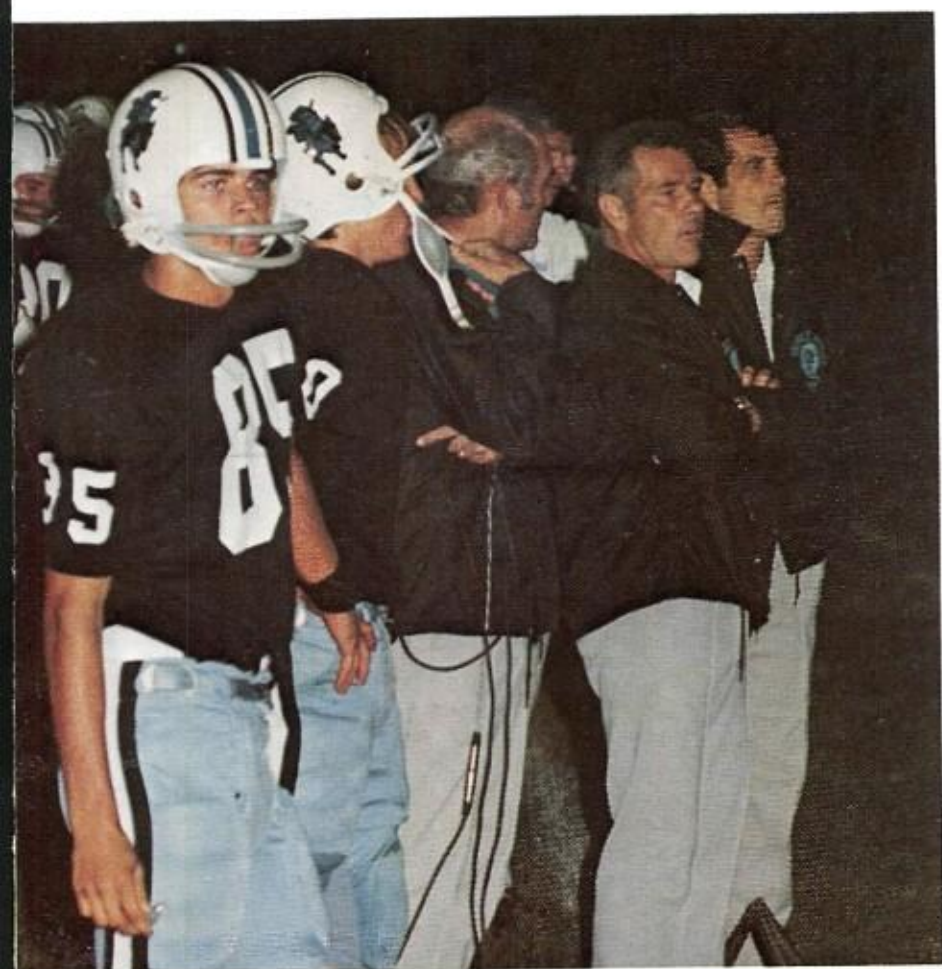

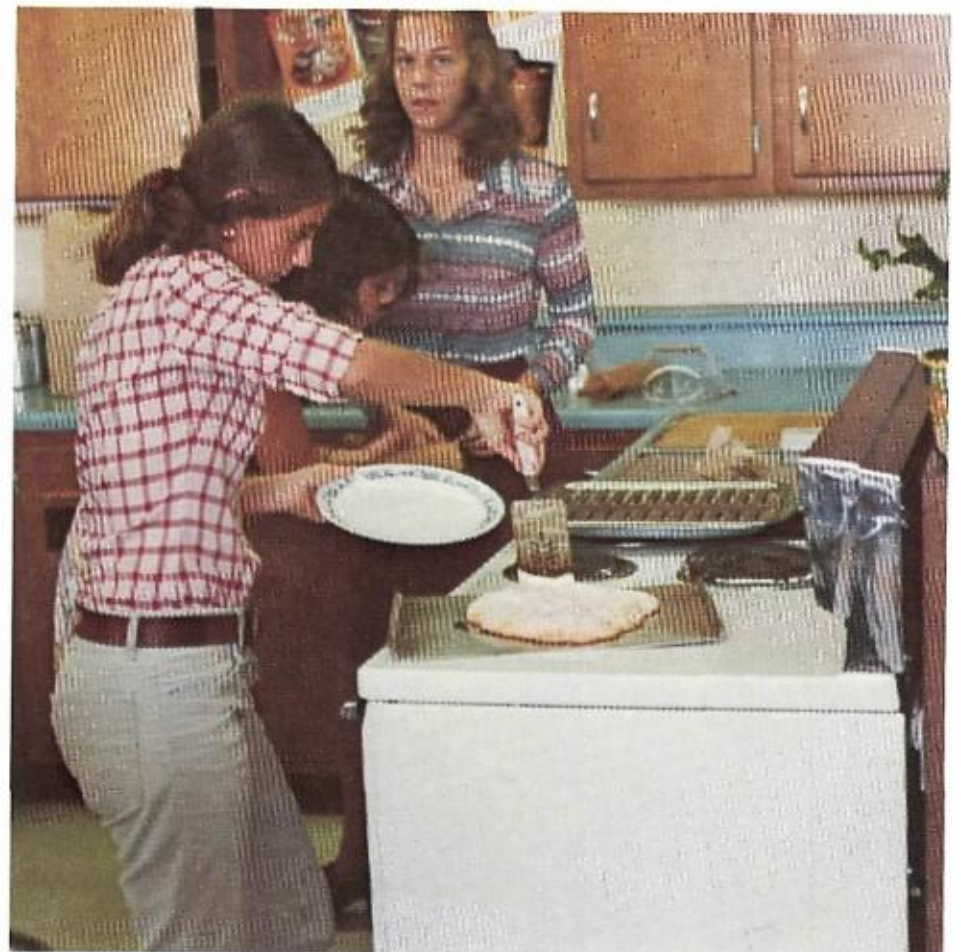

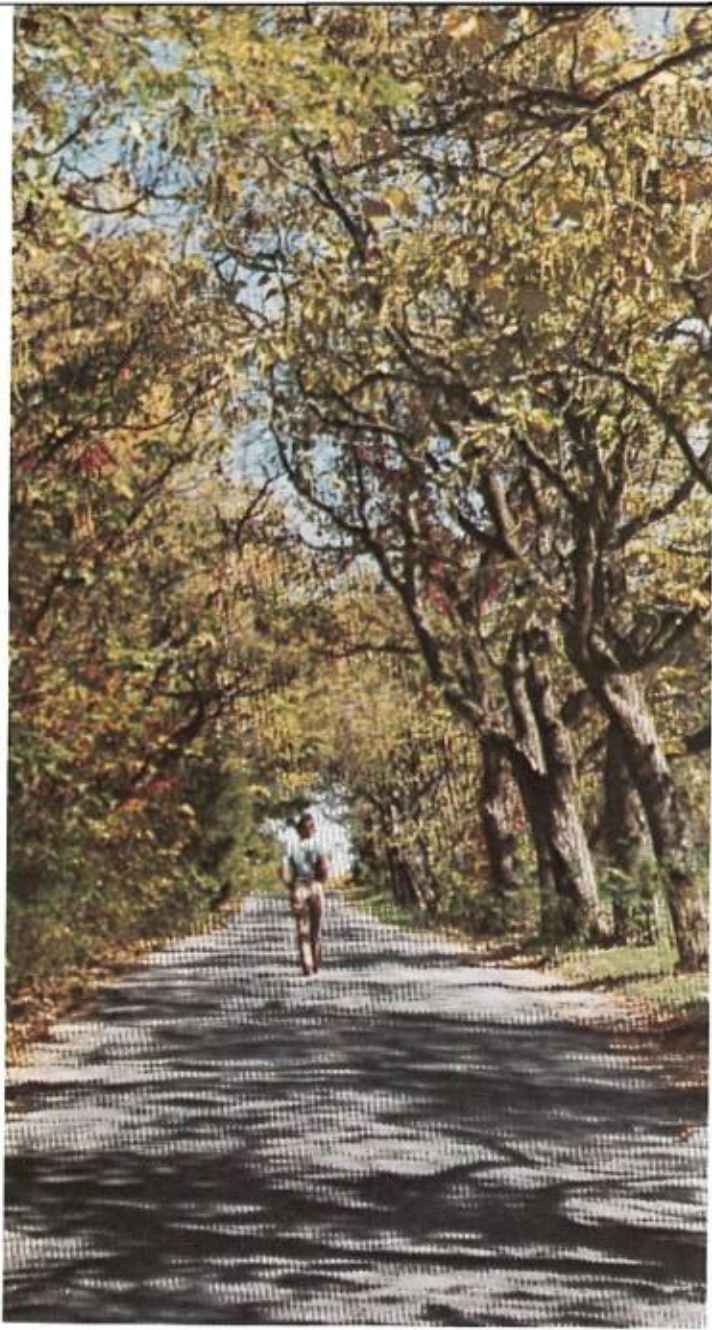

The length of our senior summary cannot be used to measure the value of our high school experience.
Our personalities are reflected in the activities we participate in, but are not defined by them.
Challenge is intangible,
for it is relative to the individual.
Although superficialities of success can be gauged,
we can only evaluate their importance according to our own standards.
We are recognized for athletic accomplishments,
academic excellence or dramatic talent.
Yet recognition is momentary, and doesn't constitute our true purpose to achieve.
What then, provides motivation?
What drives us to exert that extra effort?
What causes us to set goals beyond our reach,

East introduces us to a diversity of interests and activities.

By stressing involvement, school also encourages competition.

We learn to cope with the pressures of performance, tests, tryouts—

And with the disappointment of falling short of personal expectations.

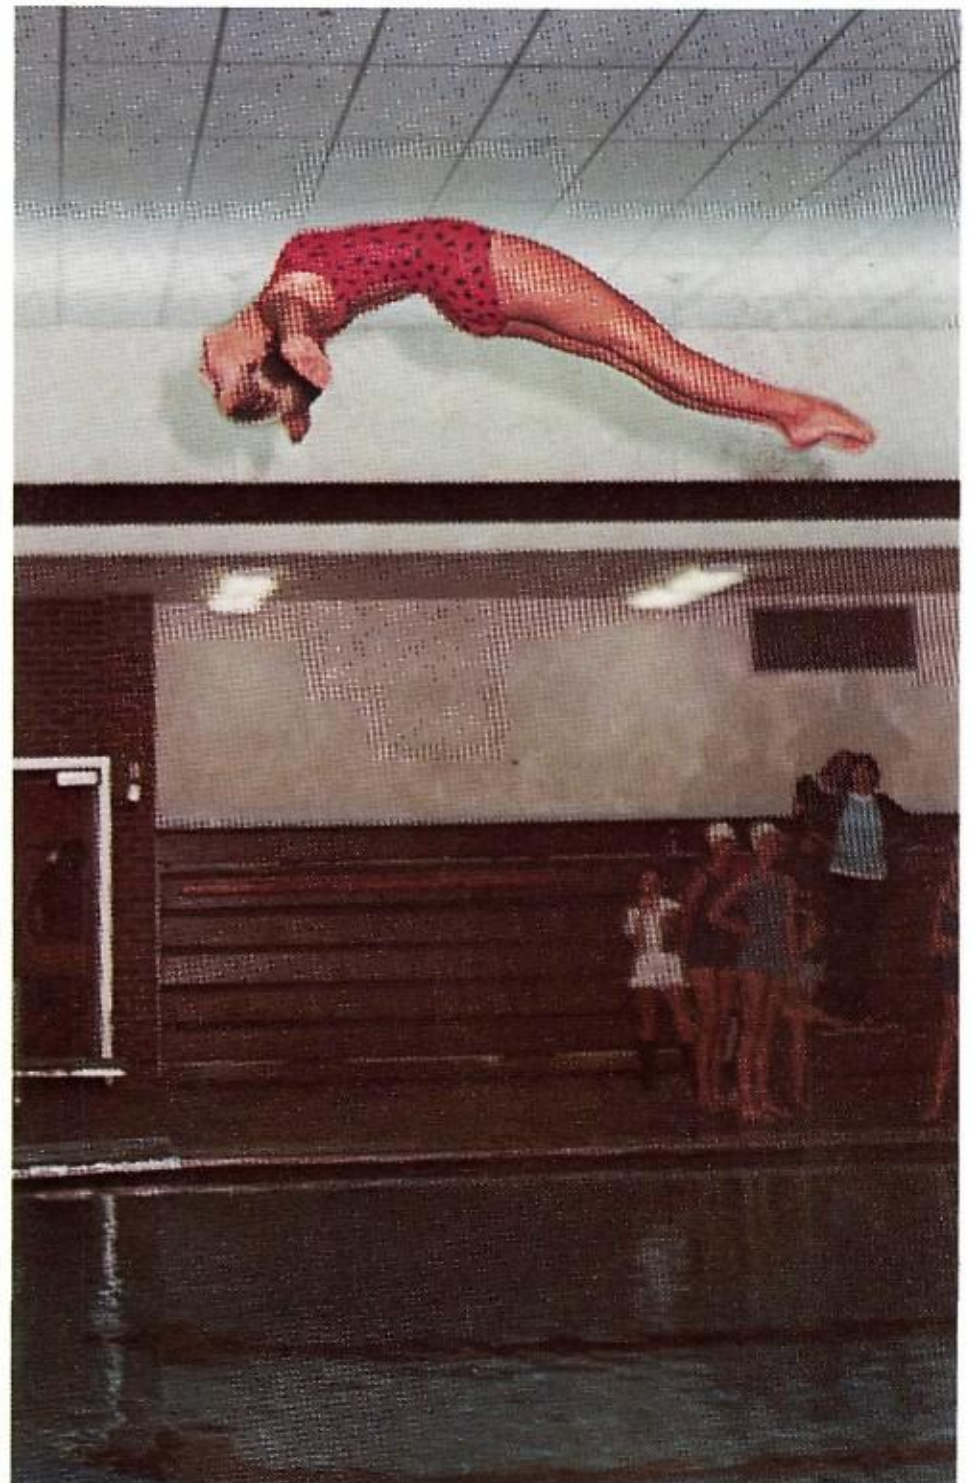

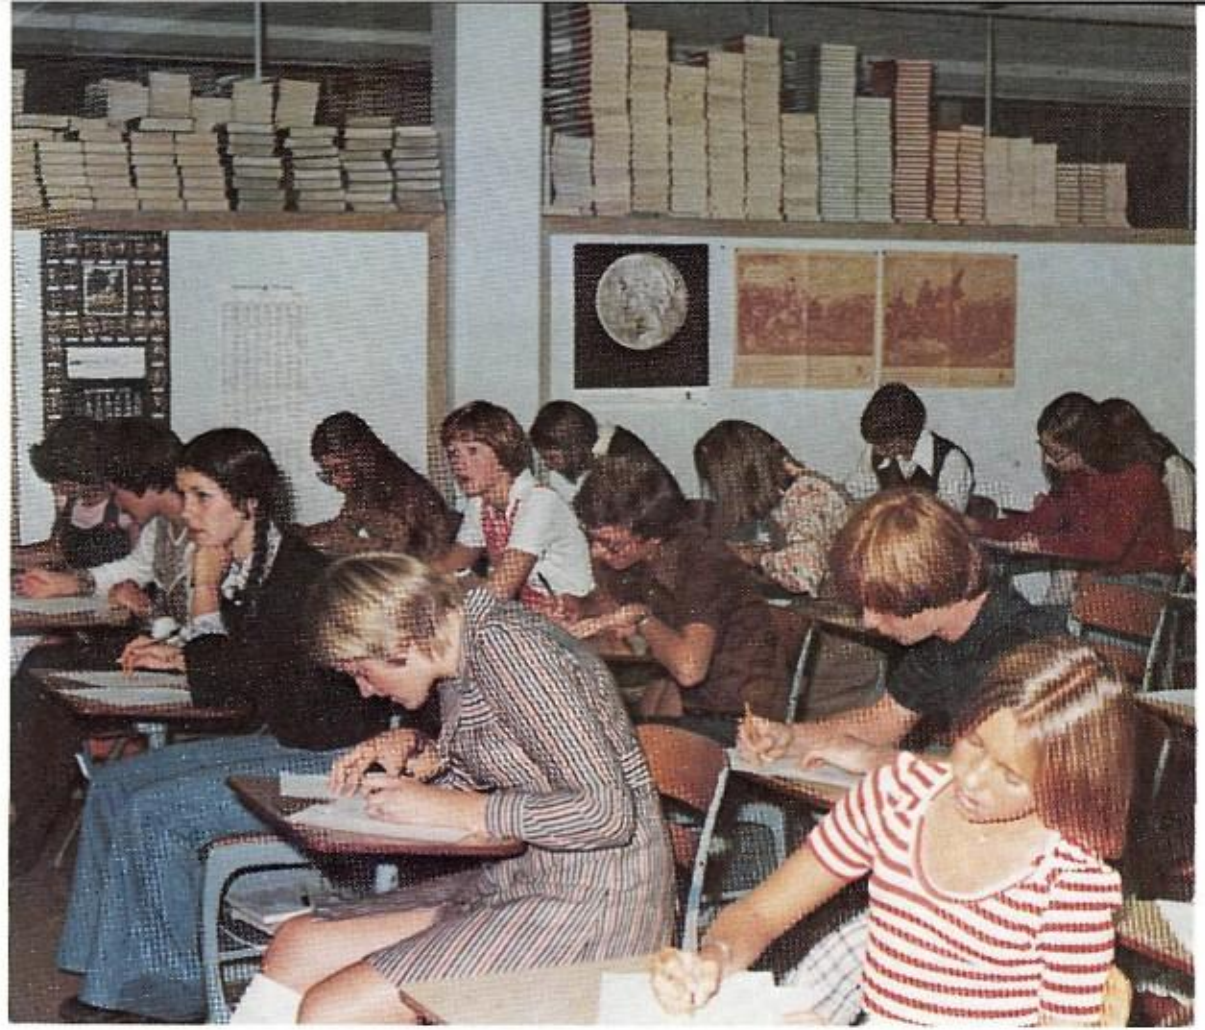

But challenge cannot be categorized into success and failure.

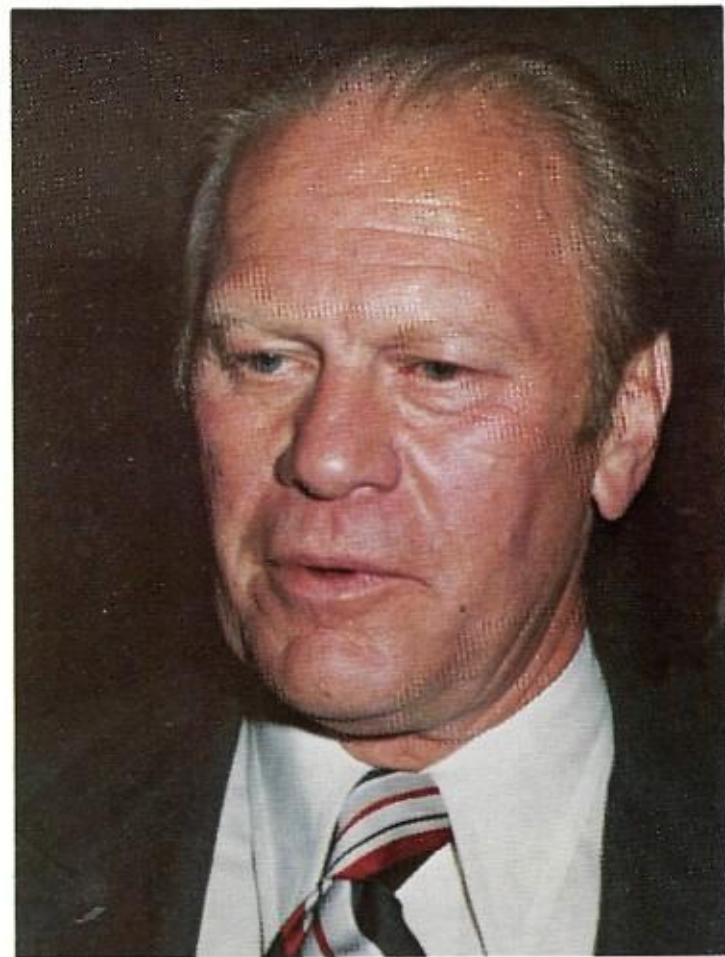

Not winning, doesn't necessarily indicate losing.

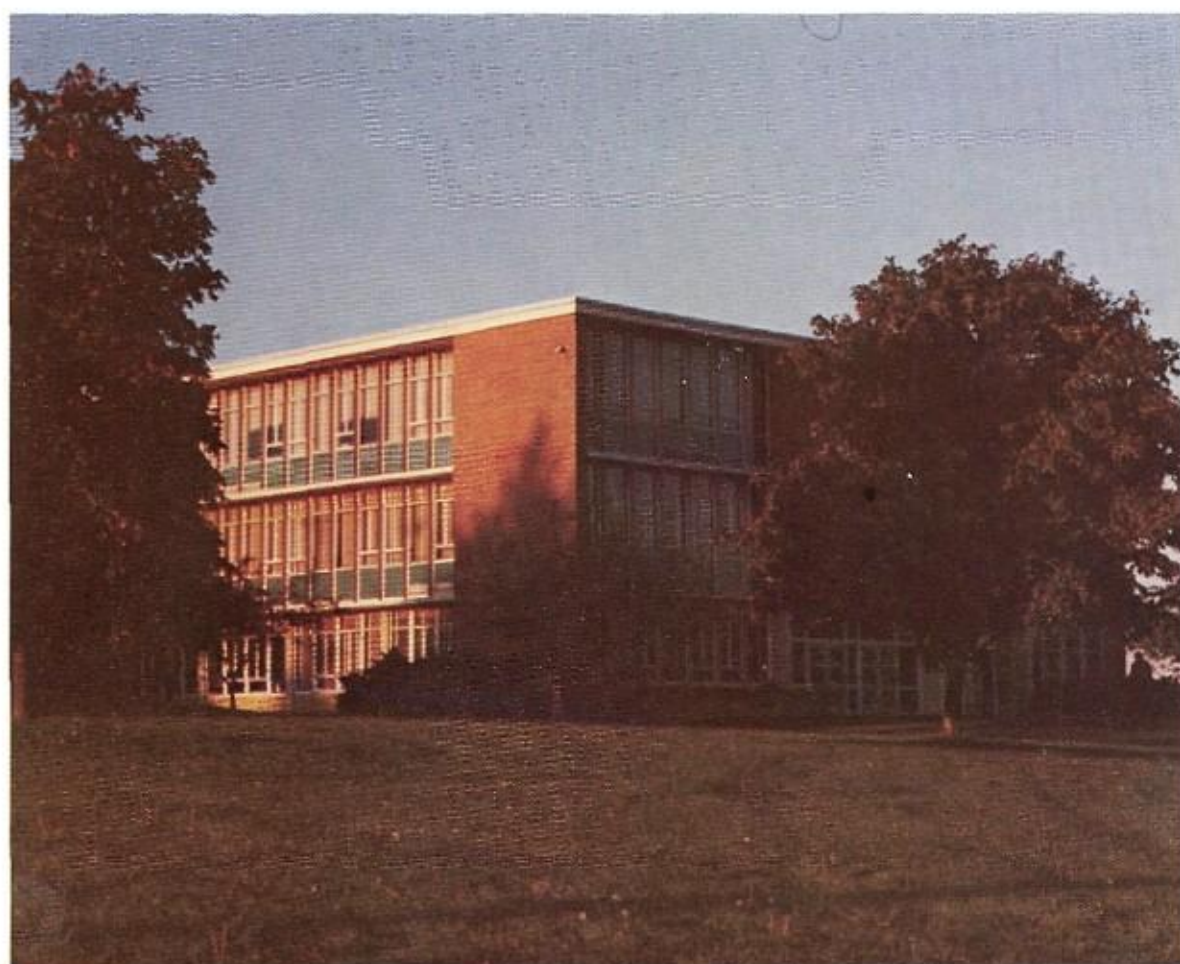

It's much easier to succeed at doing nothing, than fulfill high ideals.

To pursue a goal with determination, whether the effort be individual, or shared as a team, we must compensate for our shortcomings, not dwell on them.

To allow self-pity is succumbing to self-defeat.

The same principles of personal challenge pertain to a group, team, school, or country—but the determination and motivating force is generated by many.

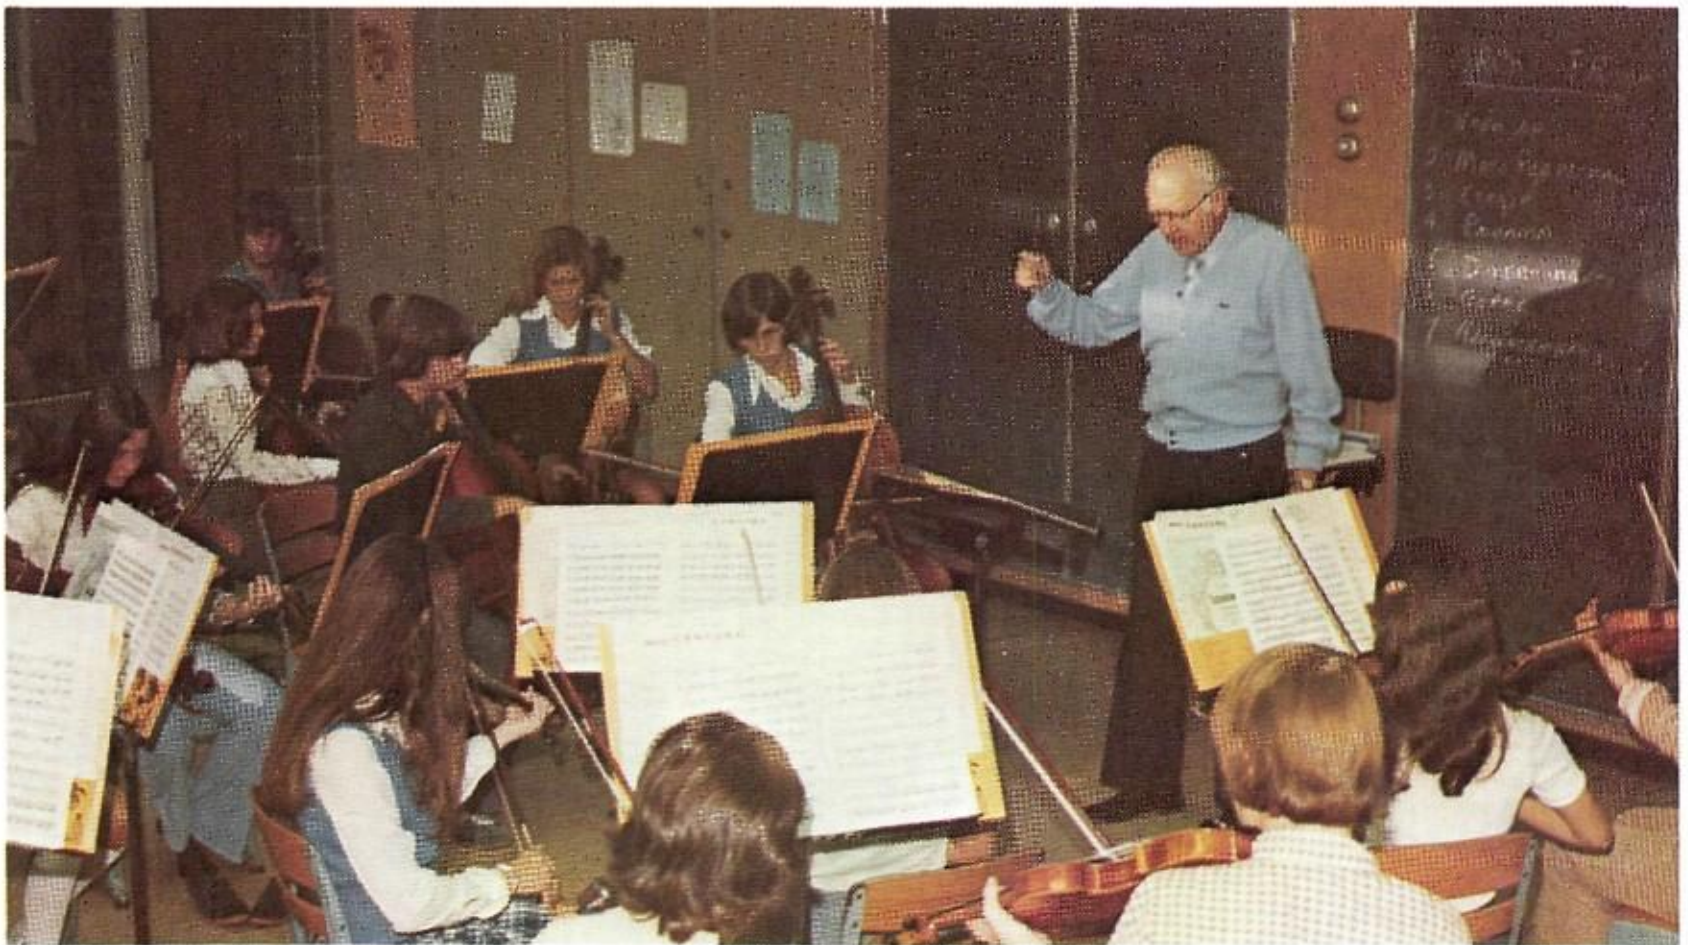

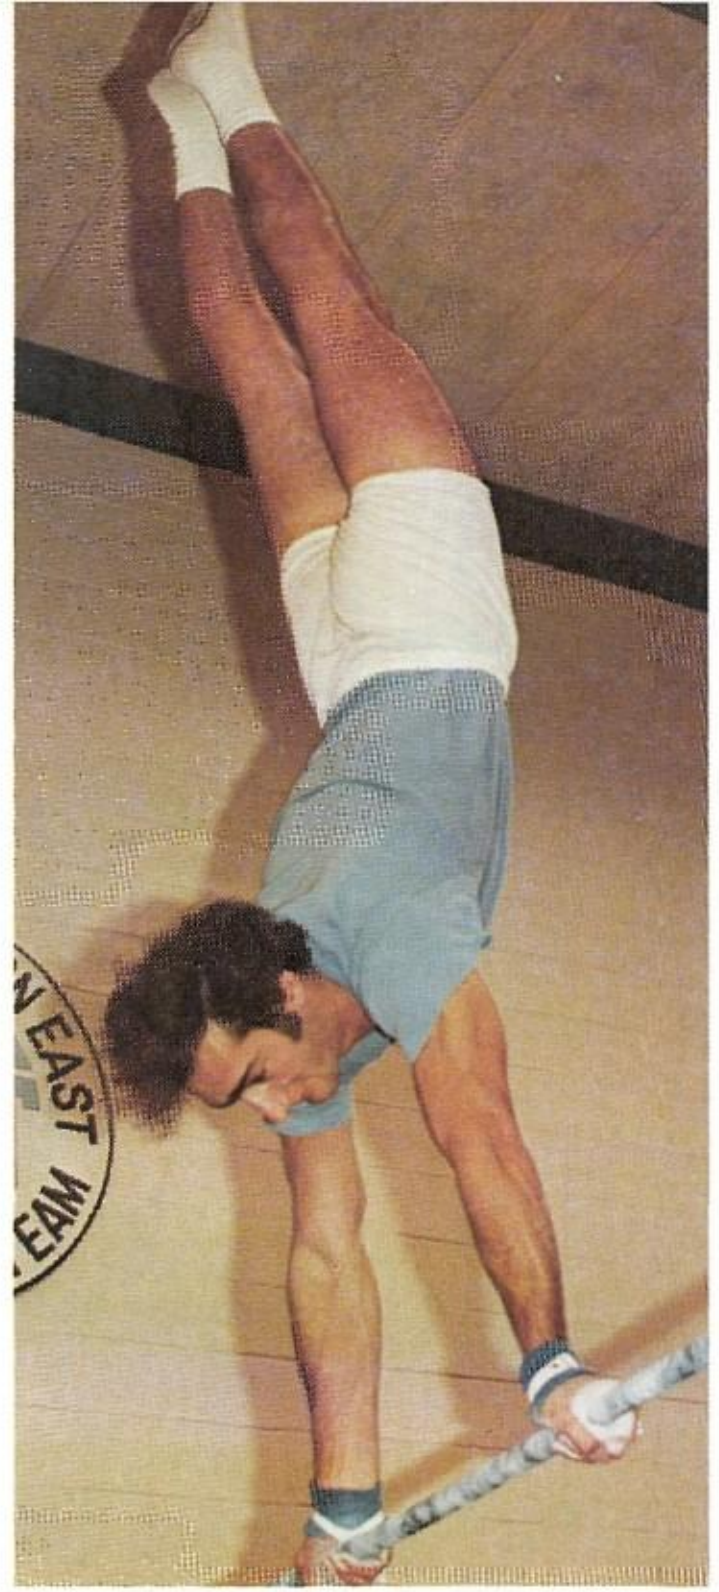

Unified by a cause, the combined efforts of individuals create a limitless reserve of sheer desire and willpower, capable of defying all odds.

This dedication to purpose that enables a football team to defeat their unbeaten rival—

Inspired thirteen colonies, two hundred years ago to unite against an adversary.

We begin to understand the meaning of camaraderie, the mutual sharing of setbacks and triumphs—

Whether the cause be a state championship or national liberty.

We enter high school, and are bewildered by a multitude of conflicting values.
 We experiment . . . seeking security by adopting the viewpoints of other.
 We allow our morality to be influenced by our peers.
 Yet we become dissatisfied with their inconsistencies of personality—and continue to search.
 Eventually, we detect the insecurities which are hidden by facades.
 We recognize our own lack of assurance, and learn to accept, not condemn it in others.
 And with this realization we awaken to our own self-worth.
 The development of individuality, not merely for the sake of being different,
 is perhaps the greatest challenge we face—
 and the least definitive.
 Although we are all asking ourselves the same question,
 Each one of us, alone, must determine the answer.

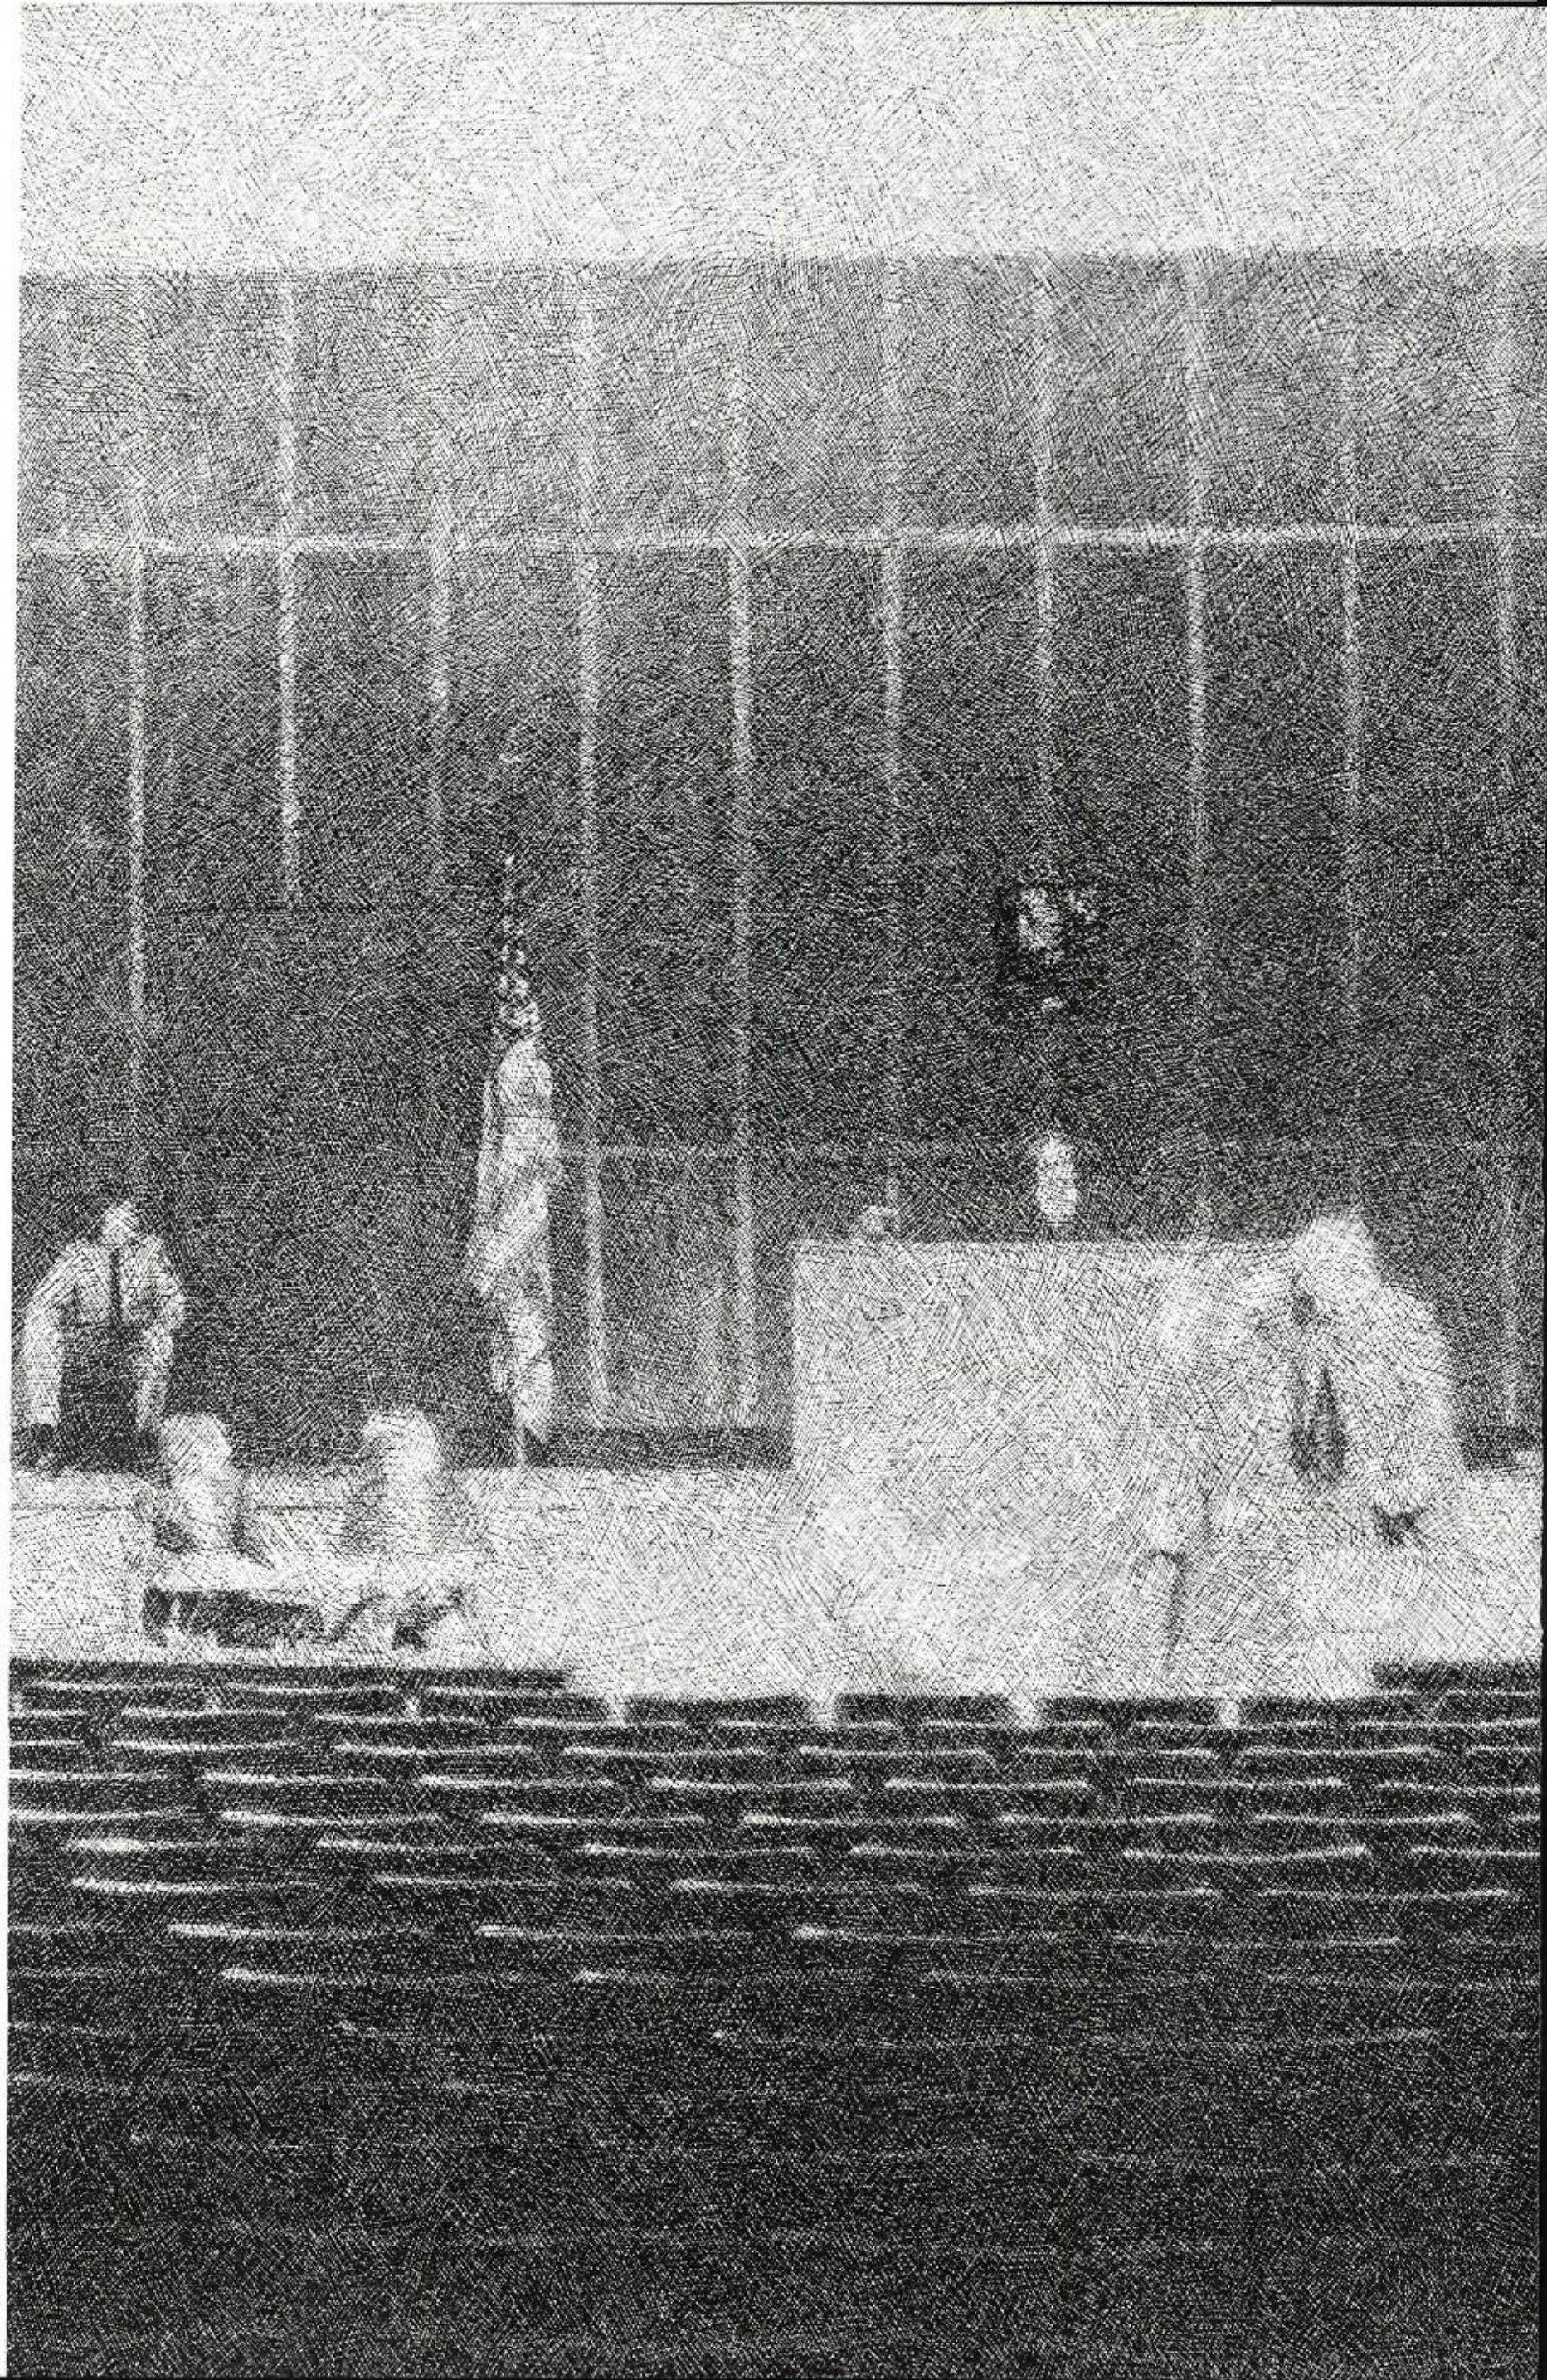

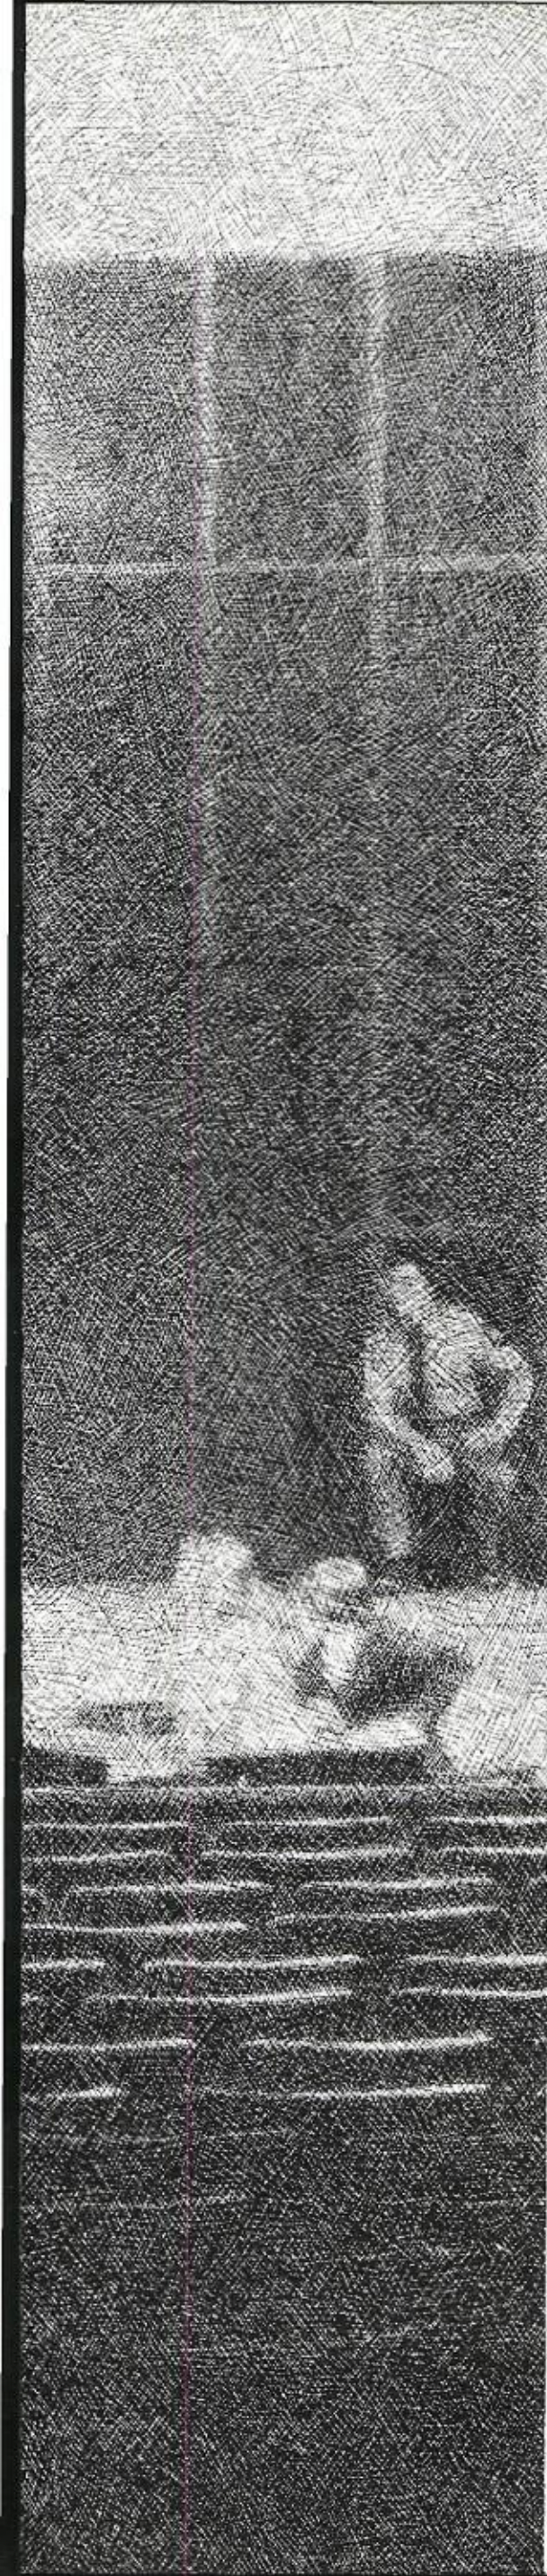

Graduation marks the end of our secondary education.
Yet it remains unreality, until suddenly,
 we are aware that time has run out.
We can do nothing to change what we have established as our high school memories.
Our experiences at East, unique to us,
 take on new meaning in retrospect.
Numerous crisis, emotional traumas, are seen in a different light, with the perspective that only time can grant.
This reflection on the past provokes questioning . . .
 Did I make the most of every encounter?
 Appreciate the value of honest friendship?
Did I represent my true character to others
 by the image I portrayed?
And no matter how we respond,
 a fact remains—
One period of our life is over forever.
From here, we must move onward—
 to new faces, a new environment,
 new challenges.
What we choose to take with us reflects
 what we will become.

Student Life

East offers a multitude of activities.
We are limited, and must decide what we deem most important.

Involvement forces us to set priorities.
Activities are demanding.

They require personal sacrifice:
of our energy, talent, and time.
Time for friends, to be alone.
Time for school.

Because for some, the word "school" conveys more than the drudgery of an eight to three routine.

School . . . activities . . . a learning process.

Opportunities to push ourselves to excel, to test our limits, to discover our weaknesses and capabilities.

Activities . . . realizing the implications of responsibility and commitment.

Outreach in Student Government

Listing a set of goals for the year was a major project for the 1975-76 Student Government. The government was broken into two branches: the Student/Faculty Coalition or legislative branch, and the Cabinet or executive branch. The Cabinet members were chosen by the officers, and the Coalition was composed of elected representatives, club representatives, interested patrons, and Cabinet members. The two branches functioned both separately and together, enabling projects to be approached more efficiently without sacrificing the number of people who could get involved.

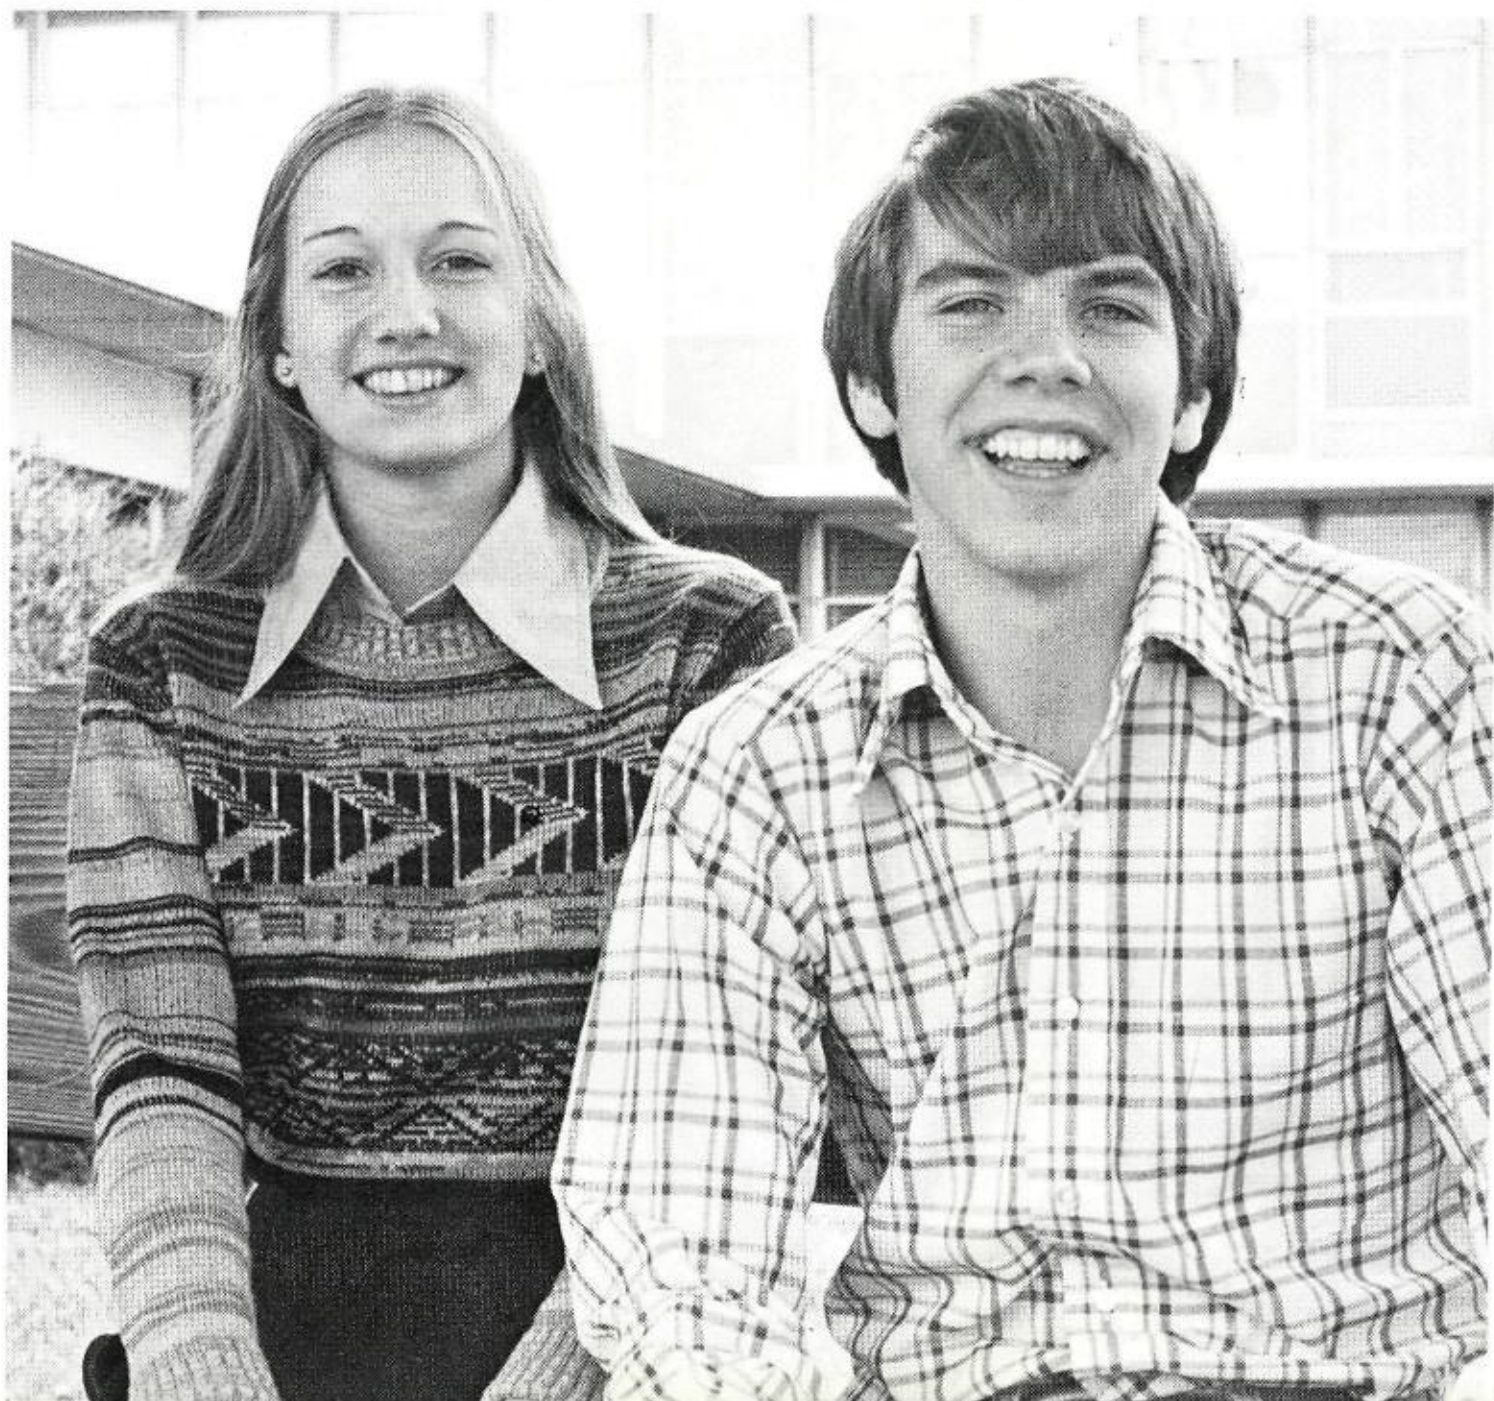

The Student Government broadened its range as it reached into areas such as Interschool Congress and Advisory Board. Representatives were sent to these other areas in an effort to involve the East Student Government in policy and decision making. A major breakthrough experienced was the Government's ability to publicly endorse School Board Candidates. In addition to political functions, Student Government also worked on a social level. Student Council projects included planning Homecoming, WPA's, and charities.

Those involved in Student Government learned such intangibles as leadership, responsibility, and cooperation. The personal satisfaction gained was merely a by-product of the members' efforts to make East superior.

Pep Club Spirit

This year, the girls' pep club loyally executed an abundance of S.M. spirit toward all school sponsored athletic events. Wearing new uniforms consisting of a "Lancer" plaid skirt topped with a blue sweater, each member faithfully attended and actively supported all of East's sport activities.

Meeting unfailingly every Monday after school were the members of the executive committee, Ann Catlett, Mary Clarke, Kitty Wilson, and Laurie Douglass. The smooth organization of pep club can be attributed to these officers. Pep Club, S.M. East's largest club, fulfilled many responsibilities such as: planning pep assemblies, painting signs to publicize events, awarding the miniature megaphone to the "Pepster-of-the-week", decorating goal posts, baking team treats and, above all, attending and supporting athletic activities.

Pep and spirit—that was SM East. Neither rain, snow, sleet nor hail could daunt the spirit of the girls' pep club. High spirits, syncopated chanting, and organized cheering were the inspirations that led to our Lancer victories.

Boys Stir-up Spirit

BOYS' PEP CLUB OFFICERS: Jeb Brown—Secretary, Bob Sperry—President, Scott Templeton—Treasurer. NOT PICTURED: Jim Putt—Vice President.

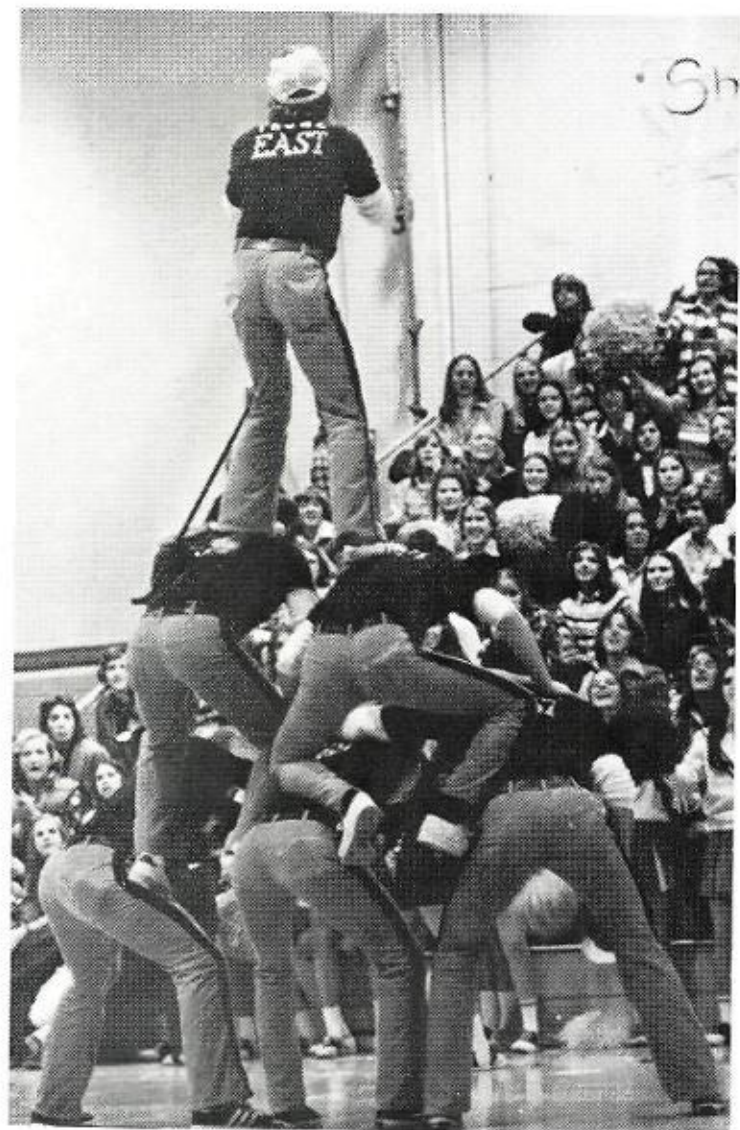

Through its spirited and sometimes unique form of enthusiasm the Boys' Pep Club contributed to the spirit of sports events and in doing so added a vital aspect to the games. Consisting of over 400 members, and led by Bob Sperry, president; Jim Putt, vice-president; Scott Templeton, treasurer; and Jeb Brown, secretary; the Boys' Pep Club tried to promote spirit and pride in the school and school activities.

All the stunts and humorous chants, performed in a spontaneous, casual manner by the yell leaders only presented one side of the Boys' Pep Club. At meetings, normally held on Fridays before games, a more serious side to the Club revealed itself. The officers, meeting with the yell leaders and Mr. David Wolff, sponsor, discussed and tried to decide upon the best ways that they could stimulate interest and enthusiasm for that particular game. They also tried to find ways to appeal not only to members of the Boys' Pep Club, but to everyone in the stands.

The Pep Club did not limit its activities to cheering at the games. It also worked on Pep Club assemblies with the Girls' Pep Club and contributed prize money for the winner of the Lancer Day Car Contest. In these ways the Boys' Pep Club tried to combine fun with the serious job of representing the school.

Thespians Promote Dramatic Arts

Honoring students for active participation in the field of dramatic arts, the International Thespian Society encouraged the advancement of high school theater. The motto, "act well your part, there all the honor lies," became a reality as new members were initiated in the spring. To have qualified for membership, one must have earned ten points by working on a minimum of two stage productions as a member of the cast or crew, or by participating in forensics tournaments. Thespian memberships came primarily from Actors' Studio, Repertory Theater, and the stagecraft classes.

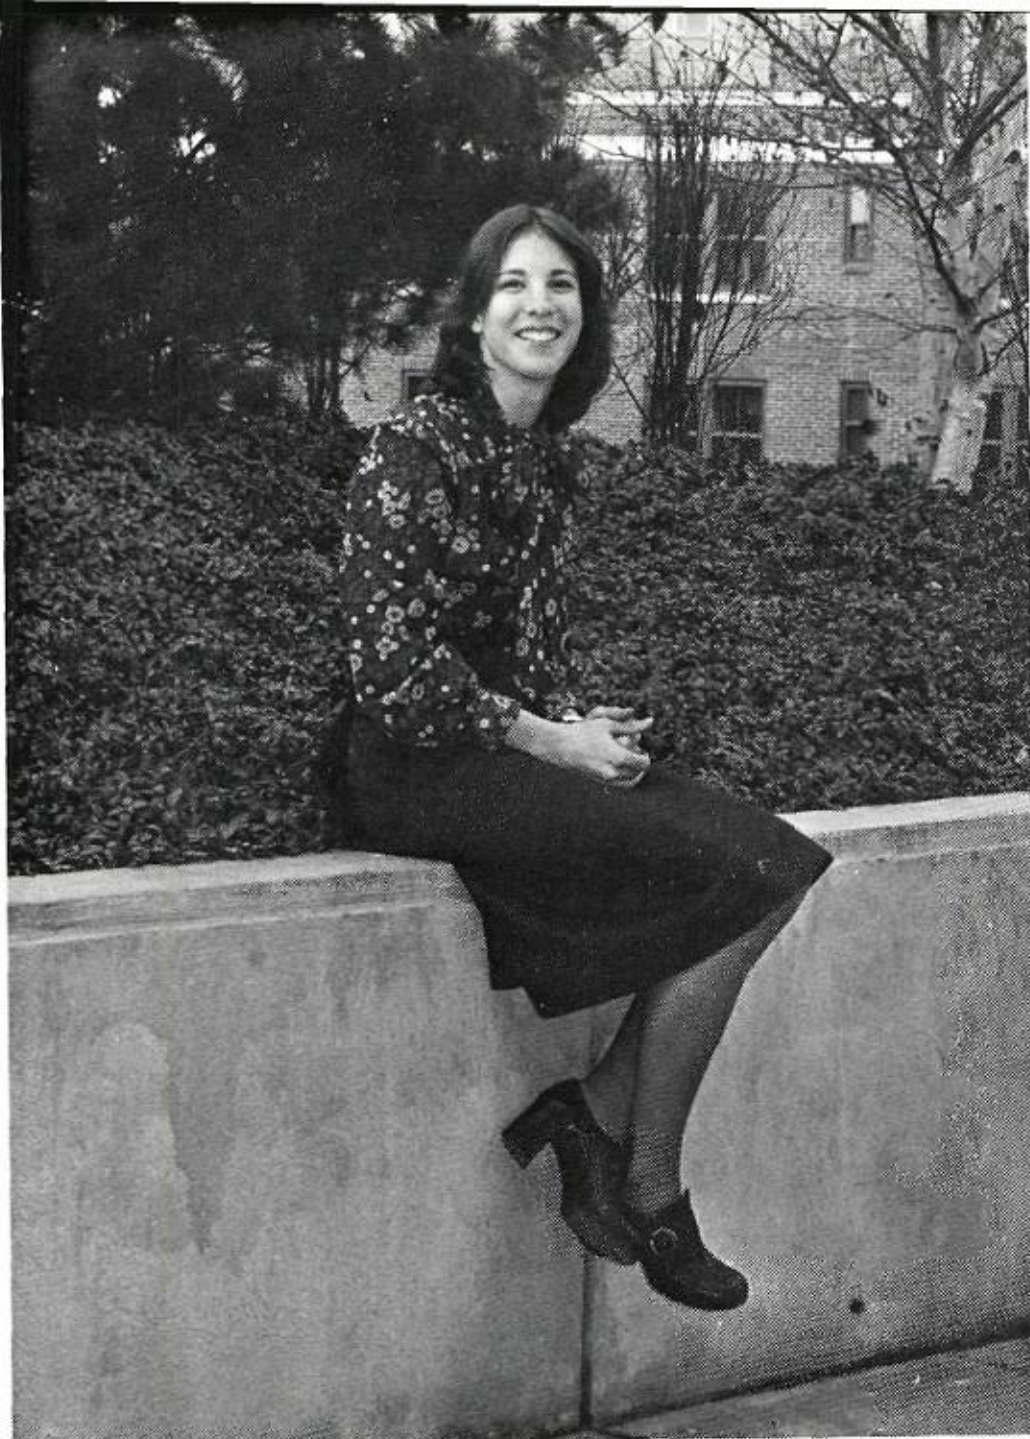

Thespians were also service-oriented. The selling of programs and concessions at football and basketball games filled not only their pocketbook, but also filled a need for responsible and dedicated people working at the games. In October, Thespians put on a tasty banquet for the "Up With People" cast members. Various workshops involving theatrical technique were attended by Thespians, also.

1976 HAUBERK AWARD WINNER: Kitty Wilson

Hauberk Award for Outstanding Senior

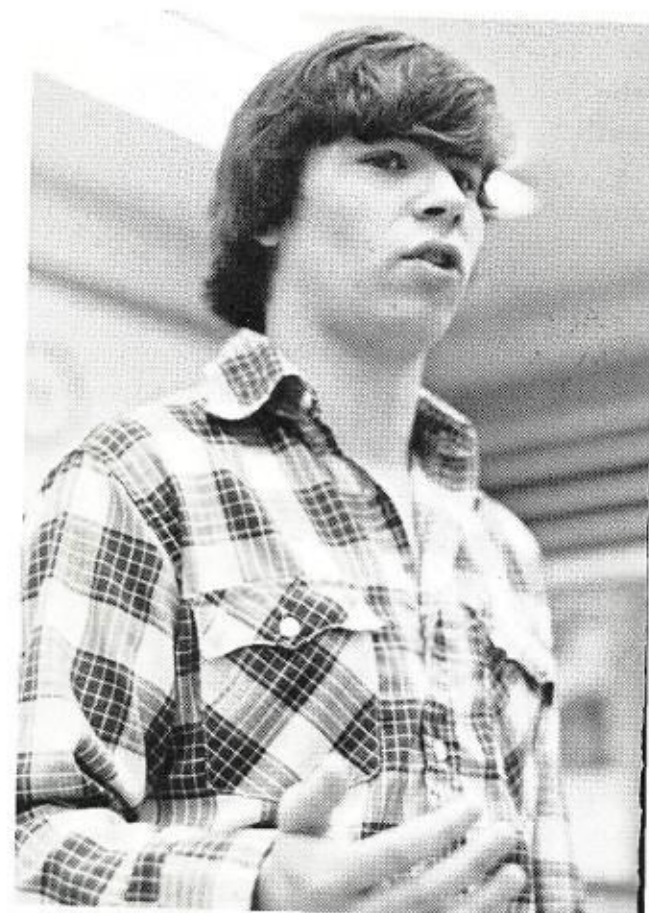

The Hauberk Award was presented to the one senior who, in the opinion of the student body, made the greatest contribution to East in his or her three years of high school. The Hauberk staff nominated ten seniors for the student body to vote on. The ten were Barbara Goolsbee, Al Ross, Linda Warwick, Mark O'Connell, Paul Redford, Bunny Porter, Kitty Wilson, Boyd Vereen, Nancy Whitehead, and Karen Majors. Contributions of the ten individuals included doing work for Student Government, having leading roles in East's theatrical productions, writing material for the three publications at East, and putting in many hours of work for various parts of Pep Club. Four of the nominees were National Merit Letter of Commendation winners and one was a National Merit Semifinalist. All were members of the National Honor Society. The total amount of time spent by these seniors making Shawnee Mission East an outstanding school mounted well into the thousands of hours. Anyone of these ten people could have been presented this award, but the students voted and chose Kitty Wilson to receive the 1976 Hauberk Award.

NFL Sparks Speakers

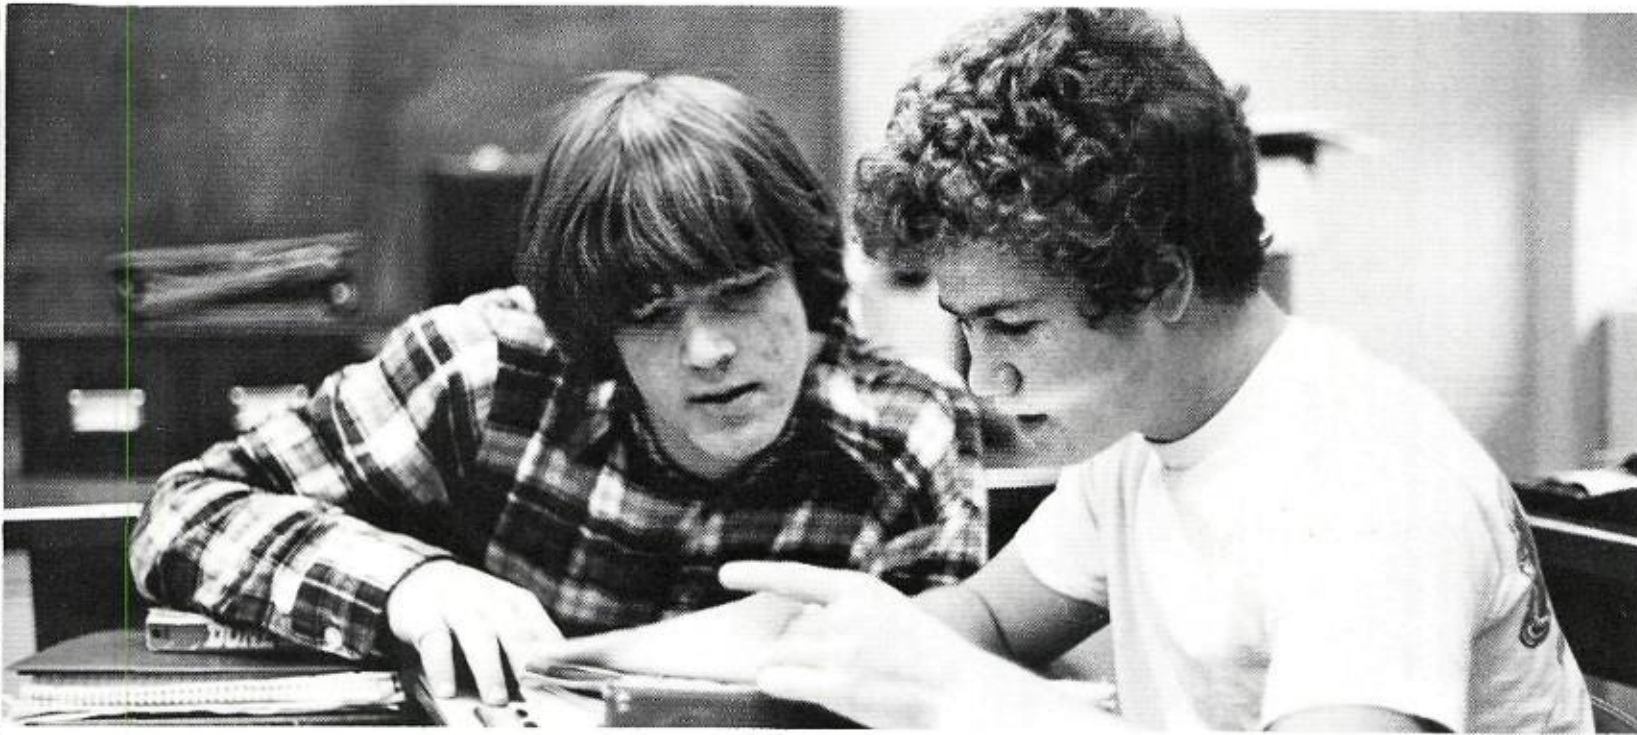

While many people consider talking in class to be wrong, the NFL honored students who wished to express themselves verbally. The National Forensics League, commonly known as the NFL, was an honorary society for students active in debate or forensics.

Students gained membership in the NFL after earning twenty points. Varying degrees of advancement were awarded to members when their NFL point totals reached a designated sum. Certificates and pins were used to recognize students as they reached these various levels of achievement. The NFL also sponsored state wide tournaments at the end of both the debate and forensic seasons. Any team or individual speaker winning first place in this state competition was eligible to enter the national NFL contests. These NFL tournaments were very important, for they provided debate and forensic students with a goal to work toward throughout the season.

The SM East chapter of the NFL has always been and continued to be strong this year. Under the guidance of teachers Larry Brown, Eldon Evans, and Bryce York, the student executive committee organized and directed the SM East debate and forensics tournaments. These tournaments were two of the largest held in Kansas.

Journalist Award

Quill and Scroll, a national honorary society was established to honor high school students exhibiting outstanding interest and participation in Journalism. Students working on either the newspaper or yearbook staffs were eligible for nomination if recommended by Harbinger advisor Mr. Robert Dillon or Hauberk advisor Mrs. Linda Thomson.

Quill and Scroll honored journalism students active in a broad sense. Eligibility was not limited to those students writing for the publications. Students involved in other phases of journalism, such as management, editing, or production, were also eligible. Other membership requirements stipulated that all candidates be either a sophomore having completed the first semester, junior, or senior, ranking in the top third of their class. After meeting the requirements for nomination, final approval for membership was granted by the executive secretary of the society.

Students who were accepted by the society were honored at an initiation ceremony held in the spring. All members also received a charm or pin and a year's subscription to the Quill. It is hoped that membership in the society encouraged further participation in Journalism.

Government in Action

June is traditionally the month in which selected high school students from across Kansas assemble at the University of Kansas to participate in Boys' and Girls' State. The two one-week sessions, sponsored by the American Legion, enabled students to study and practice the concepts and principles of democracy.

In separate sessions, boys and girls were assigned at random to an imaginary city and county. The "citizens" of each community engaged in party politics and were divided equally into Nationalist and Federalist parties. Those who were interested in campaigning for elective offices circulated petitions to qualify themselves as candidates for the primary election. The winners from each party then competed in a general election to decide the political officials.

After the political vacancies were filled, students formed "mock" governments and discussed the current issues and passed legislation concerning education, tax reform, welfare, and crime.

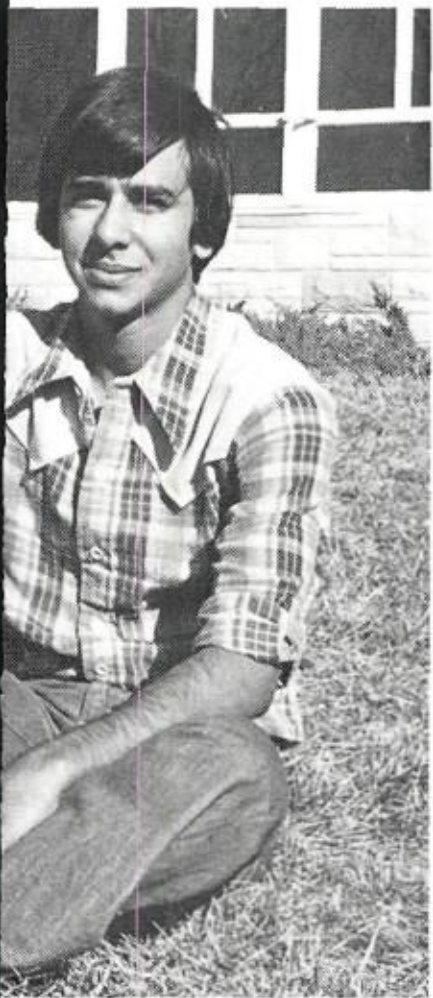

Boys' and Girls' State was a learning experience that did not require teachers or textbooks. Knowledge concerning state government was obtained first-hand.

NMSQT Rewards 34

Over one million seniors entered the 1976 National Merit Scholarship program by taking the 1974 PSAT/NMSQT test. As a result of these tests taken in October of their junior year, nine East seniors earned the rank of National Merit Semifinalist. These semifinalists represented the top half of one percent of the nation's most academically talented young people. They continued in the competition by advancing to finalist standing, which was determined by strength of character, outstanding academic records, and endorsements from the faculty. All winners of the early four thousand merit scholarships were chosen from the highly able group of finalists.

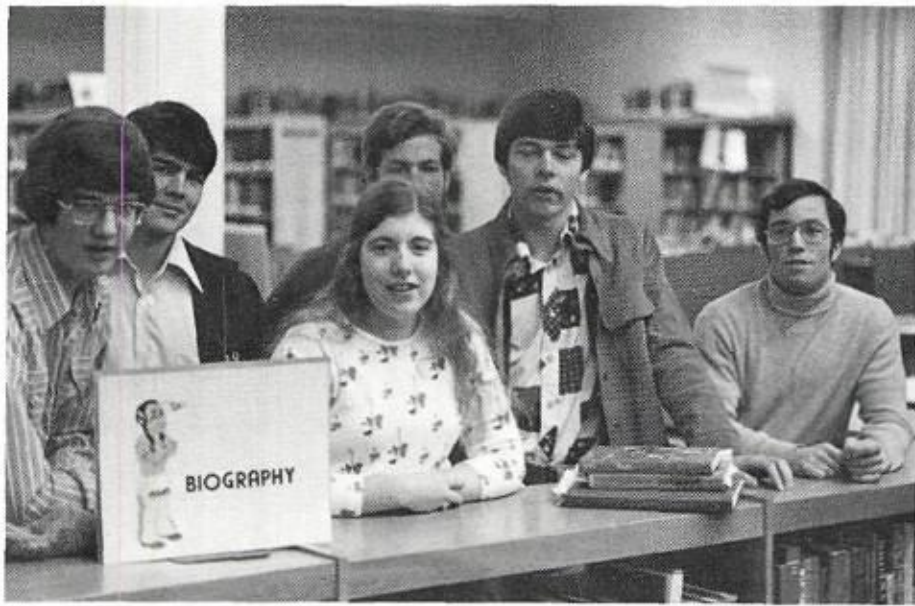

Letters of commendation were awarded to twenty-five students with scores ranking in the upper two percent of the nationwide class. Although not allowing them to compete in the scholarship program, the twenty-five letters of commendation received by East seniors indicate that acknowledgement has been given to these individually outstanding young people. During nearly twenty years of SME participation in the merit program, over 250 students from East have been National Merit Finalists.

Honor and Recognition

The National Honor Society recognized students who displayed outstanding achievement in the areas of character, leadership, service, and scholarship. The election process, which occurred in the spring, allowed the faculty to rate eligible juniors and seniors who had been in their class or sponsored activity. A 3.0 grade point average or better constituted the criterion for NHS consideration, however, selection was determined by personal qualities as well as scholastic performance.

The newly elected National Honor Society candidates were initiated into the organization at Honors and Awards night. The current members presented an impressive candlelighting ceremony, expounding upon the character components of a NHS student.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Barbara Vogt, faculty advisor, and the four society officers, the group expanded their responsibilities. Although designated primarily as an honorary position, NHS sought to become actively involved in SM East projects. Recognition attained by election to the National Honor Society encouraged citizenship and personal achievement.

Self-expression

The Labyrinth, Shawnee Mission East's literary magazine, was a creative outlet for expressive students at SM East. The magazine was published each quarter and contained artwork, essays, poetry, editorials, and short stories. Led by editor Martha Reed, and sponsored by Mrs. Nora Lamkin, the Labyrinth was labeled a "wide open magazine." With no definite structural format, the magazine served as a medium for the student with literary or artistic talent. The Labyrinth staff met regularly throughout the school year to work on layouts, distribution, and themes that the staff felt were relevant to students: religion, love, death, and politics.

Subscriptions solicited at the beginning of the year provided the Labyrinth staff with necessary financial support. The over all contribution of Labyrinth resulted in self-expression being used by the student body. Each of the four issues was greeted with enthusiasm and interest.

“Whats New” Is News

Students lounging on benches in the front hall while reading the Harbinger were a common sight on Friday afternoons. The Harbinger was the weekly newspaper produced by the Journalism II classes. The newspaper served two purposes. First, it provided journalism students with a working opportunity to write and compose a paper. This was done in the belief that students will learn through experience. Secondly, it informed and entertained the student body, faculty, and subscribing alumni who read it.

Many aspects of production were combined to produce the Harbinger in its finished form. Each of these vital phases was the result of a specific staff's hard work. The news staff reported extracurricular, academic, and community involvements and events which pertained to SM East. The sports staff was responsible for equal coverage of all school-connected sports. Entertaining and amusing articles were the outcome of the features staff's energies. Photographs, cartoons, and other drawings which were provided by the photographers and artists, enhanced the news stories and features. The business end of production was handled by the advertising and circulation staffs. The ad staff sold and composed ads and the circulation staff was responsible for delivering the paper. The total staff was guided by Mr. Robert Dillon.

Annual Bears Memories

Besides providing entertainment at the end of the year, the Hauberk tried to recapture the essence of life at SM East, to hold memories for many years to come.

The staff, led by Mrs. Linda Thomson, sponsor, and Linda Warwick, editor, met seventh hour everyday to produce the yearbook. Due to the diversity required in production of the yearbook, the large staff was divided into smaller groups, each being responsible for one specific area. The literary and sports staffs were responsible for reporting the activities of classes, clubs, special interest groups, and sports. All the copy written by the literary and sports staffs was then typed on copy sheets by the studio/production staff. The numerous photographs and artwork appearing throughout the yearbook were the results of the photography and art staffs' labors. The plans for each individual page were mapped out by the design staff. The ad staff handled the financial end of production. They sold advertisements to subsidize the budget allotted by the district. All of these staffs followed a strict schedule dictated by printing deadlines and were coordinated by Linda Warwick.

Although the staffs each worked separately in their particular field, the culminated efforts resulted in a yearbook which focused around one central theme. By viewing the school year as a series of challenges to be met and conquered, the Hauberk staff worked to create a yearbook which would serve as a meaningful reminder of high school days.

Cheers to Lancers

The Varsity, Chant Squad, Junior Varsity, and Sophomore Cheerleaders dedicated time and energy to achieve a goal—active support and enthusiasm for Lancer athletics. At least one of the four squads was represented at every sports event throughout the year. Attending football games, wrestling matches, gymnastics meets, and basketball tournaments constituted but one area of cheerleading responsibility. In addition to supplying "team treats" the girls devoted countless hours of practice to perfecting cheers, chants and formations, with the objective to encourage SM East spirit.

The Varsity squad, chosen in the spring, proved superior at a competitive camp. Returning with a spirit stick, five blue ribbons, and the highest honor—the "spark plug" award, the girls upheld a high standard of Lancer excellence. The Chant Squad, Junior Varsity and Sophomore squads, selected in September, shared the enthusiasm and dedication of Lancer cheerleaders.

TEE-PEE the INDIANS

Larry Lancer performs at a Pep Assembly.

SME Pep Was Fired Up

Lancer spirit was ignited at home basketball games and pep assemblies by the Heralders and the Mascot in a traditional opening ceremony. In addition, this year the Heralders enhanced football half-times and parades by carrying the SME banner. Headed by Ann Matthes, these beautifully poised and spirited girls also performed opening ceremonies for the new girls' basketball games and escorted parents at many Lancer functions. The Heralders, costumed in black bloomers and white lace, were the symbol of Lancer ceremony. Their uniform depicts the spirit of the pages in Medieval times where the Lancer always fought for victory.

A secret identity and an exuberant personality were the characteristics of "Sir Larry Lancer," the Shawnee Mission East school mascot. Several girls' pep club members, after a try-out last fall, received the honor of wearing the shining coat of armor at all home basketball games. The mascot aided the Varsity Cheerleaders by boosting school pep and enthusiasm. Although the identity of "Larry Lancer" will never be revealed, the spirited personality will never be forgotten.

Synchronettes Perform, Flag Team Added

Top quality performances and number one ratings were characteristic of the 1975-76 Synchronettes. Composed of a select group of junior and senior girls, the Synchronettes delighted spectators at football and basketball games with clever dance steps which were highlighted by dazzling smiles. Under the guidance of a new sponsor, Mrs. Eileen McDonald, the Synchronettes, along with the band, flag team, and majorettes, proved that East was number one by being the only Shawnee Mission School to receive two number one ratings. Thirty girls responded to the whistles of captain Lorie Kuchem during performances which included the American Royal Parade, a Chiefs' halftime show, and the Lancer Day Parade.

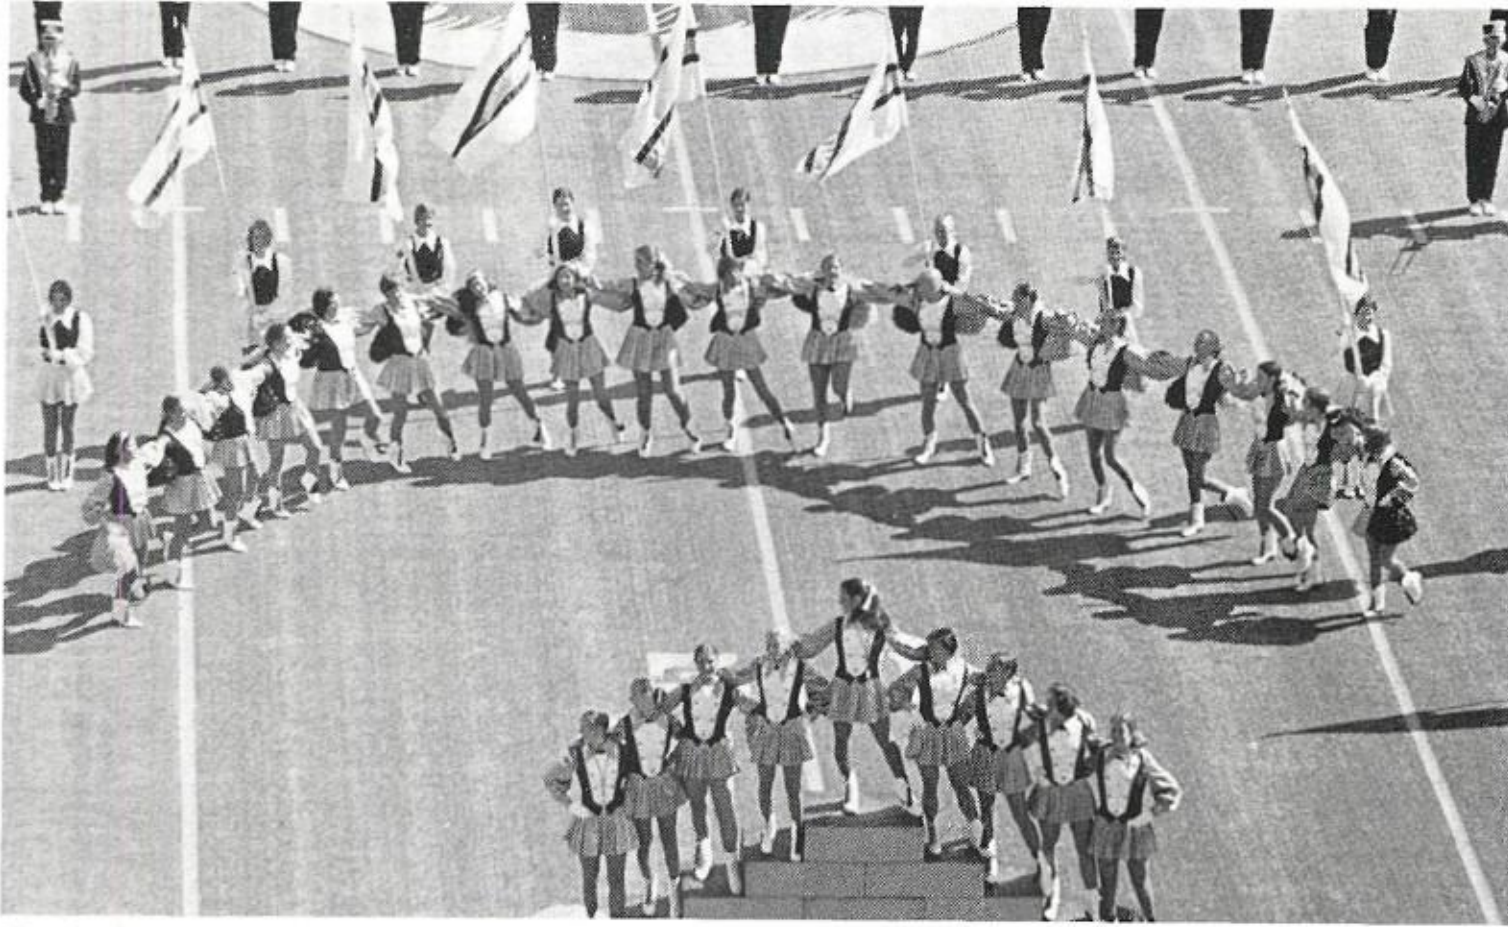

A new addition to East this year was the flag team. Consisting of energetic sophomore girls and led by captain Tricia Venable, the squad performed alongside the drill team at football games and parades. A by-product of both the flag team's and drill team's work was the friendships that were made, and the memories that will always be shared.

Homecoming 1975 'Color My World'

Kristy Koerper's world was indeed colored as she was crowned the 1975 Homecoming Queen during halftime ceremonies October 10. Her court included Beth Morton, first attendant; Kitty Wilson, second attendant; Elaine Lloyd, third attendant; and Nancy Fenn, fourth attendant.

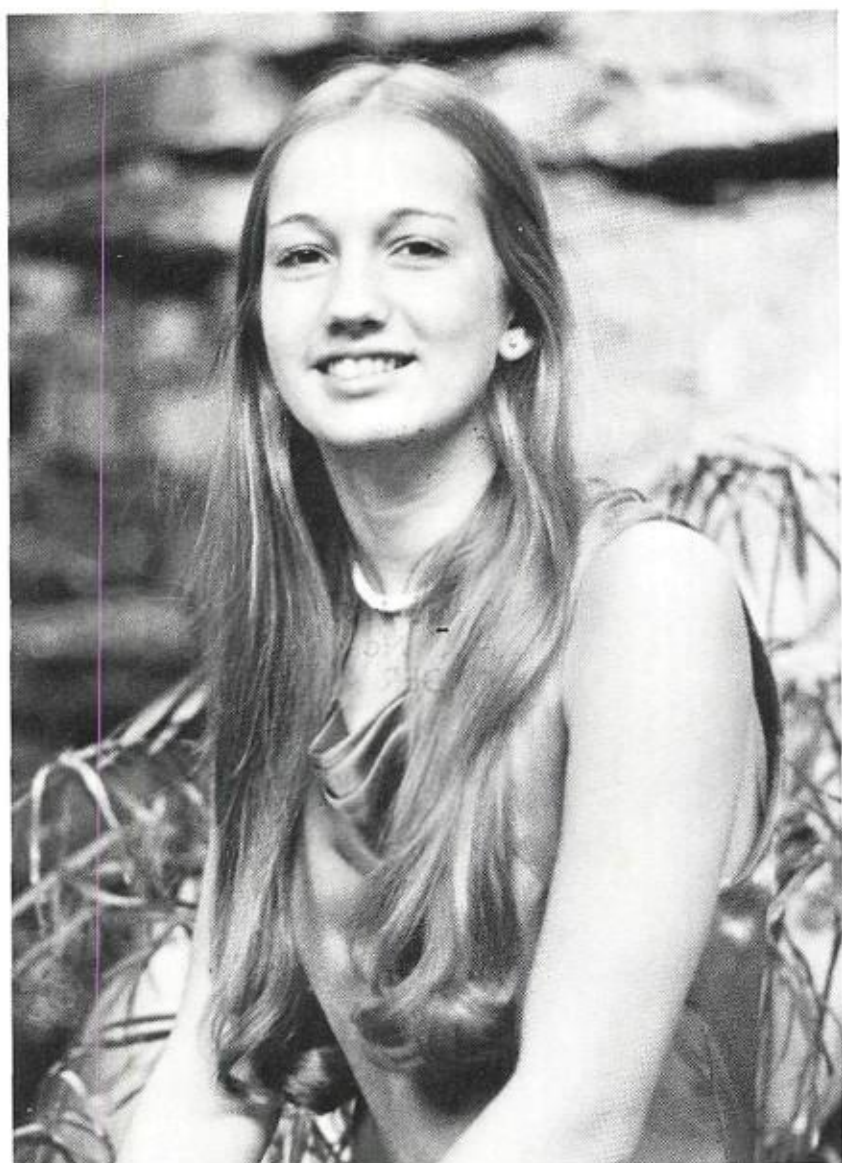

The queen and her attendants arrived sitting upon a painter's palette float to coincide with the theme, 'Color My World.' The Homecoming Court was brought out in several cars that were driven by members of the Boys' Pep Club. As Mrs. Kim Hunter, Girls' Pep Club sponsor, emceed the ceremonies, the fifteen finalists were escorted onto the field by their fathers. Vicki Fowler, the 1974 Homecoming Queen, crowned Kristy. The band played as the float made its way around the track, bringing warm applause from the many SME spectators and alumni that were present for the occasion.

The following evening, a dance sponsored by STUCO was held in honor of the queen and her court. Couples danced to music played by a local disc jockey, while good ol' fashioned apple cider was served. A fall motif was chosen as the theme of the dance, and the courtyard was decorated with jack-o'-lanterns.

Gina Graves Selected As Winter Sweetheart Queen

Red hearts, long-stemmed roses, glittering crowns, happy smiles, and tears of joy were all present at the half-time of the East-Topeka game. February thirteenth was the date of this spectacular event and the purpose was the coronation of the 1976 Winter Sweetheart, Gina Graves. The Boys' Pep Club officers crowned Gina and her attendants: Prue Hearst, first attendant; Janice Jensen, second; Lorie Kuchem, third; and Laura Stack, fourth attendant. The royal court included Laura Brown, Kelly Burke, Ann Catlett, Laurie Douglas, Cam Gallehugh, Linda Griffith, Barb Goolsbee, Sara Jones, Kim McNellis, and Bunny Porter. These girls, all clad in shades of pink, red, or white and carrying a single long-stemmed rose, enhanced the memorial Valentine theme. The fifteen candidates were escorted through the traditional Synchronette aisle onto the basketball floor where the queen and her court were announced. Following the game, the royal court attended a candle-lit dance presented in honor of the candidates.

Juniors use their carpentry skills to construct Prom.

Prom Up, Up and Away

"Around the world in eighty days? It's impossible!"

"Nothing is impossible," declares Phileas Fogg, who sets out to prove this in Jules Verne's masterpiece, AROUND THE WORLD IN EIGHTY DAYS.

Since early November, juniors had been painting and pounding Prom 1976 into shape, which brought to life the travels and adventures of Fogg and Passepartout, the Latin Don Juan of all trades. Led by the junior class officers, twenty-four prom chairmen and their committees devoted endless hours to the planning and construction of the May 8 prom.

Emerging from a small library where they were introduced to the story, prom-goers began their travels in London at the exclusive Reform Club, where Fogg wagered he could travel around the world in eighty days. From there, they toured through Europe, seeing the dikes and windmills of The Netherlands, and visiting France and Spain. In Paris, couples were able to have portraits sketched of themselves at a sidewalk cafe. The band, TOTAL ECLIPSE, rested while couples sat down in a Spanish nightclub and watched flamenco dancing. Proceeding to India, one saw the Taj Mahal and glimpses of the natives at work. In Japan, kimono-clad geishas served tea and provided a unique dance in an intimate teahouse. A south pacific island was visited before couples continued on to America, where their journeys ended at a small-town train station.

Perhaps more important than the dance itself, prom provided many happy moments for all the juniors that became involved with it.

Half Time Showmanship

The excitement of Lancer home football games was intensified by the drum majors and drum majorettes in their spirited half time performances. These dedicated Lancers spent many long hours working and preparing entertaining programs for home football fans.

Drum majors, René Bollier and Jackie Harper, proudly led Shawnee Mission East's Marching Band in all performances. Not only did these talented Lancers entertain, they also acted as tempo and march directors for the band. A good drum major is one necessity required for a successful band. For this reason, the band held competitive try-outs to select the drum majors.

Coordination, talent and smiles were the characteristics of the SM East majorettes. Headed by Andrea Waxman, these skilled girls created baton twirling routines and dances executed in time to the band's music and adhered to the Drill Team's routines. The majorettes and drum majors enlivened the Lancer spirit at home football game half times and parades.

The Shawnee Mission East bands and orchestra enjoyed sharing their talents with a number of audiences this past school year.

Devoting one class period each day to rehearsal, the Concert Band and Marching Band practiced for upcoming performances. Both consisting of the same members, the band took to its feet during the football season and established an outstanding record of performances. Under the direction of René Bollier and Jackie Harper, drum majors, the SME Marching Band performed in various parades and during halftimes at the home football games. The marching season came to a climax in November when the band played for the halftime show at a Chiefs' game. The extra-curricular Pep Band performed at home basketball games, Pep Club assemblies, and at a Scouts' hockey game.

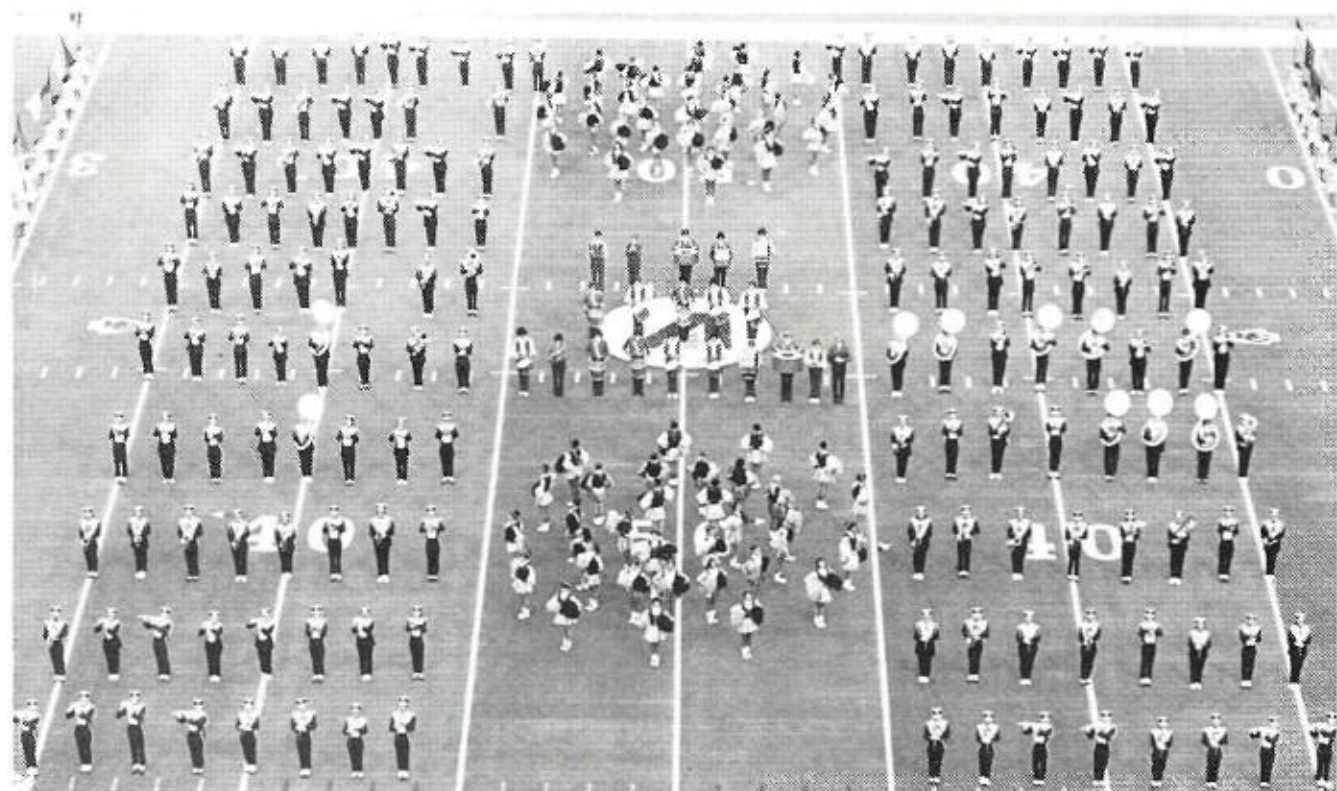

The orchestra included approximately twenty-five students playing string instruments and twenty playing wind instruments. Performing mostly classical music, the orchestra attended clinics at other schools and, along with the band and choirs, attended the State Music Festival held at East in April.

The band concludes an outstanding performance.

Concerts Reflect Talent

Music concerts with a variety of themes were presented for the benefit of music students and the enjoyment of the audience. The band began its concert season during the second semester with a winter concert featuring a guest trombonist. Other band concerts included a guest appearance with the SM South band, a performance with the SM West band, and an exhibition featuring individual ensembles from the band before they entered state competition. The choirs and the orchestra combined for the vespers and Masterworks concerts. The vespers program, held every year during the Christmas season, took on a different dimension as it was guest conducted by Jester Hairston and featured spiritual music. In honor of this country's bicentennial year patriotic music provided the theme for the Masterworks concert. The many students who participated in these concerts were given the opportunity to extend their talents from the classroom to the public and experience the satisfaction of performing.

Choirs Attract Many

An interest in music, the joy of singing, and the thrill of performing were a few reasons which compelled more than two-hundred and fifty students to enroll in one or more of the five choirs offered by the Performing Arts Department. In most cases, the choirs were offered to students on a selective basis, after auditions. By functioning in this manner the choral music students were given the opportunity to participate with students of equal ability. It also enabled the department to maintain choirs of superior quality without having to deny a place to students who had a desire to participate, but lacked in some training or experience.

The five choirs—Chamber Singers, Choraliers, Concert, Girls, and Sophomore—all participated in concerts which highlighted the season. The success of the Vespers program, held during the holiday season, was added to by a guest conductor, Jester Hairston. The Masterworks Concert, held annually, consisted of patriotic music in tribute to the Bicentennial. These choirs and various ensembles also performed in competition at the state music contest held during the spring.

NJROTC Trains for Navy

NJROTC SENIORS: Commander Simmons, Dawn Patrick, Aut Hungsakul, Erin O'Neil, Tom Bremer, Laura Walters, Chief Abel.

Offering a wide variety of opportunities to interested students, the Naval Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps was active in many areas at East. The group functioned both in academics and in extracurricular activities. Naval science instruction at school included oceanography, meteorology, radar and sonar electronics, seamanship, and navigation, and was aimed at preparing the students for active duty in the U.S. Navy. Outside of class, the units practiced drill and marching techniques. Performances of the drill team included East sports halftime shows and parades.

A special highlight of the program was the field trips to places such as San Diego, California, where the cadets were able to experience real Navy life and give serious thought to a naval career.

Intramurals Were Competitive: Fun

The intramural program at SM East contained the largest variety of sports offered and had the greatest number of students involved compared to any other Shawnee Mission school. The demanding task of organizing and running the program was undertaken by Chief Abell. Under his guidance the intramural program ran effectively and smoothly.

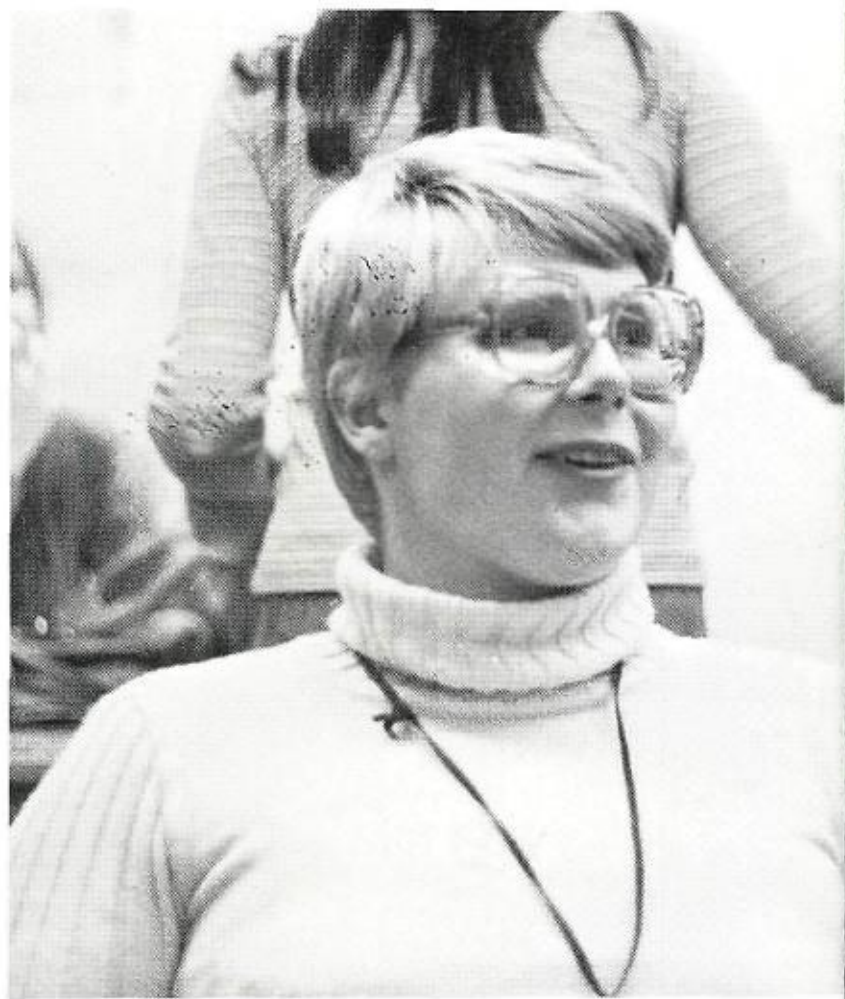

The intramural program opened with the newly initiated co-ed swimming sessions. The program offered group activities as well as individual free-swim time. Ping Pong and badminton soon followed, with competition being staged on Monday nights. Both singles and doubles teams fought vigorously for winning titles. Another addition to the intramural program was a bowling league. The teams vied for championship finishes through efforts of comradery. One of the most popular programs at East was co-ed volleyball. Fun mixed with some tough competition was the prevailing atmosphere.

High School Ambassadors

SM East's foreign policy included acting as host to six exchange students. The American Field Service, the International Christian Youth Exchange, and the Intercambio Nazionale enabled this cultural and personal experience to take place. The visiting students represented a diversity of nationalities: Ellen Pfrommer, Germany; Suzanne Petzolt, Austria; Marie-Paul Senecaut, Belgium; Hajime Ito, Japan; Jorge Godoy, Guatemala, and Johan Eriksson, Finland.

An AFS domestic program allowed Ben Powers, SM East senior, to switch families with Anita Robinson of California. This American exchange provided opportunities for students to become acquainted with differences of lifestyle within the United States.

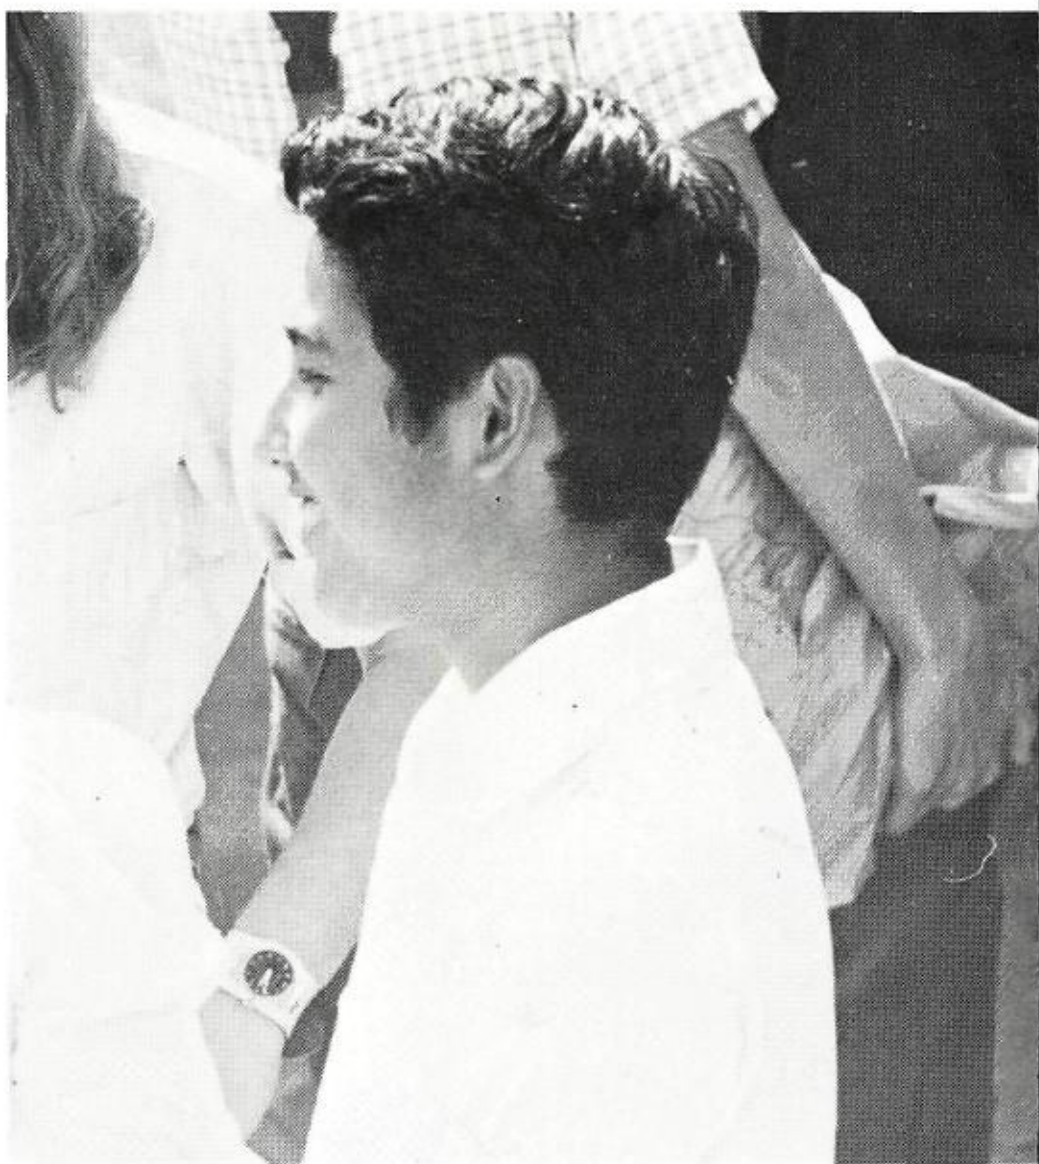

SM East students discovered new friendships in their foreign classmates, who often proved to be the most active participants in class discussion. The openness they demonstrated to learn and share quickly dispelled any label of "outsider." These six students not only faced the challenges of coping with a foreign language, but of adjusting to American styles and traditions, and a new family. Their presence at SM East contributed new perspectives to high school education.

International Friendships

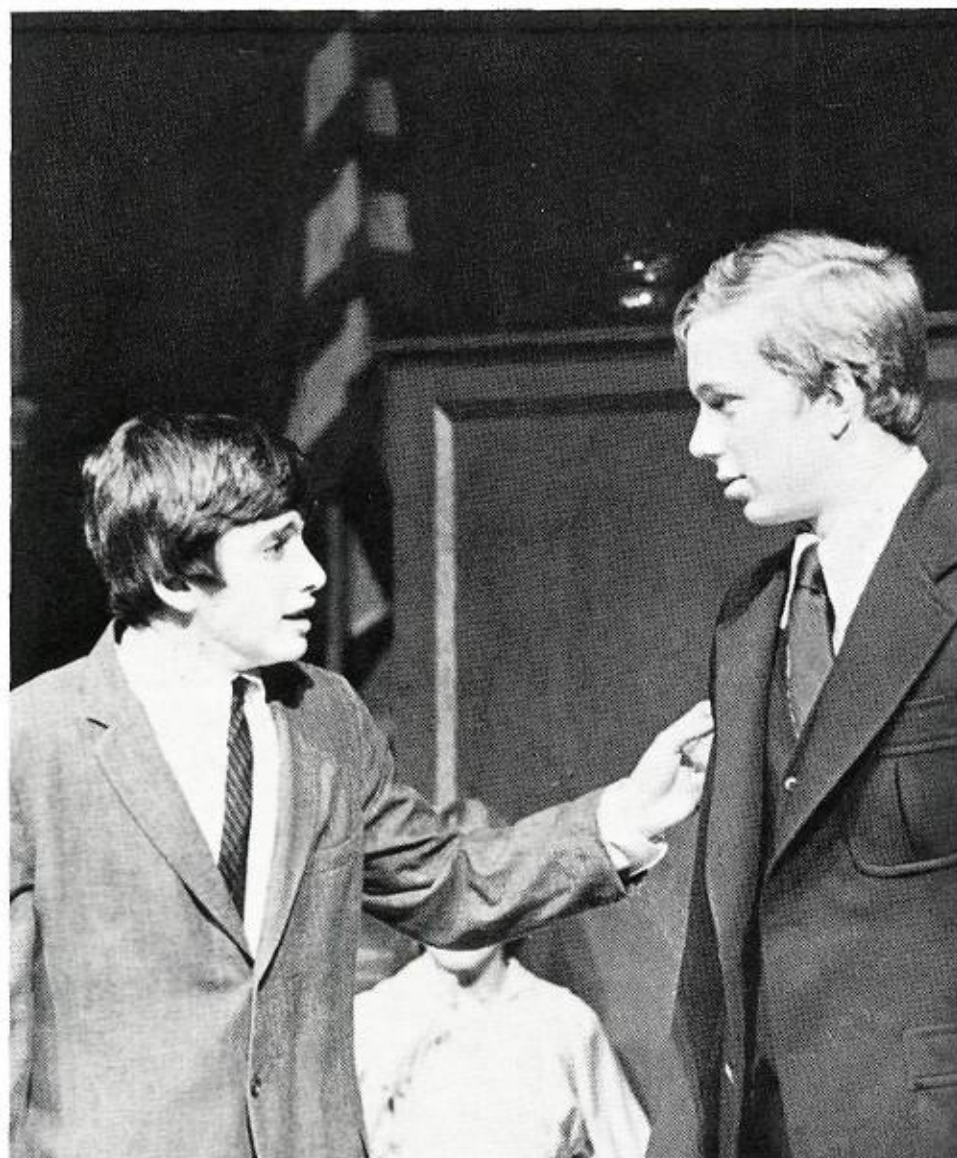

Carnivals, car washes, square dances, and chile suppers were the major money making projects sponsored by the International Club. This year, the profits of these successful events aided the foreign exchange program. The guidance and leadership that was required to formulate plans for the club's programs and activities was provided by Mrs. Criley, faculty sponsor; Lainie Gruening, president; Carol Caudill, vice president; Lois Stinebaugh, treasurer; Cheryl Kuemmerlein, secretary; and Denise Carrier, publicity chairman. The two main practices installed by members of the club were to develop many close friendships with foreign exchange students and, also, to learn about other peoples of the world through awareness and understanding of their cultures, customs, and heritage. At every meeting, a foreign exchange student, who was an honorary club member, spoke about his life at home. These programs were very interesting and gave students knowledge that could never be acquired from a classroom text. The exchange students not only described their countries, but provided insights into the activities and interests of the youth. The club successfully promoted international friendships and understanding.

Not Guilty!

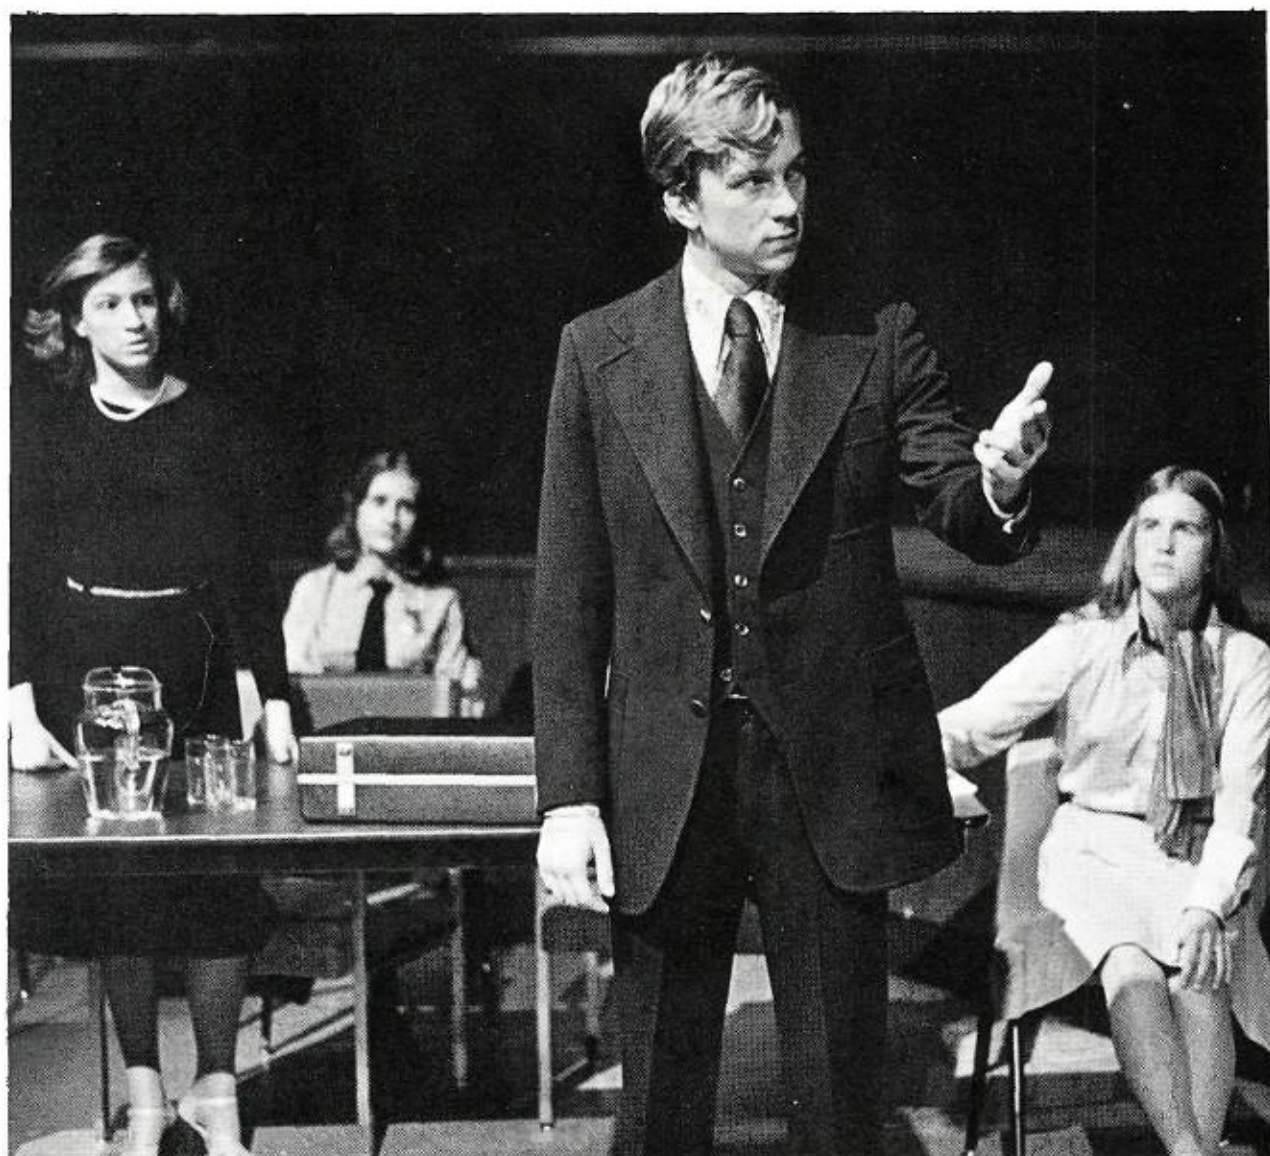

The SM East auditorium became the setting of a courtroom as the theatre department opened its season with Ayn Rand's "Night of January 16th." The play, an intense murder-trial drama, was presented November 19, 20, and 22.

In what has been described as a "sense of life" play, Karen Andre, defendant, is accused of murdering Bjorn Faulkner, a notorious swindler who had recently lost his fortune. As the plot unravels, defense attorney Stevens and prosecuting attorney Flint question various witnesses about the events of the night of January 16th. Adding an interesting twist to the testimony, the infamous Larry Regan tells of Faulkner's plan to stage a "suicide" and escape to South America. The cast then presented the remainder of the play by using flashbacks to show the defendant's guilt or innocence.

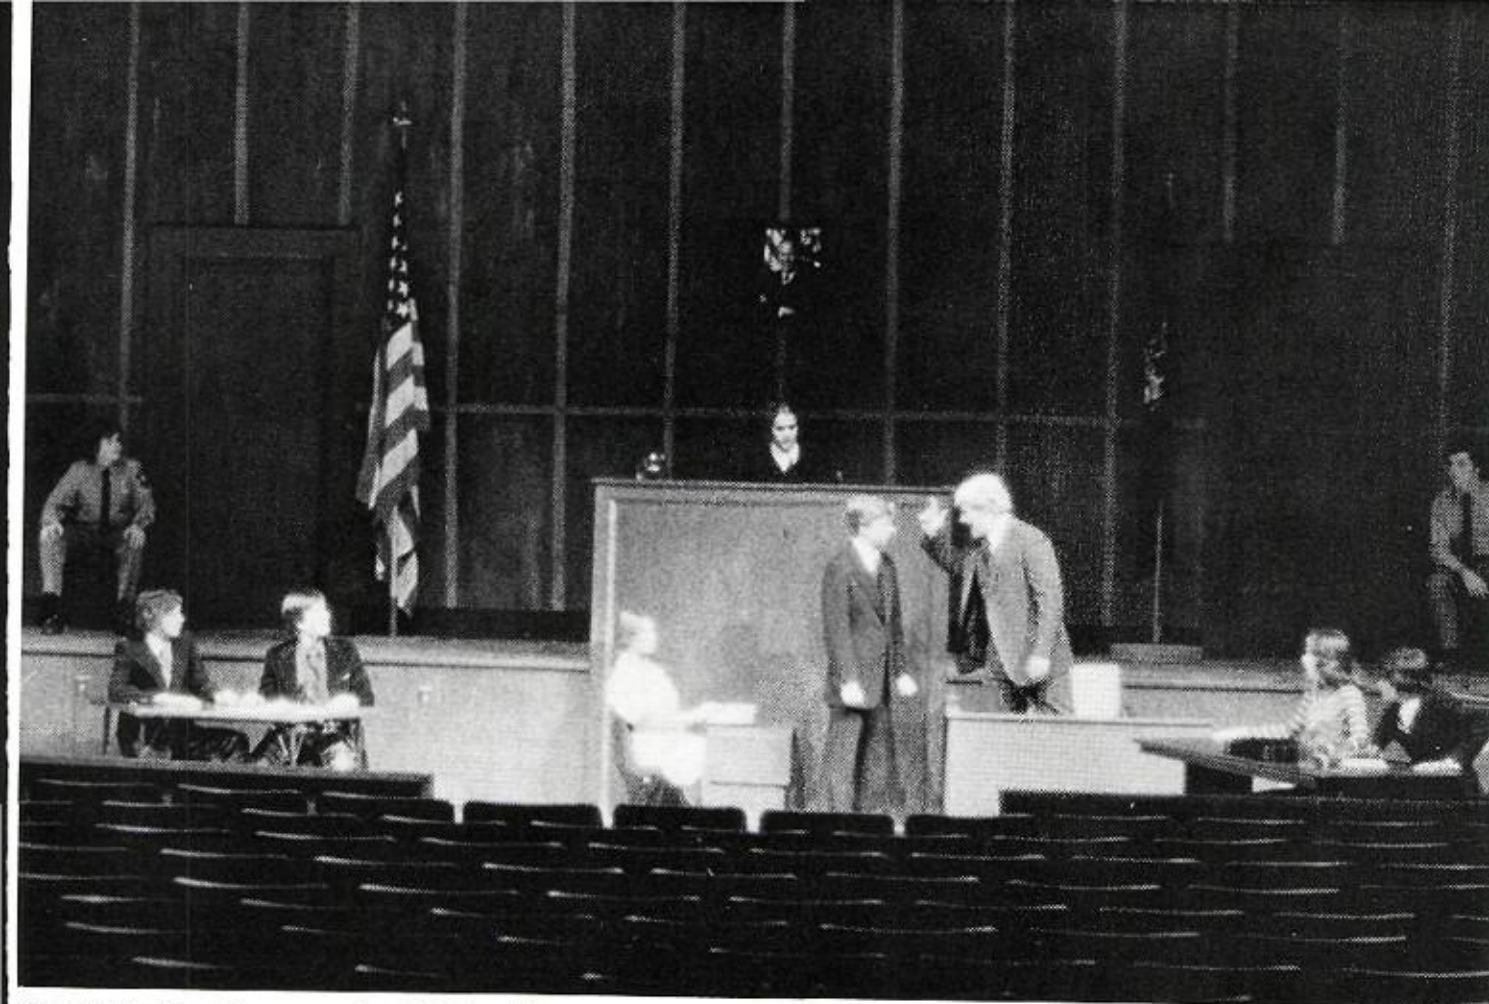

The jurors, which were selected each night from the audience, found Miss Andre not guilty after all three performances. Presenting the opportunity of two endings, the play actually puts the jury on trial, and determines whether irrelevant predilections can affect the outcome of the trial.

The Spirit of '76

Playing "midwives to an egg," cast members of "1776" gave birth to a new nation on February 25, 26, 27, and 28.

Written and composed by Peter Stone and Sherman Edwards, "1776" recounts the events leading up to the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The characterizations of the famous figures in the Continental Congress are both dramatically human and historically accurate.

Taking place in Philadelphia, and inside the "congressional incubator" during the hot, summery months of May, June, and July of 1776, the musical involves the tremendous conflict between those who want freedom from England and those who prefer reconciliation. Led by the "obnoxious and disliked" John Adams, the liberals decide that young Thomas Jefferson should write the Declaration of Independence. But problems arise: John Dickinson of Pennsylvania has succeeded at making the unanimous approval of all colonies a necessary requirement for the adoption of such a declaration. Ben Franklin and Adams, though, are finally able to obtain a unanimous vote, and the resolution passes on July 4.

Playing to three sellout crowds, the SME production of "1776" was a true community project, involving hundreds of students, the Prairie Village Bicentennial Committee, and many others who helped make this production an expression of the real spirit of '76.

T. Jensen, alias Richard Henry Lee, stops the show with his enthusiastic number.

Tiger at the Gates

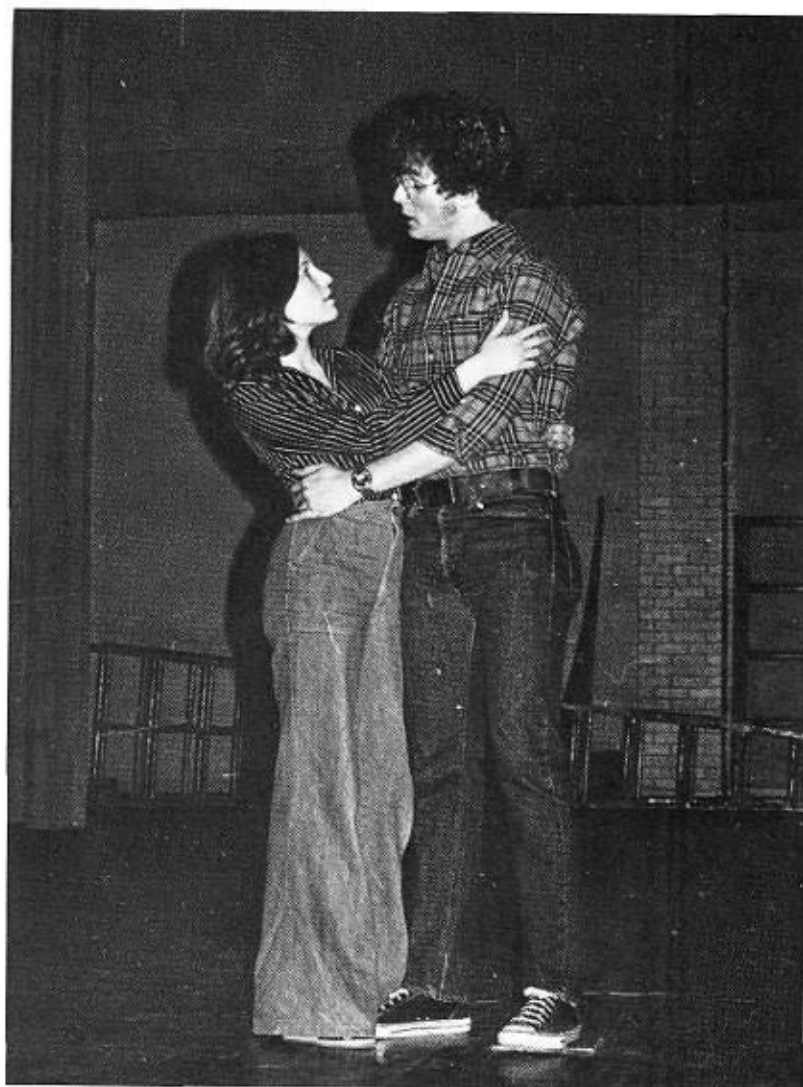

The SM East theater department closed its season with the brilliant anti-war drama, "Tiger at the Gates." The play, which was written by Jean Giraudoux, was presented April 29, 30, and May 1.

Set in the days of Troy, "Tiger at the Gates" attempts to answer the questions about the reason that man has war. Hector, a Trojan general, comes back from battle as a peacemaker and convinces Ulysses of the insanity of war. Together they agree that the Trojan War shall not take place. But problems arise: Through circumstances, a Trojan poet is killed, and, before he dies, a Greek is accused of having killed him. Earlier, Paris had captured Helen; now, the Greeks have arrived in Troy to demand her back. At this point, most people in Troy want war. The poets need a war for their elegies and dirges; the king, because it is custom; the lawyer, because of his honor; and others, for various reasons. And so, in spite of all logic, the war erupts.

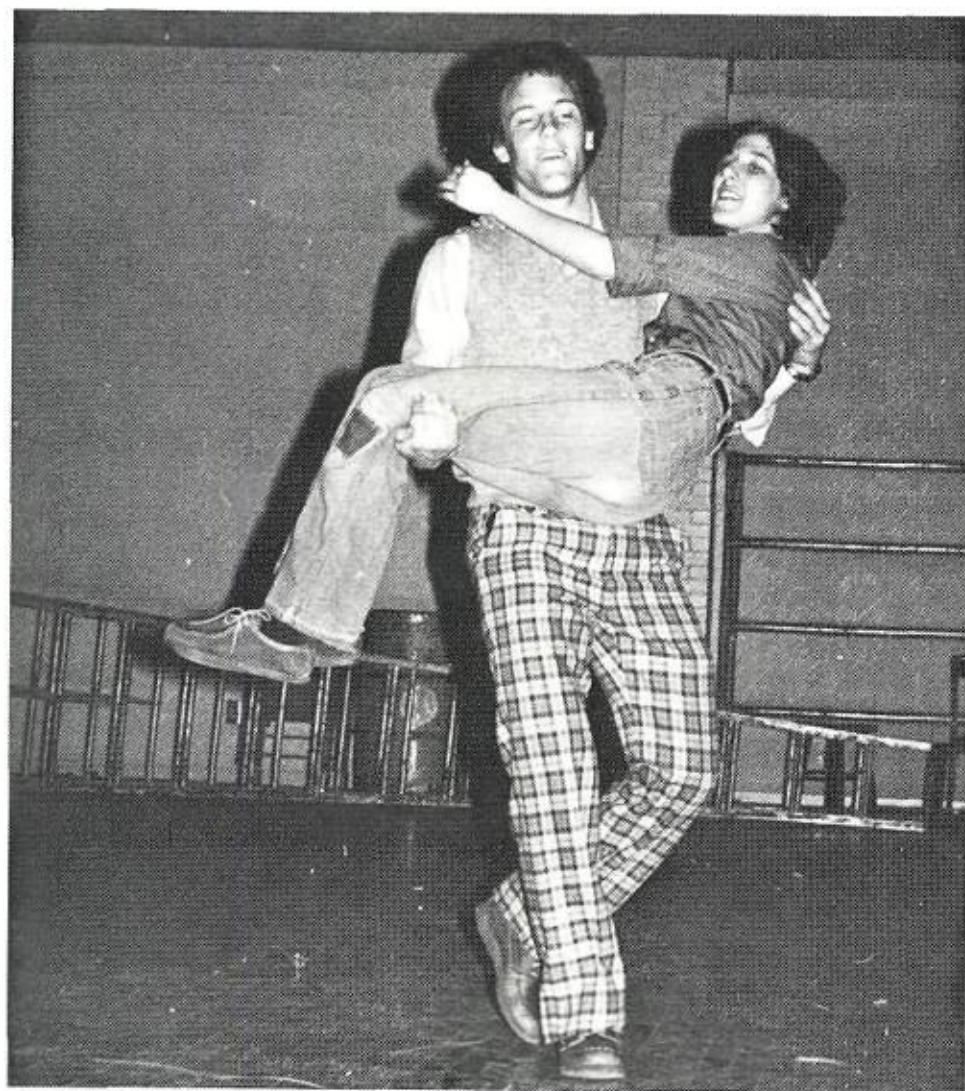

Most appropriate for today, "Tiger at the Gates" shed light on the causes of war.

Assemblies Greeted With Enthusiasm

Providing enjoyable breaks in the routine of long school days, a variety of assemblies were well received by students and teachers alike.

In October, East was invaded by an army of "UPPIES," which conquered the auditorium and introduced audience participation with their theme song, "Up, Up with People." Later, in December, the percussion ensemble from U.M.K.C. was given an enthusiastic response in an all-school assembly. John Bayley, a favorite musician of young people in the area, once again was asked back to perform at East.

In addition to these, a great number of assemblies were presented entirely by students. A complete sell-out, the United Fund Talent Show added nearly five-hundred dollars to East's contribution. Promoting ticket sales, the drama department presented scenes from "Night of January 16th," "1776," and "Tiger at the Gates." Also informing East students of current affairs were the Homecoming Queen and Winter Sweetheart Election Assemblies.

Events Liven Days

As the familiar routine of school rolled on into the year, certain special events shined through to highlight and brighten the uniformity of everyday life. Coming in a variety of ways, yet having in common an entertaining appeal for all, these special events ranged from all-school assemblies to unusual classroom activities to school-sponsored outside attractions. A bicentennial week, held during February, brought with it many unusual and entertaining occasions. The musical production of "1776" was followed by a Boston Tea Party at which time the audience could meet and talk with the cast. Many events, however, outside the realm of the Bicentennial also provided entertainment. The Stu/Co sponsored a musical interlude provided by singer John Bayley. "Put Your Hand in My Hand" was the theme of the annual International Club Banquet which gave students and parents an opportunity to meet the foreign-exchange students. Sweetheart was memorable in several ways. It offered an assembly, a dance, and a crowning.

Variety of Interesting Clubs

Education, student involvement, and good fun were the main purposes of the special interest clubs at Shawnee Mission East. Students having a genuine desire to become involved found the opportunity in the potpourri of clubs offered. When a student could not find a club pertaining to his own special interest, he simply found a faculty sponsor and established his own club.

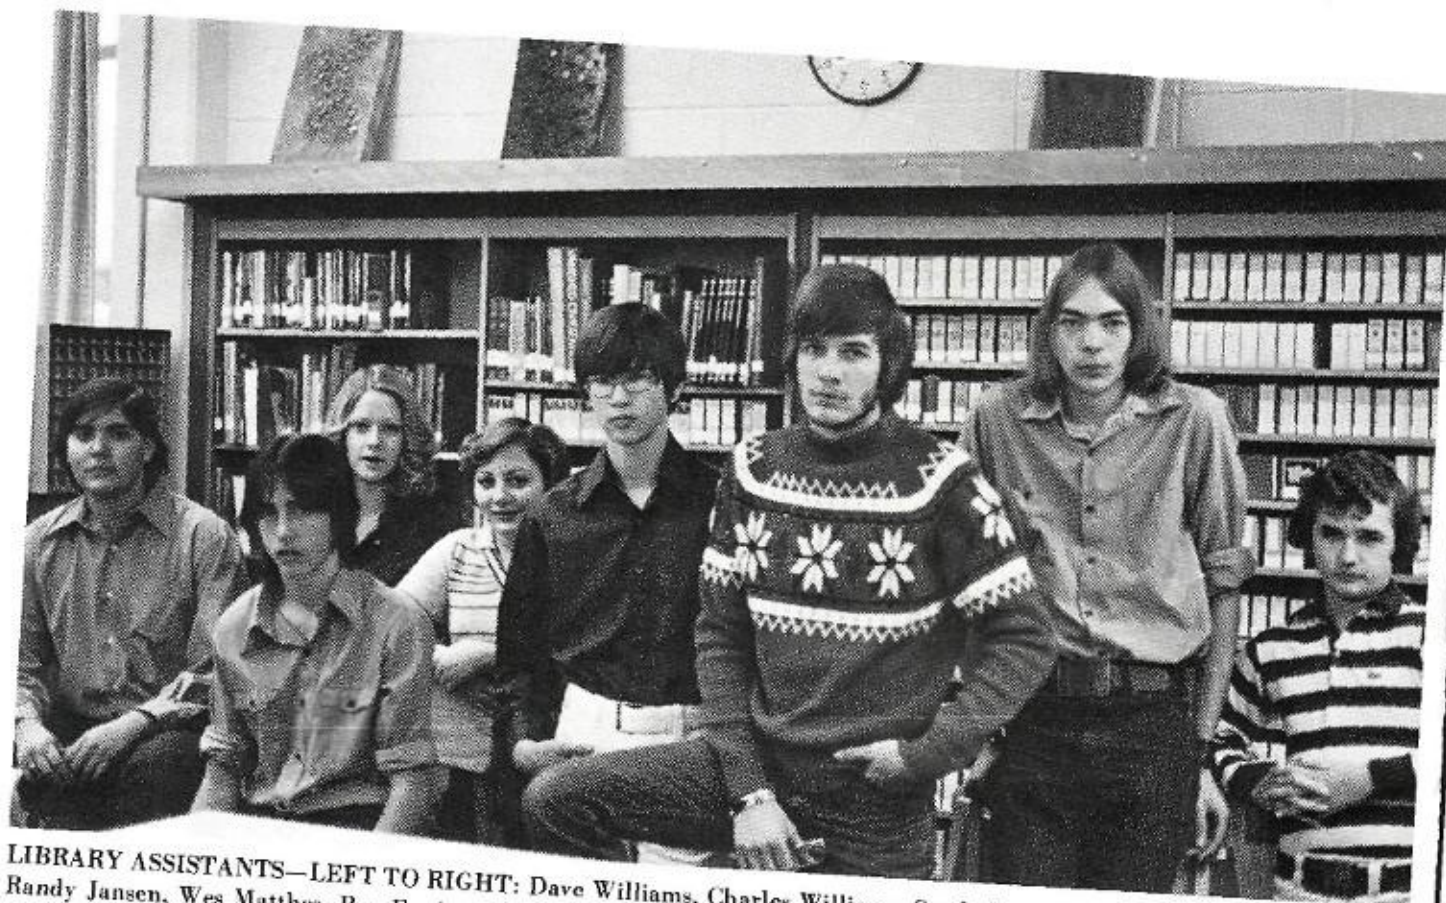

The Categories Team consisted of seven S.M.E. students who had the special talent of storing trivia information. Under the supervision of Mr. Rees, these students answered many questions in inter-school competition. The Chess Club, under the Authority of Bernard Ford, used their talents to compete against other schools in chess tournaments. Nature loving students discovered that the Ecology Club provided a way for students to get involved with the environment. Under the guidance of Becky Wilson, students planned special projects to benefit ecology. The DECA Club, Distributive Education Club of America, enabled students to achieve big business experience on the high school level. Club members raised money through fund raising projects so they could travel to business conferences and take competitive business tests. Mr. Lance Campbell, faculty sponsor, was largely responsible for the success of the club. The Ski Club was organized by students who had a great interest in skiing. Although it was not school-sponsored, a great number of S.M.E. students attended meetings and learned how to ski on the club-sponsored trips to Colorado. The library assistants worked many quiet hours shelving, filing, and manning the checkout desk.

Lancers Post Best Season

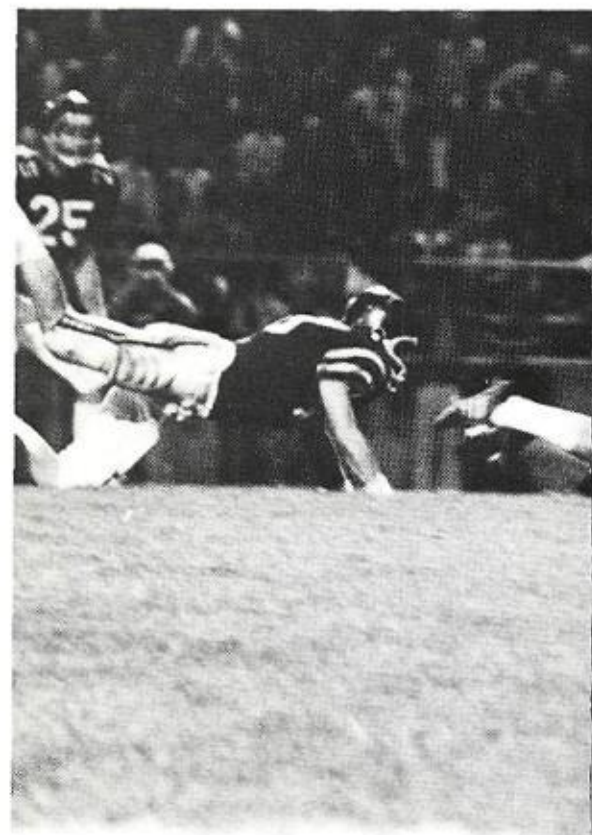

The year of 1975-76 was without a doubt the "Year of the Lancer" with respect to football. Shawnee Mission East posted a magnificent record of seven wins and two losses, which earned a third place ranking in the very highly competitive Sunflower League. The team missed going to the State play-offs by only one game, which is by far the best any East football team has done for several years.

The season opener for the Lancers began with a victory over Wyandotte by a score of 35-0, and the following week defeated Washington by a score of 21-7. With two wins behind them, the Lancers defeated the Shawnee Mission West Vikings by a score of 22-17. In the final quarter of the game, with only five seconds showing on the clock, the Vikings led 17-14. Quarterback Stu Stram lofted a long, do-or-die pass intended for splitend Richard Wagstaff, which was tipped by a Viking defender. Fortunately for the Lancers, the tipped ball fell into the arms of alert flankerback Dave Anderson, who carried it in for the winning touchdown. It had been seven years since East had defeated West. The East football team continued to win by defeating Shawnee Mission Northwest, 20-0, whom East had not defeated in five years; Lawrence, 27-0; and Topeka, 42-18. The Lancers suffered their first loss in a tough, physical battle to Shawnee Mission North by a score of 22-7. The team quickly bounced back and defeated Rockhurst, 7-6, in a tremendous game. At this point in the season a victory over Shawnee Mission South would clinch a State play-off spot, and win the league co-championship with South. The battle between the Lancers and the Raiders was a typical East-South contest; the spirits were high and the hitting was hard. The Lancers loss to the Raiders, 24-7, terminated East's hopes for a play-off spot.

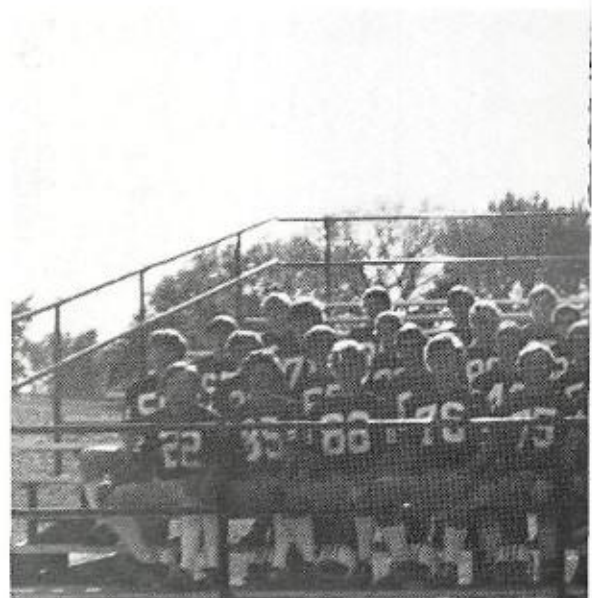

"The attitude of the players was exceptional this year, and the boys were very professional whenever practicing or playing," said Coach Glenn Percy. Hard work, dedication, and team unity, helped the Lancers to acquire an excellent 7-2 season.

J. V. Posts 6-3 Season

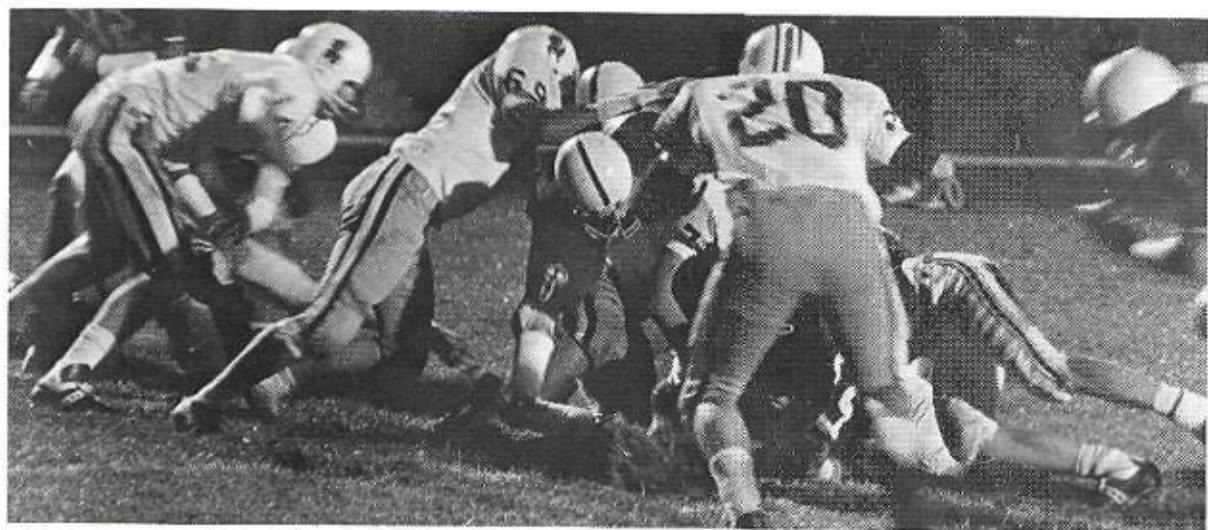

The Lancer Junior Varsity achieved an impressive season this year with six wins and three losses. Two of the three losses were within only one touchdown.

The season for the J. V.'s started with two sound victories over Wyandotte and Washington. Their first loss was against West, 26-22. The Lancers exerted a great effort in the second half, after falling behind 22-0 in the first half, to score three touchdowns. But fate was on the side of the Vikings as the clock ticked away, leaving the score 26-22 in favor of West. The Lancers soon after displayed great strength as they defeated both Lawrence and Topeka. The Junior Varsity suffered their second defeat against Shawnee Mission North, but nevertheless came back to beat Rockhurst in a very close game of 7-6. The final game of the season for the J. V.'s ended in a sour note by a defeat to South, 14-0.

A strong, well-balanced offensive and defensive line, plus an impressive offensive backfield, helped drive the Lancers to their record of 6-3. "We are really looking forward to the coming season," said Coach Jon Beltram, "and the chance to work with these boys, who have shown their fine abilities this last season."

Sophomores Make A Valiant Try

The sophomore football team started their season off extremely well with an exciting victory over Wyandotte, which was played on a wet, muddy field. The following week, both the black and white teams defeated Washington. However, the young Lancers dropped their remaining games, and ended the tough season with a combined record of three wins and twelve losses.

The disappointing record does not show the sacrifice and hard work which were displayed by the sophomores, and the pride which was consequently developed. Pride kindles the determination to improve, which in turn promises eventual success. The sophomores' determination to improve points to several more winning seasons at SM East.

Third in State

Recording the best times in SM East history, the cross country team capped the season with a third place finish in the state competition at Wamego. Paced by Paul Malott, East eclipsed the record set by the state championship team of 1967 as Malott, Lloyd Lynd, and Dick Gilbert all broke the ten minute mark. These performances, coupled with the strong support of T Jensen (10:01), Steve Silverman (10:02), Bryan McCaul, and Mark Eddy produced a satisfying finale for the cross-country season.

The Lancer's strength became evident in their second varsity competition of the season. At the Wichita East Invitational the harriers finished second, only six points from first place. In the following meet the team soundly defeated Wyandotte with a perfect score of 15-49. East's strength was again apparent in the Ruskin Invitational; East placed third at Swope Park in a competition fielding thirty teams. A fourth place finish at Regionals enabled the team to go to State for the fifth consecutive year.

Extensive competition for the seven varsity slots played an important role in the Lancer's success. At the heart of this competition was a very capable JV cross country team. Highlights included a perfect score victory over Wyandotte and the capture of first place at the Wichita East Invitational. A strong C team also fared well finishing second at Regionals.

The Lancer number one doubles team composed of Nancy Fudenberg and Shawn Willson and the number two team of Demi Lloyd and Sue Breish, met each other in the finals and won first and second respectively. The Lancer tennis team clinched its second Sunflower League title, with 29 points, and also won the Regional title. The Lancer team then traveled to Emporia to compete in the Kansas girls' state tennis class 5-A, 4-A championship where Nancy and Shawn took first in doubles. For the second time this year Nancy and Shawn met Sue and Demi in the doubles final of a major tournament.

The girls' tennis team record for the year was 11-2 for the varsity level. The loss to Topeka occurred under unusual conditions, the match was held indoors because of rain. East came in second by defeating Topeka West 3-2. The JV record was 11-1 and the Blue Team remained undefeated for the season. Volleyball Spikes Season

A young Lancer varsity volleyball team finished the season with a hard fought 3-5 record. The team was handicapped, having only three returning letter winners from last year's squad, Captain Mary Schulte, Carolyn Wagstaff and Julie Stram.

Losing their first two matches to SM South and North, the varsity was able to come back to defeat a tough Wyandotte team 15-12, 15-7. The Lancer girls won over Turner by the decisive margin of 15-6, 15-6. Next on the Lancer's schedule was Ward, who split the first two games with East 15-10, 12-15, but went on to win the match in a tie breaking game 15-12. The highpoint of the season came in the next match with the SM West Vikings. Overcoming inexperience, the Lancers defeated a powerful West team 15-13, 15-13 in the closest contest of the year. The varsity squad competing in League and Regional was made up of Mary Schulte, senior; Julie Stram, Carolyn Wagstaff, Pam Hanslip, Patti Martella, Leslie McCoy, juniors; Beth Runnels, Liz Frost, Shaunna McCully, Cynthia Meyer, Nance Blackman, and Julie Green, sophomores. The team travelled to Topeka, competing in League playoffs where they finished in fifth place, but closed out the year with a loss to West at Regional.

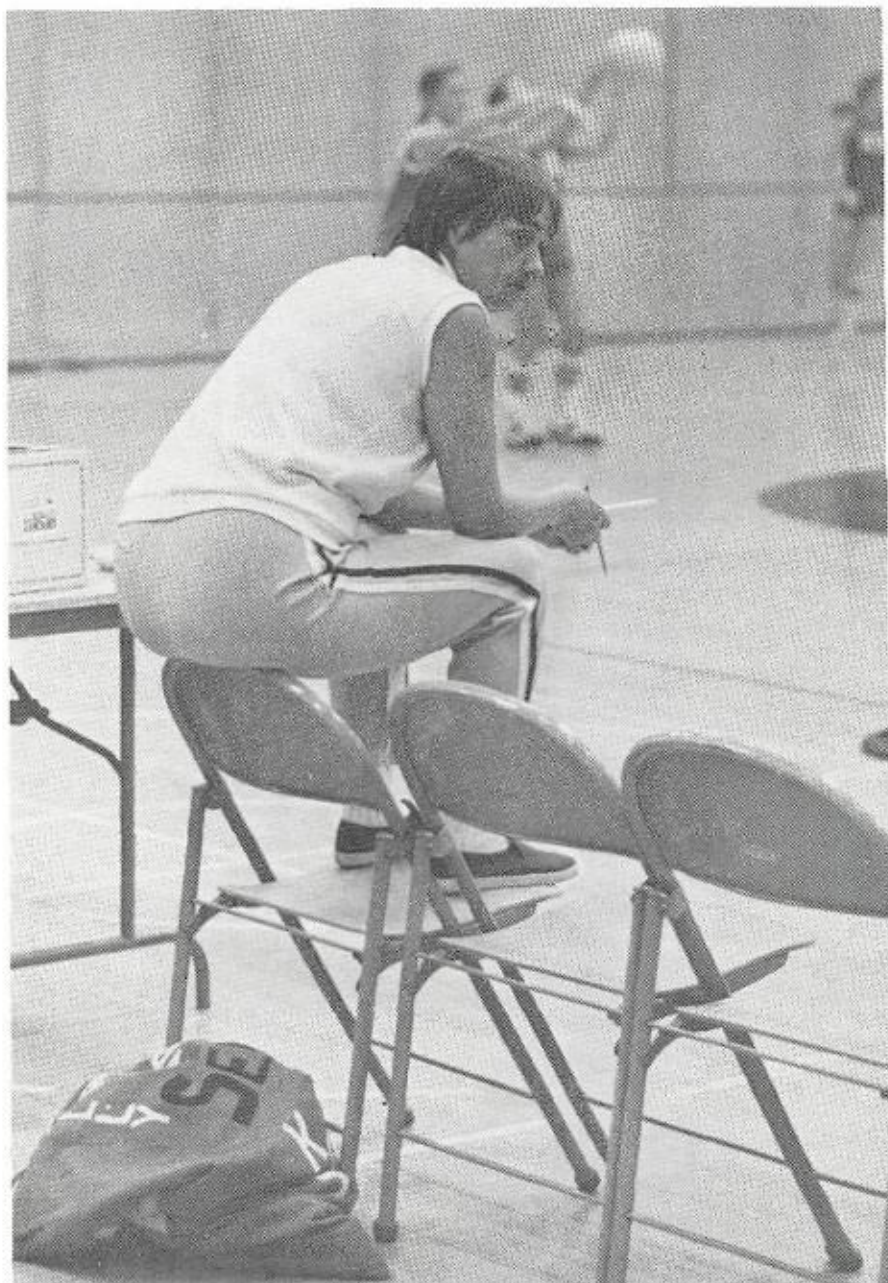

The JV finished 4-4, losing the last two matches to Ward and West by close scores. Posting a 6-4 record, the sophomores concluded the season second in the sophomore tournament at North.

Girls' Golf Comes Into Its Own

In 1975, the girls got another varsity sport—golf. Last year there was intramural golf, but this was the first year of interscholastic competition.

The only girl with previous varsity experience was Barbara Goolsbee. Barb played on the boys' team last spring. For the other seventeen girls, it was a new means of competition.

The Lancers opened the season on a good note by defeating SM South. They then went on to win over SM Northwest and Washington. At the SM Invitational, the girls got third in the four-girl competition, and fourth in the two-girl competition. At the Wichita Invitational, the Lancers brought home seventh place. Next came Sunflower League play. Here the golfers came in second place in four-ball, fourth in two-ball, and second in six-ball matches. At Regionals, the team took third in four-ball and fourth in two-ball competition.

Becky Bickley, Melanie Bush, Barb Goolsbee, and Linda Warwick represented SM East at State, which was held in Hutchinson. Many of the teams competing had already had three to four years of experience. The Lancers were able to bring home seventh place in their first attempt at State.

Exciting Basketball Season

The end of the 1975-76 basketball season found the East Lancers with a 9-11 record. This record did not, however, reflect the hustle, desire, and winning attitude of the Lancer team.

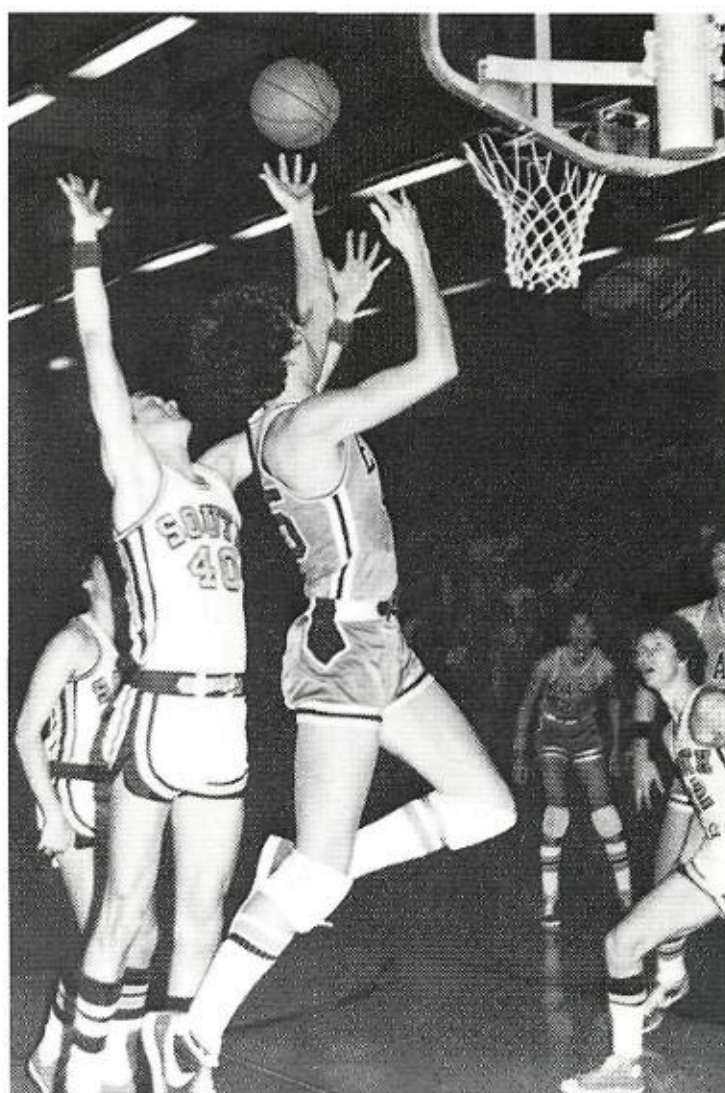

The first two games of the season for the round-ballers, proved victorious as they defeated Bishop Miege, 90-43, and Turner, 53-33. The next three games were pitfalls for East with losses to Shawnee Mission North, Center, and Washington. The Lancers, however, did not succumb to those losses, and bounced back to defeat the Shawnee Mission South Raiders, by a score of 50-49, in a traditional East-South game. Two games later, the East team suffered a genuine heart-breaking loss to Shawnee Mission West in double-overtime, by a score of 57-58. In the Center tournament, East played third with victories over Sedalia Cotton, 61-46; and Ruskin, 74-65. As the season progressed, the Lancer team accumulated victories over Shawnee Mission Northwest, 75-65, a revengeful defeat over the West Vikings, 68-60; an upset defeat over the North Indians, 76-69; and a second defeat over Shawnee Mission South, 45-44. In Regional competition, the Lancers seemed to have no luck at all as they suffered a defeat to South. With five seconds on the clock, a South Raider discharged a complete desperation shot to win 59-61.

It was a year of heart-stoppers, and heart-breakers, which reflected the intense competitiveness of the Lancers and their opponents.

J.V. Holds its Own

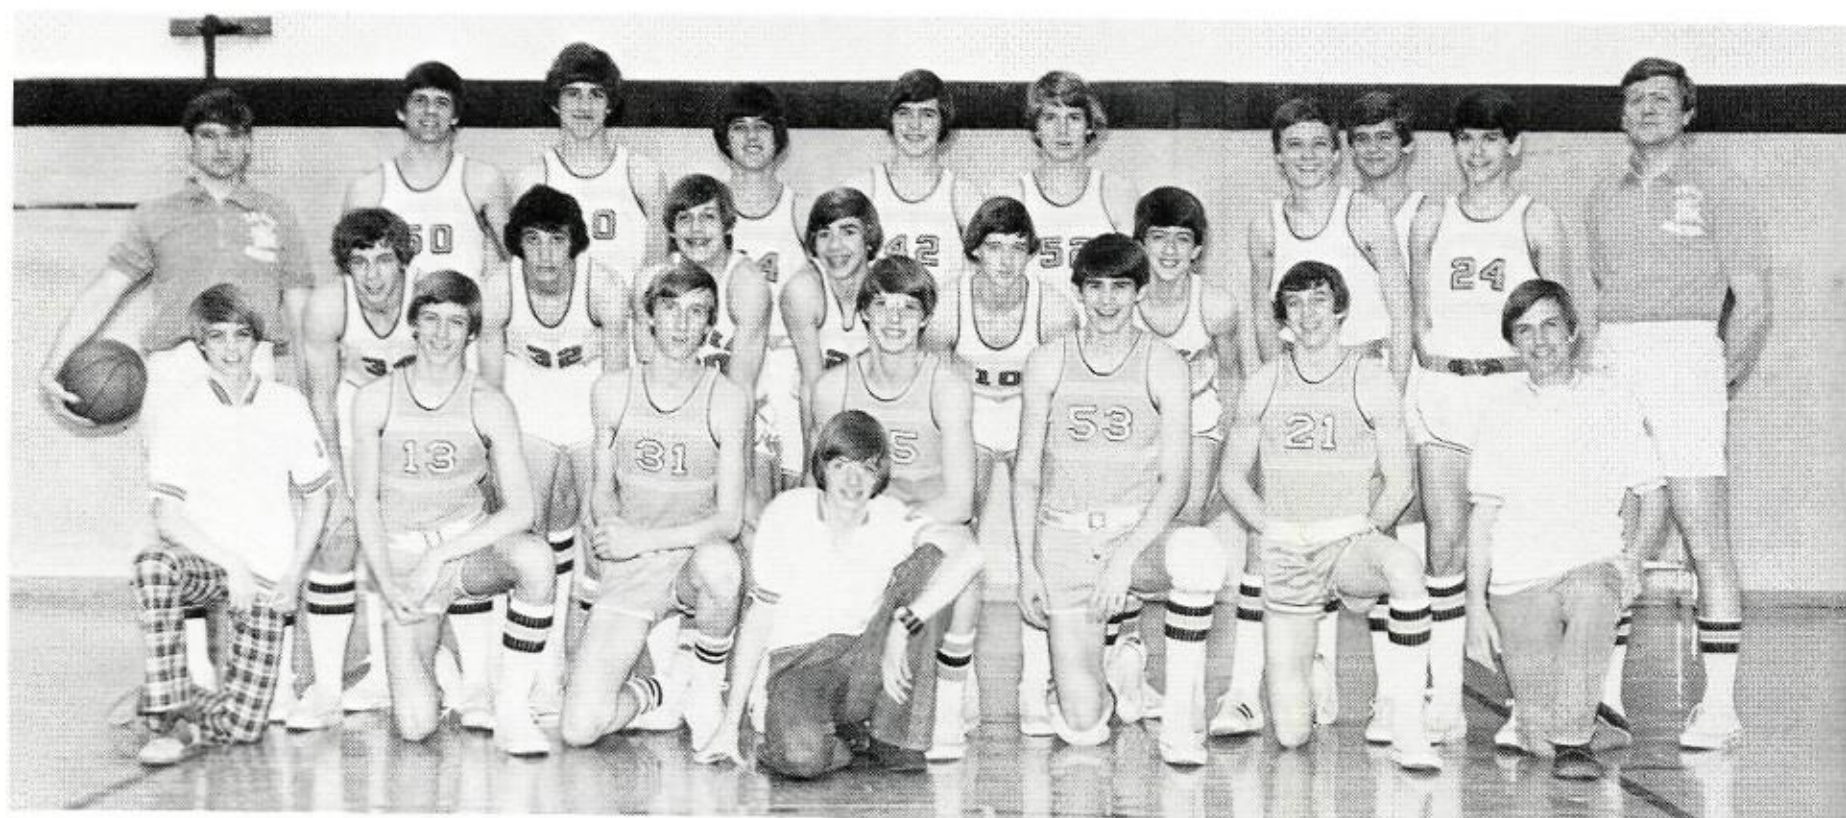

The Lancer Junior Varsity basketball team balanced out its season with an 8-8 record. Most of their games reflected this balance, since seven of the sixteen games were determined by a margin of only three points.

The J.V.'s pounded their first three opponents: Bishop Miege, Turner, and Shawnee Mission North, with a total of 219 points to their opponents total of only 103. The Lancers then suffered a loss in a close battle against the Center Yellow-Jackets with a score of 50-53. This game was followed by two close victories over Washington, 43-41, and Shawnee Mission South, 45-44. From this point on, the win-loss record fluctuated as the Lancers went on to defeat Shawnee Mission Northwest, 60-47, Topeka, in a close contest, 54-53, and Shawnee Mission North, 55-47. "It was entirely a team effort," said coach Mark Mathews. "There were really no so-called 'outstanding players', mainly because it was teamwork that was needed to win the close ones."

The past season for the Junior Varsity was modestly good, however the outlook for the 1976-77 Lancer basketball season should be excellent.

Sophs Excel

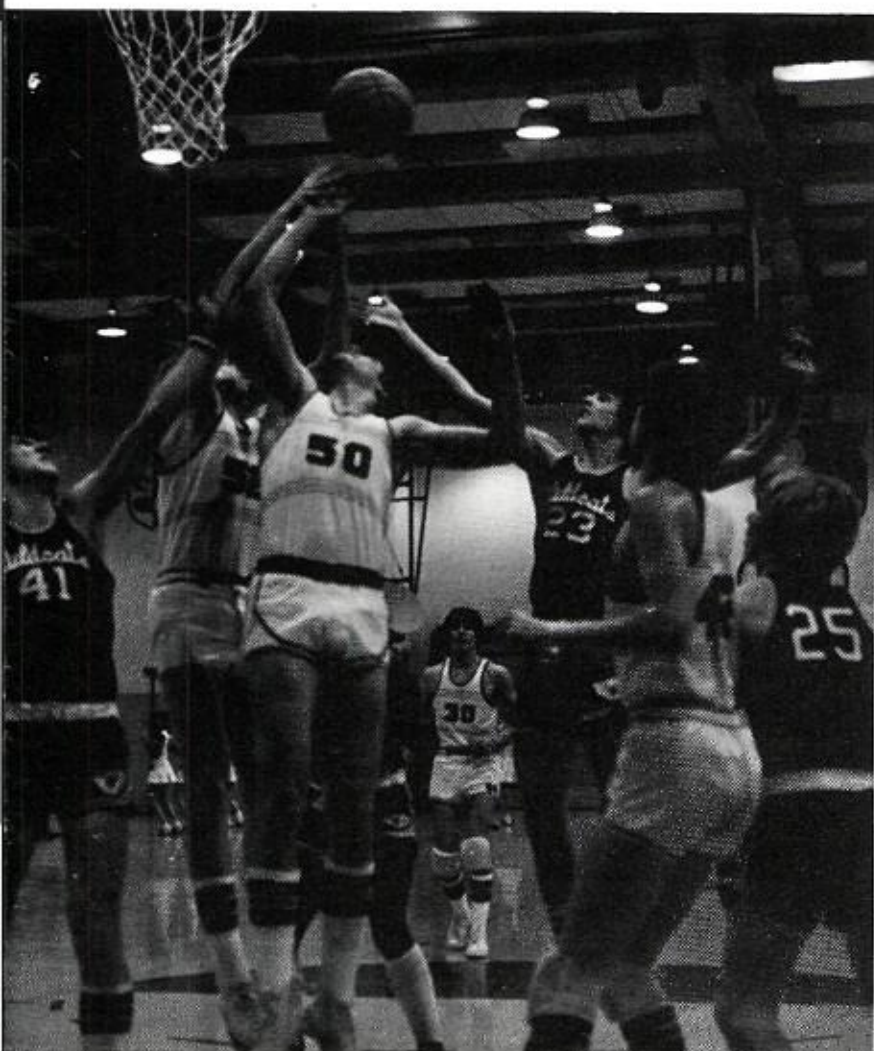

The sophomore Blue team made a fine showing of themselves this year with a record of eleven wins and eight losses. The season started off very slowly as the team dropped five of the first six games, but during the seventh game the young Lancers ended their losing streak. The game was against S.M. North, and the third quarter found East behind the Indians by fourteen points. Displaying great determination and team effort, the Lancers made an exciting come-back and defeated North 53-51. This was the turning point of the season; the sophomore blues lost only three and won nine of their remaining games.

At the end of the season, the team entered the Sophomore Invitational. They were defeated by Lawrence, but were victorious over North and West which earned them third place in the Invitational.

The sophomore White team achieved a 9-7 record. The high point of their season was a hard-fought victory over the Turner Bears. Down six points late in the fourth quarter, the team fought back and, in double over-time, defeated the Bears.

Premier Season

The 1975-76 sports season marked the first year in the history of SM East for girls' basketball on the varsity, junior varsity, and sophomore levels. The varsity team, under the direction of head Coach Mrs. Carolyn Howard, ended their first season with a respectable 9-10 record. Girls' varsity games were well supported by the Lancer fans and had all the traditional ceremonies of the more established boys' varsity games.

The Lancer varsity team opened with an exciting 71-41 victory over the Northwest Cougars. In their first meeting, the Lancer girls scored an important win over South which proved to be a high point of the season. The junior varsity had a rough season finishing with a 2-13 record, while the sophomore blue team was able to fight to an exceptional 9-2 record.

Records Fall

The year of 1975-1976 proved to be another excellent one for the two-time State Champion S.M. East swim team.

Doing well in the Topeka relays and East Invitational (these meets were not scored), the tankmen moved into league competition with power as they defeated S.M. Northwest, Wichita East, and S.M. West in succession. The swimmers then met S.M. South in a hard, heated dual meet which ended in a defeat for East. This meet was the first in thirty-seven consecutive dual meets that East had lost. With their spirit undaunted, the Lancers defeated Washington the following week and then went on to the Sunflower League Championship where they were determined to avenge their loss to South. They did avenge their loss by defeating South, and in the process captured the league championship for the fourth time in a row. Senior Peter Omundson set two league records during the meet, one in the 200-yard I.M. with a time of 2:04 and one in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 5:01.2.

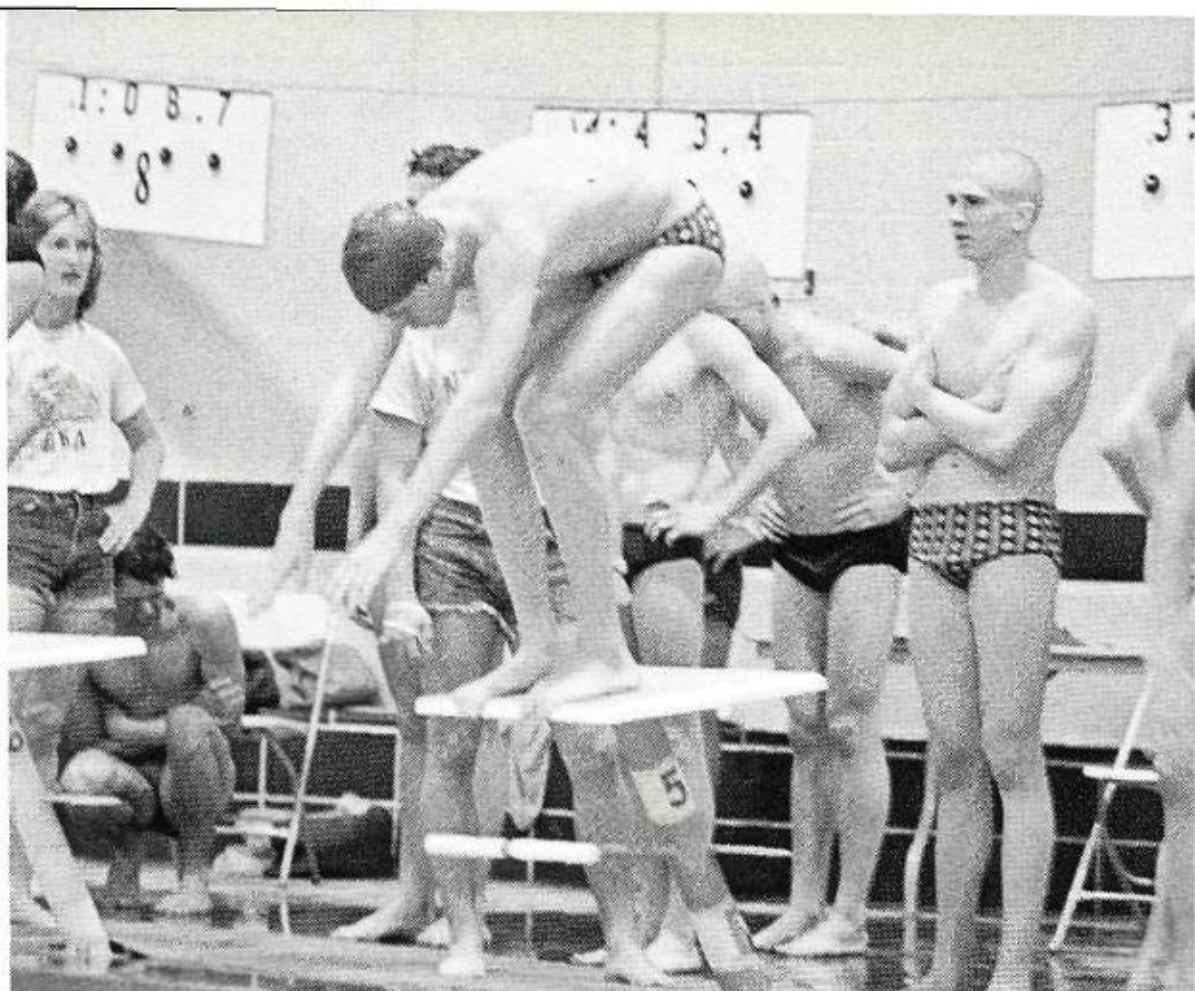

The team put forth a fine effort at State to seize third place, being beaten out of second place by only one point by South. Senior Marc Levine earned the distinction of State Champion in the 100-yard breaststroke by swimming a time of 1:02.2. Peter Omundson captured the 200-yard I.M. title and set a new state record of 1:59.3. Not only was this a new state record, but this was also the first time in the state of Kansas that a person had broken 2:00 in the 200-yard I.M.

Growth = Success

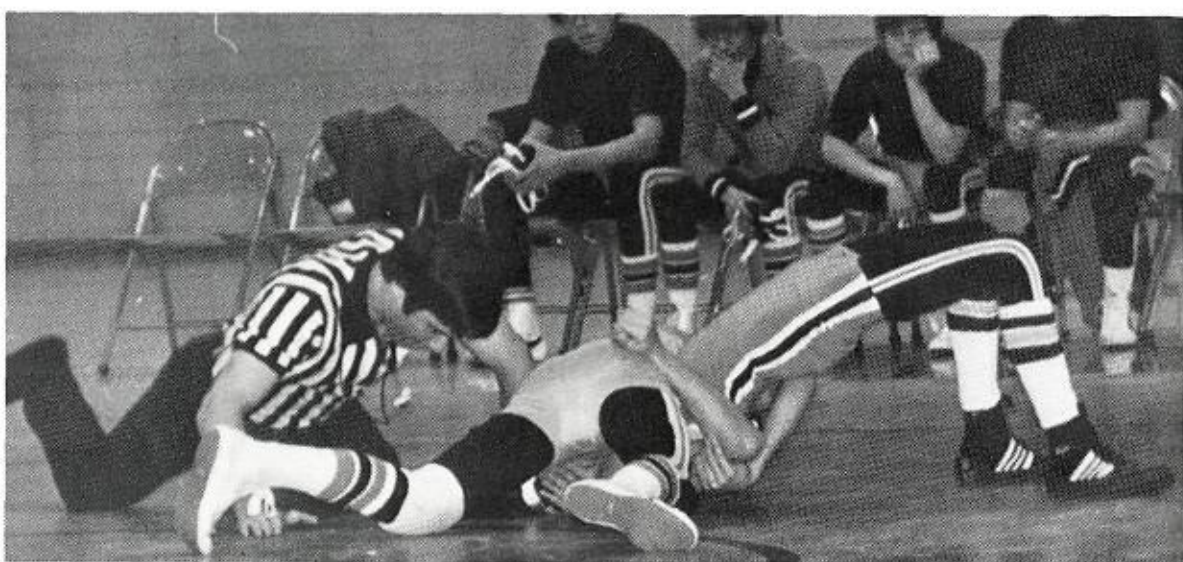

Steady growth and improvement characterized the wrestling season for the inexperienced and young Lancer squad. Returning only four seniors, Andy Wingfield, Mike Behnke, Fred Stattman, and Jim Unruh, the Lancers were forced to fill the other varsity positions with inexperienced yet potentially excellent wrestlers. Wrestling on the varsity level were six sophomores: Biff Rubin, Sam Guemple, Dave Everett, Mark Allen, Jeff Henke, and Tim Mullarky. Also seeing varsity action this season were juniors, Kevin Hubbard, Mike Flynn, Jim Hall, Tod Tollefson, and Mark Bishop.

Highlighting the season was the fine showing of the squad in the League competition. A total of six wrestlers placed in the meet. Wingfield and Hubbard took second in their classes while Guemple, Behnke, Flynn, and Hall captured third.

Traveling to State were Behnke, Hubbard, Hall, Guemple, and Wingfield. Wingfield captured third place in his division. He also compiled a 21-5 seasonal record. Fine performances by youthful wrestlers, and enthusiastic support of Coach Bill Atwell herald a successful future.

On To State

Even though the SM East men's gymnastics team failed to qualify for State in 1975, the team did send three individuals, one of them being Cris Cohen on the parallel bars. Cohen returned again to help the Lancers drive toward a state championship.

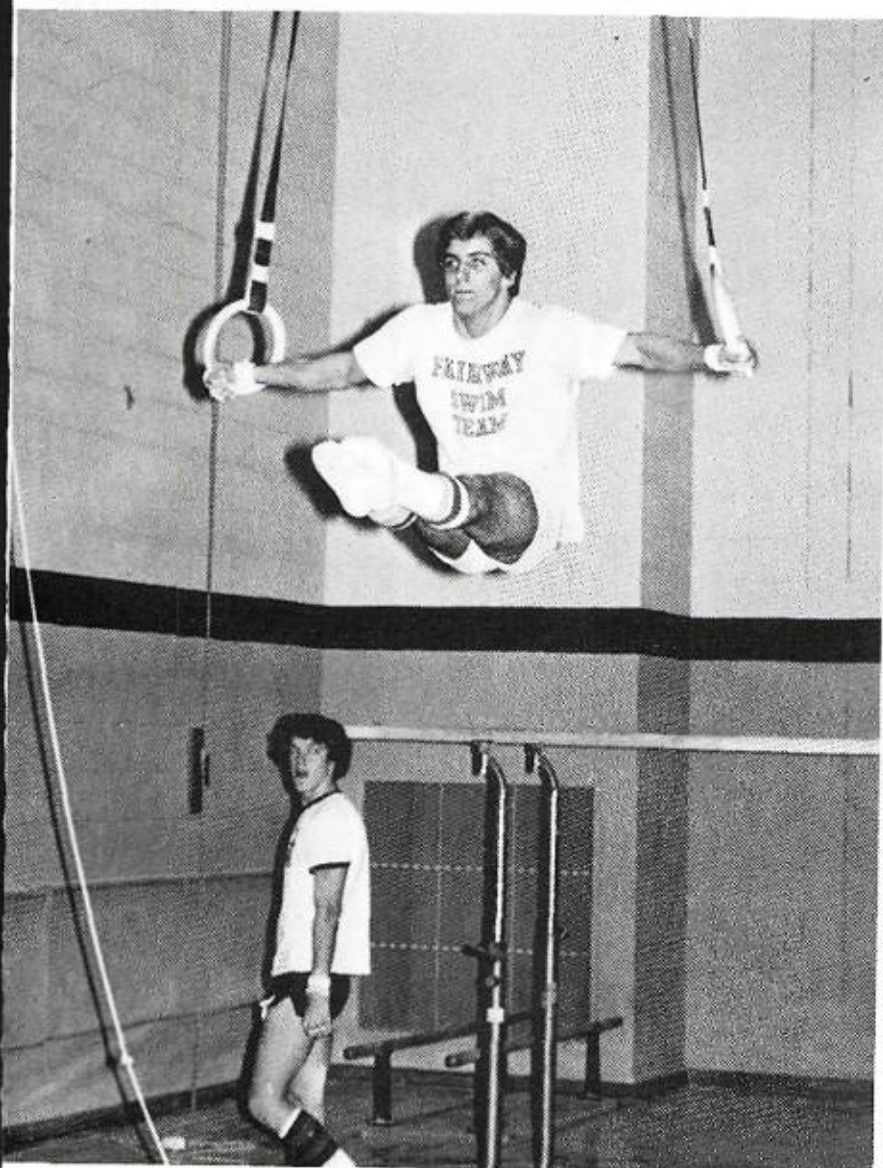

The key to this season's success was experience, and the team had plenty with ten returning lettermen. This experience paid off when the team narrowly defeated last year's state champions, SM South, 115.56 to 114.71. In the next meet the Lancers almost equalled last season's Regional score by tallying 123 points and a defeat over SM North.

With senior Paul Zoglin taking first on the side horse, Stuart Engle and Evan Bisceglia taking first and second in the still rings and Cohen placing first on the bars, East easily defeated SM West. East was hampered by injuries but finished very high in the next two meets. The top teams in these meets were only separated by a few points.

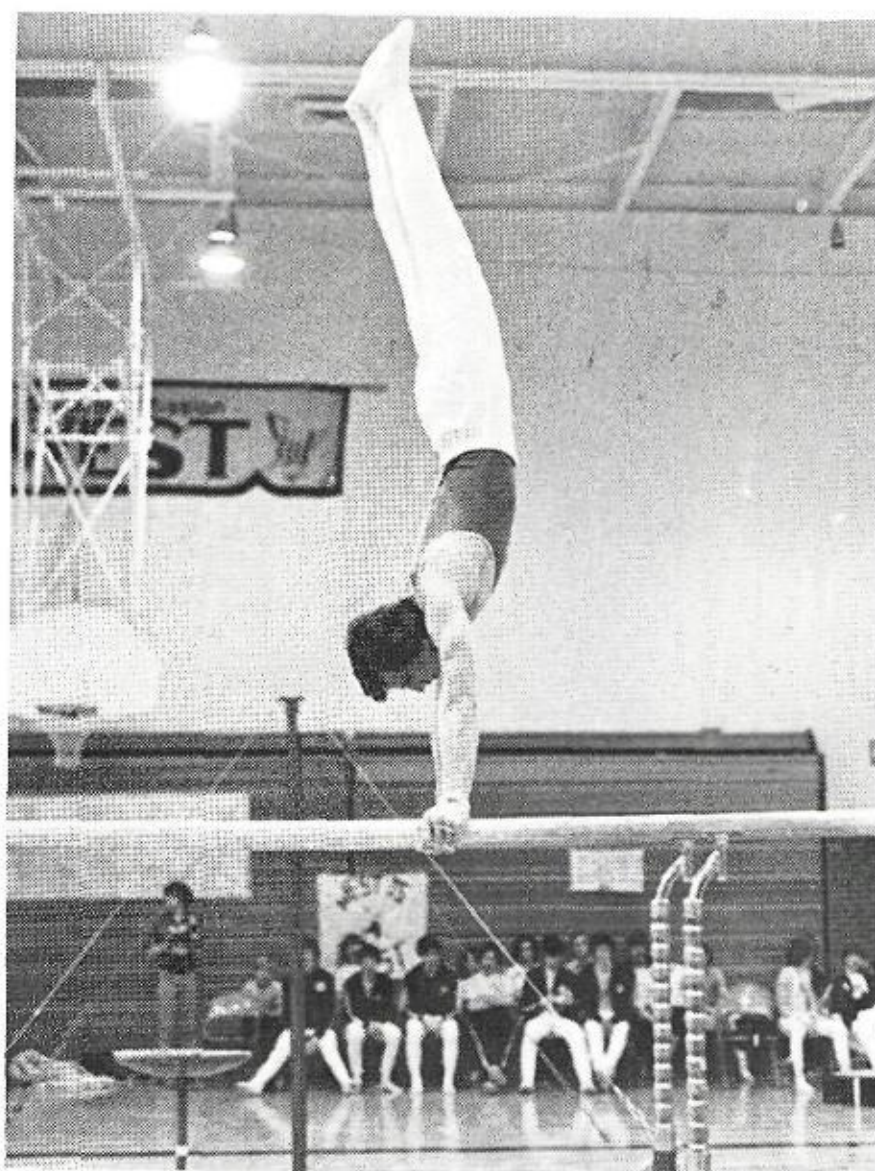

The Lancer gymnastics team then turned toward the Regionals. In this drive the team was helped with fine performances by Richard Kahn in the allround competition, John Layman on the vaulting, Dan Snower on the horizontal bar, and Ray Oatman on the side horse.

High Hopes

The East women's gymnastics team opened the season with a new coach, Mr. Dan Bradfield, and climbed to a team high score of 80.3, bettering last year's high score by almost 10 points. The first varsity victory came at home with the defeat of Northwest and Lee's Summit. The Lancer gymnasts then went on to the Topeka Invitational where they placed third, posting a new scoring record of 80.3 points. The Lancers came away with a 2-5 dual meet record, but improved in score at each successive meet.

This year's East team was a young squad made up basically of sophomores. The Lancers had good depth, with all of the girls nearly equal in athletic ability. The varsity team, led by the exceptionally high scoring of sophomore Connie Boxer on the uneven bars, consisted of seniors, Diane Dyer, Kim Good, Carolyn Larson; juniors, Kelly Vaughn, Lori Worley; sophomores, Nancy Blackman, Lori Garrett, Susan Grier, Sarah Jones, Leslie Lane, and Kitty Tankard.

The team this year was affected by injuries and the fact that there was only one returning letter winner. However, Coach Bradfield predicts East will be in the top three gymnastic teams in the state next year.

Look Forward to State Title

Swimmers practiced diligently and early each day beginning February 16th for their first meet March 16th against West. Mrs. Carolyn Howard required dedication and hard work from the team.

Cam Gallehugh, captain of the varsity team, led the winning team in the 100 yard backstroke. Carolyn Wagstaff, Junior Varsity captain, performed in the 200 yard and 500 yard freestyle. Patty Morton had premier performances in the butterfly.

Team effort was focused toward a second state title.

A Working Unit

Last year was a disappointing year for the Lancer baseball team, but last year was only the second season for East, and a building one.

In every good baseball team there is a special emphasis on a good defensive team, which includes the infield, outfield, and the pitcher. And equally important is a good offensive, the hitters, for those are the group who score the points. These two teams comprise our working unit, and when these two teams are working well together they constitute a championship team. Also an important factor for a good team is an experienced one. The East Baseball team has at the most two years of high school competition experience. However those two years may prove beneficial in the upcoming season.

This season Coach Glen Percy relied upon an experienced offensive and defensive team. The returning lettermen for this year's team were: Martin Rankin, senior; Biff Highfill, senior; Tres Falls, senior; Blair Elliot, senior; Greg McClelland, senior; Russ Fuchs, junior; and Rick Jensen, junior.

The Agony and the Ecstasy

Much time, pain, and sweat are the basic ingredients needed in forming a winning track team. The long distance men logged countless miles, the sprinters practiced their starts and fieldmen lifted many pounds of weights to prepare themselves for the track season. All of this, along with the coaching and encouragement from Coach Karl Englund and his staff was the recipe for a highly competitive team.

Dave Kruger, Doug Knox and Stu Stram were the sprinters for the Lancer's team. Kevin Hauser was again the dominate force in the hurdles. The middle distances were run by Brad Ramsey and Richard Wagstaff. Paul Mallott and Steve Silverman handled the long distance events along with Dave Kious and Lloyd Lynd. Paul Titus took over the high jumping duties while Joe Bianco did the weight events.

The Lancer track team opened the season March 19 at the Washington quadrangle and then moved on to state indoor at Wichita. The team continued its surge towards a State finale.

On the Right Track

The East Girls' Track Team began practicing February 16 in preparation for their first meet on March 27 in Lawrence. Practices were held after school for at least 1½ hours and Saturday mornings for 2 hours. Practice began with ten minutes worth of exercises, 1½ miles warm up before the actual practice.

David Stites coached the team's sprinters. Top sprinters included Karen James, Robin Rollins, seniors; Bev Coleton, Kathy Whitehead, Julie McClelland, juniors. Coach Haraughty was in charge of the long distance runners. Mrs. Vogt coached the girls in the field events. Top high jumpers were Laura Stack and Madeline White.

The Girls' Track program required individual work and dedication, as well as team work. This year's team was small but had a very successful season.

Great Expectations

It was not unusual for the boys' tennis team to be looked upon as a state tennis power when the season began to unfold. SM East has long been known for its winning tradition in tennis. This year their strength again rested in the experience and skill of six lettermen returning from an undefeated 1975 campaign. One returning letterman was David Thies who in '75 combined his talents with John Witter to take the State Doubles Crown. David Rosenberg, Bryan McCaul, Eddy Mindlin, Bill Intrater, and John May also returned for SM East. This nucleus, coupled with the depth and intense competition due to a 35 member team, allowed East to shoot for yet another undefeated season.

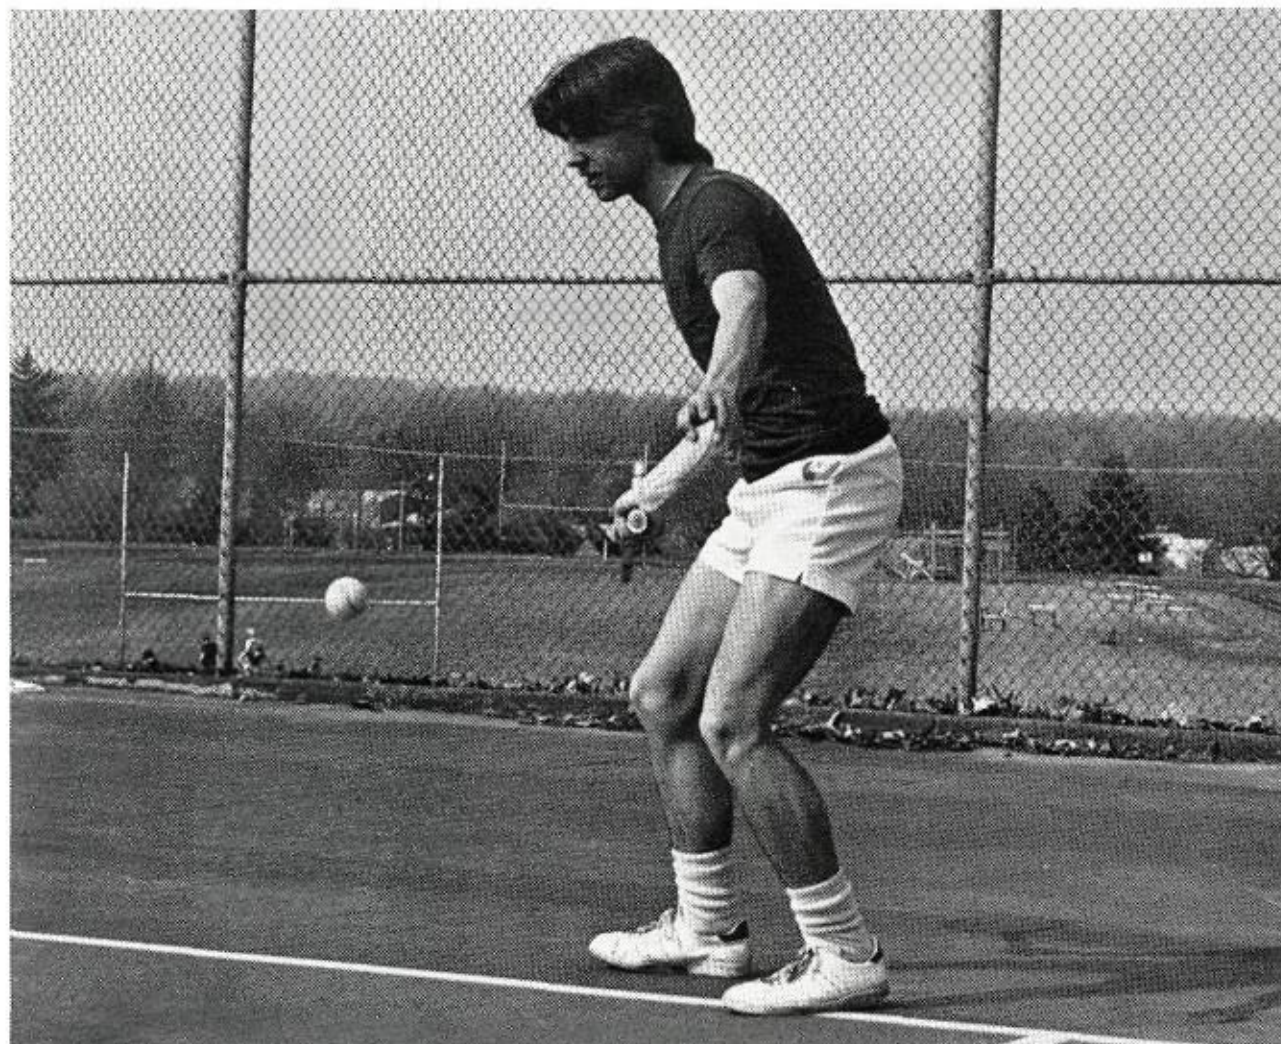

During the season the East netmen clashed with several strong teams including SM South, Pem Day, and Topeka. Topeka, definitely the toughest of East's competitors, met the Lancers in both dual meets and major competitions. But, as the season neared its end, the netmen turned their attention toward the upcoming League, Regional, and State meets. Titles and winning teams are a tradition with Coach Phil Berg and assistant Andy Anderson; a tradition to be proud of.

Expertise on the Course

As the boys' golf team opened the 1976 season under surprisingly warm March skies, Coach Norris Stauffer was again looking forward to a successful season. With the return of six quality lettermen, the prospects of fine tournament performances started the team on its way.

Bryan Miller, a senior, came into the season with all the skill and determination necessary to again carry him into State Competition. Adding further strength were juniors Bill Sherman, Doug Weltner, Mike McNeal, John Peck and senior Mike Kessler.

The Lancer squad opened the season at the Topeka Invitational, the first of seven such tournaments. Following on April 30 was the Sunflower League competition. As the season came to a close, the Lancers participated in the Regionals, a tournament from which qualifying golfers proceeded onto the State meet in Wichita.

Basics Stressed

Softball was again very popular this year with 55 girls competing for positions on the varsity and junior varsity teams. Conditioning for the season began in February under the direction of head coach Miss Patricia Kocalski, a physical education instructor at Indian Hills, and assistant coach, Mr. Brian Odom, SM East drafting teacher. Bad weather forced many practices to be held inside at the Indian Hills gym, where running and infield work were stressed.

The varsity team had 10 double-headers scheduled and the junior varsity 9. All the girls' home games were played on the diamond at Prairie View Park, directly south of the SM East campus. For the first time, Regional and State tournaments were held to give the teams wider competition at the State level.

The Lancers had good depth with the returning letter winners Ruth Boyd, Liz Brown, Cheryl Crozier, Diana Dietrich, Kelly Dodd, Sharon Isaacs, Abby Morris, Cheryl Rayborn, Teresa Sanders, Mary Schulte, and Karen Weium. The team was weak in pitching, but had strong hitters, and a top infield. Many talented sophomores give a promising outlook for next year.

FACULTY

Education could be defined as a process of dispensing information.

The implications, however, are far too impersonal,

Because some administrators and faculty consider teaching as more than just a job.

These teachers, like students, set goals:

To inspire a student to learn.

To gain the respect of a class.

To animate a subject.

And they too, must often deal with disappointment.

Is it always their fault, that we don't listen?

Who's to blame, when we refuse to care?

They are hired to teach us—but how frustrating an endeavor, unless we reciprocate with our attention.

Administration Leads

To efficiently organize and direct fifty-two elementary schools, ten junior high schools, and five senior high schools was a job undertaken by the administration. Head superintendent Dr. Arzell Ball, associate superintendents, the Board of Education, and the five area Advisory Boards worked together to maintain a school district of quality.

Our Advisory Board served as the link between the Board of Education and interested teachers, parents, and students. Problems were approached by the Advisory Board, which later referred its findings to the Board of Education. One of the main concerns of the East Advisory Board during the 75-76 year was boundary changes to equalize the number of students enrolled in each attendance area. The Board also took steps to expand communication with students by allowing a student Advisory Board member.

The Board of Education specified a set of objectives for the 75-76 year, which included a review of present use of district facilities and boundary lines, and the adoption of a district philosophy.

Principals Combine Talents

The combined efforts of four outstanding administrators made SM East "The Spirit of Shawnee Mission." These four dedicated men, each possessing a special educating talent, united their ingenuities to meet the ideas and needs of the entire school.

Dr. James Sandfort, principal, bridged the communication gap between the students, teachers, and parents. Dr. Arthur Newcomer, assistant principal and athletic director, devoted much time and energy handling East's boys and girls sport programs. Mr. Wallace Franklin, vice-principal in charge of student activities and affairs, fought student apathy. He communicated directly with, and encouraged students to join any of the numerous activities, clubs, or special committees that East had to offer. Concerned with curriculum and instruction, Dr. Richard Trast was responsible for the teacher evaluation and student disciplinary problems. The union of all four administrators' talents formed an authority that resulted in a satisfying high school experience.

Counselors—Dedication

To complete three years at SM East without contact with the counseling staff was unlikely—for their excellence to escape notice, improbable. The dedicated efforts of Miss Criley, Mrs. Schenewerk, Mr. Mermoud, Mrs. Kelly, and Mr. Gersh, upheld a quality guidance program.

Their duties were as numerous as individuals at SM East; their methods of relating to students, as diverse. Competent dealing with schedule conflicts, the administration of standardized tests, personal difficulties and college applications were included in a counselor's numerous occupations. The counselors supplied their services for the organization of the College Clinic, held in October, in addition to being present at every college representative's visit throughout the year. These advisors acted as liasons between the students, parents, and administration.

Yet another aspect of the counselors' multi-faceted activities was evidenced in their willingness to listen. To have appreciated the guidance counselors' importance, the student must have been aware of their services.

School just wouldn't be school without the cafeteria's beef fritters. The ladies responsible for turning out all those beef fritters, and a wide variety of other foods, were constantly trying to improve the lunch service to meet student demands. Since the initiation of the open lunch policy, the cafeteria ladies have had to compete with McDonald's and Topsy's for student's business. They arose to the challenge by providing several alternative lunch services in the form of a traditional lunch line, a snackbar line, and a milk and ice cream line. If the large crowds of students who waited in lunch lines serve as an indicator, the school lunch service gave McDonald's a run for its money.

Perhaps one of the most integral aspects in the workings of a school is the custodial service, yet it is often the most overlooked. The custodians were responsible for maintaining the school building and grounds. They were also always ready to attend to all emergencies whenever they might arise.

PTA—An Involved Group

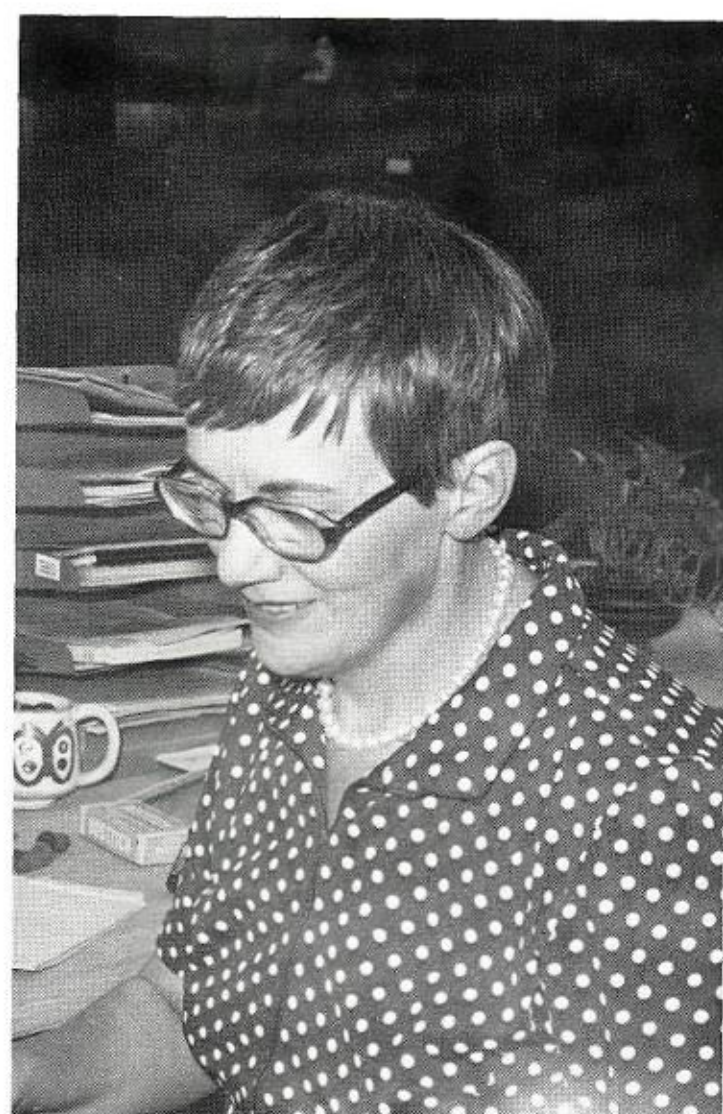

Involvement was the key word of the 1975-76 Parent Teacher Association. Parents interacted with teachers and together they strove to set up goals of involvement for students to follow. The Shawnee Mission East PTA boasted one of the largest memberships in the state of Kansas. It also had the largest board, which consisted of forty-three members.

Besides being an organization of great size, the SM East PTA, headed by Mrs. Melba Wood, was an organization of action. An early project was Back-to-School Night, which was held to enhance communication between teachers and parents. The thirteenth College Clinic was held in October, with representatives from one hundred and fifty colleges and universities present, the largest number to participate in the history of the clinic. In February, the PTA was involved in the school's week of emphasis on the Bicentennial, including the production of the musical "1776".

The parents became directly involved in the school by helping in the counselors' office, the library, and the attendance center. A new program was initiated to contact and personally welcome every parent new to the East high school area.

Attendance Stressed

"The car pool came late; then I forgot my French book. It shouldn't happen again . . ." "First hour yesterday? Uh . . . I was in class, I think." Such comments were heard frequently by the nurse and office personnel.

Keeping busy with a new attendance policy, the nurse and office staff filed records and found "misplaced" students. Designed to curtail excessive absences, the policy did just that—brought more students back into the classrooms and pacified teachers' concerns. Students were able to assist by typing, delivering messages, and doing other various jobs requested. Tending to the needs of substitutes, faculty members, and administrators, the office ladies helped organize East's financial affairs and activities.

Satisfying needs from safety pins to an air splint for a broken arm, Mrs. Dorn provided health services for the entire school.

The office administration functioned as an essential part in fulfilling the numerous requests of faculty and students. They maintained the composure of SM East.

Library Takes on New Dimension

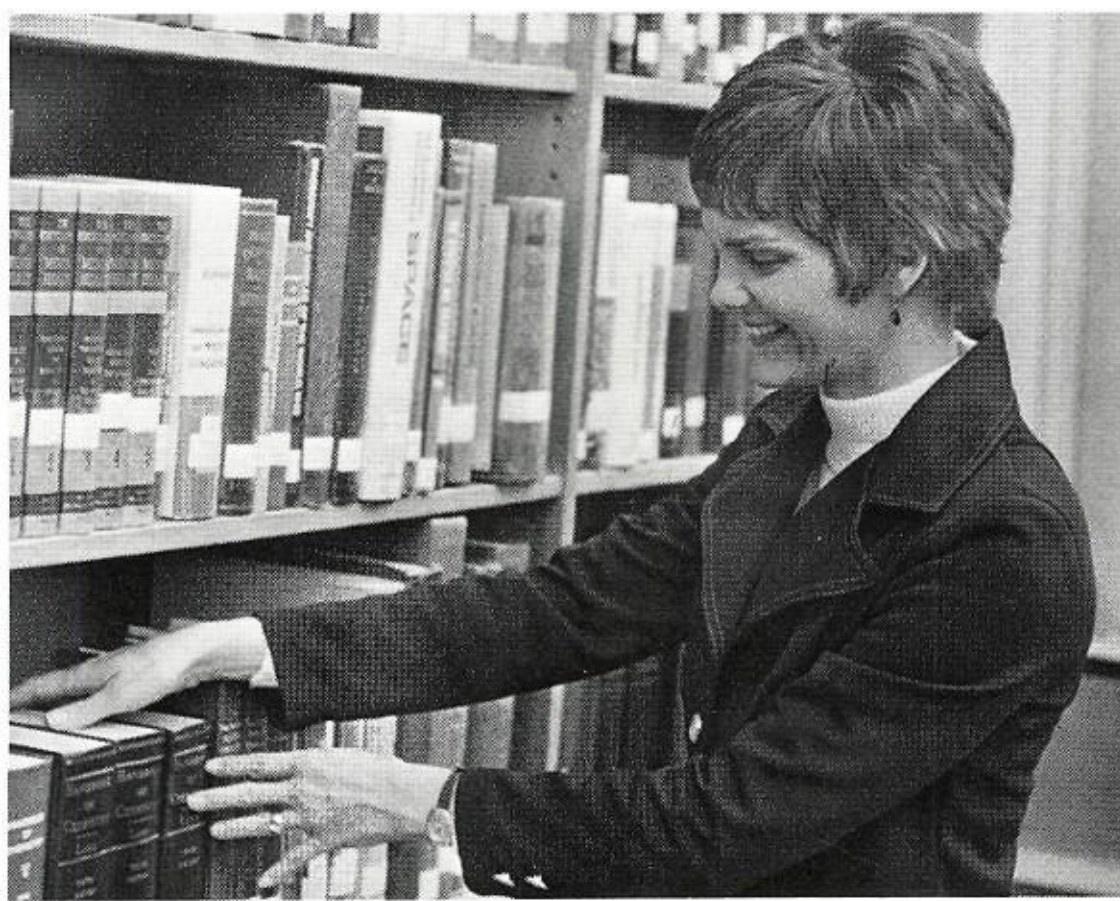

Through a variety of materials, the library provided students at Shawnee Mission East with the needed components for learning. The library contained approximately 20,000 volumes, ranging from the classic literary works of Steinbeck and Hemingway to books about the culinary arts. In addition, learning could be supplemented by the use of nearly 150 different periodicals, many on back issues or microfilm. Various audio-visual materials also aided the students. They included records, film loops, sound filmstrips, slides, and transparencies.

The librarians, Mrs. Jan Wood and Mrs. Polly Reichardt, strived to keep all resource materials up to date and in fine condition. Several student aides helped the librarians with routine tasks.

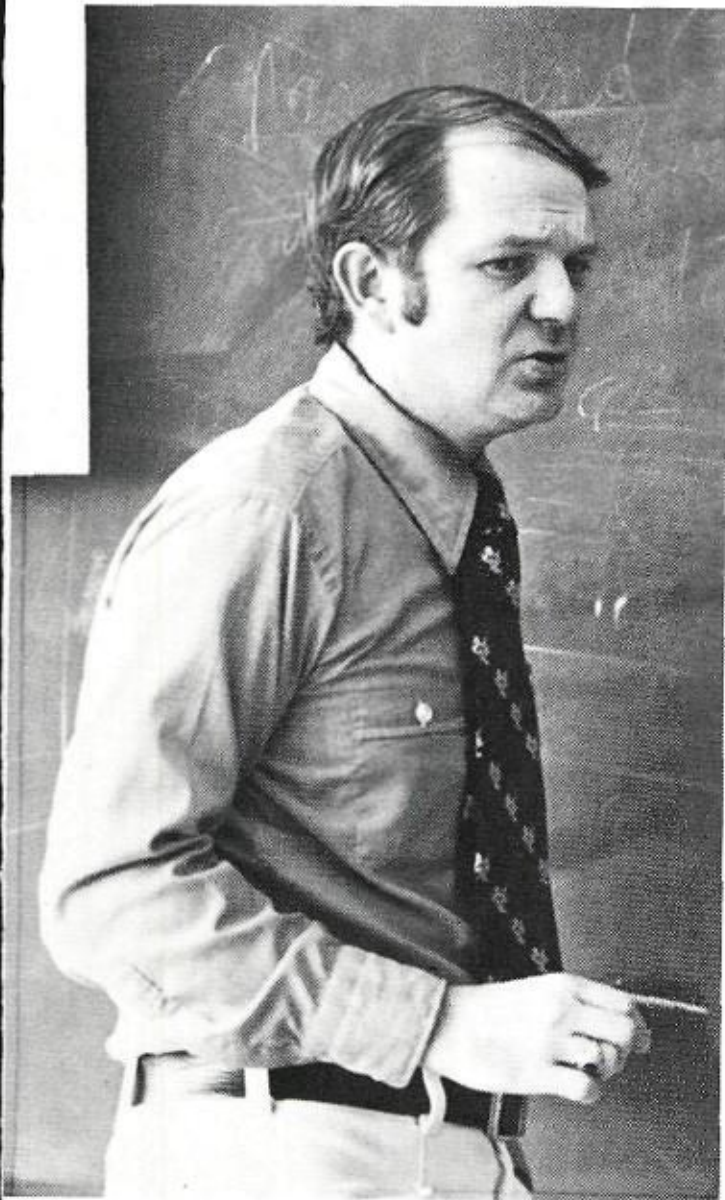

The library took on a new dimension this year with the installation of a 3M detection system. The new system was a part of a district-wide emphasis on security. Contrary to common belief, the safeguard was not only to keep books in the library, but also to help keep materials in proper circulation. The system enabled better service for the students. Our library was an effective learning center.

Language: Initiation

Living in a highly competitive society, we must be able to express ourselves competently. If we are not able to convey our thoughts and ideas logically into speech or composition, we are lost in this competitive race. The main objective of the English department was to teach students to write creatively and speak effectively.

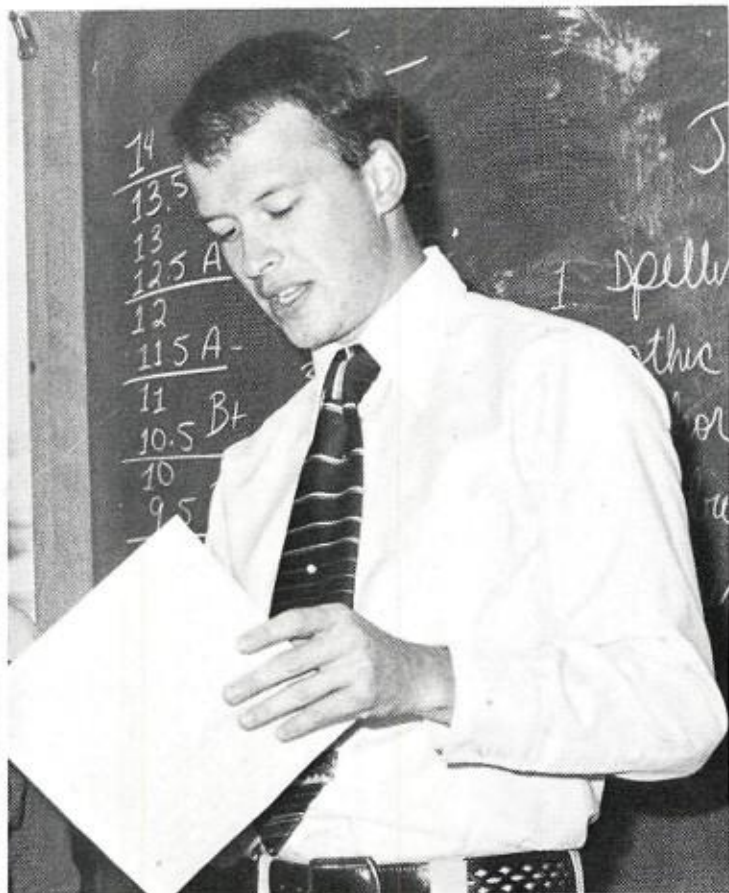

During their three years at SM East, students were exposed to vital methods enabling them to communicate more effectively. Sophomores learned the concept of the expository theme, containing a thesis, three supporting paragraphs, and a conclusion. The skills were refined and taken a step further by means of the mini-course program. By choosing their own teacher, students experienced not only a diversity of teaching methods, but varied personalities as well. Juniors were exposed to the classic writers of our time, including Steinbeck, Fitzgerald, and Hemingway. Seniors found 30 DAYS as much fun as a South victory. They also learned composition and sentence structure which proved helpful when taking aptitude tests. Basically, senior English courses were beneficial to students pursuing a college education.

Centers Aid Discovery

The Learning and Career Centers enjoyed an improvement of facilities and an increased degree of effectiveness. They encouraged SM East students to become familiar with the centers, and to take advantage of the available guidance and resources.

The Learning Center catered to the needs of the special education program, also serving as an extension of the English department. Students employed the services of Mrs. Gail Welliver and Mrs. Laurie Ward to receive additional help on a specific English topic, make-up tests, or to pursue an area of special interest. The Learning Center, through the administration of achievement tests, aided teachers in determining a student's strengths and weaknesses.

The Career Education Center introduced SM East students to a realm of career opportunities. Mrs. Barbara Evans, career education coordinator, conducted students through a two-week course, designed to acquaint them with their interests and capabilities. Information pertaining to job openings, career movies, and college catalogues constituted but a few of the vast resources offered by the Career Center.

East Performing Arts

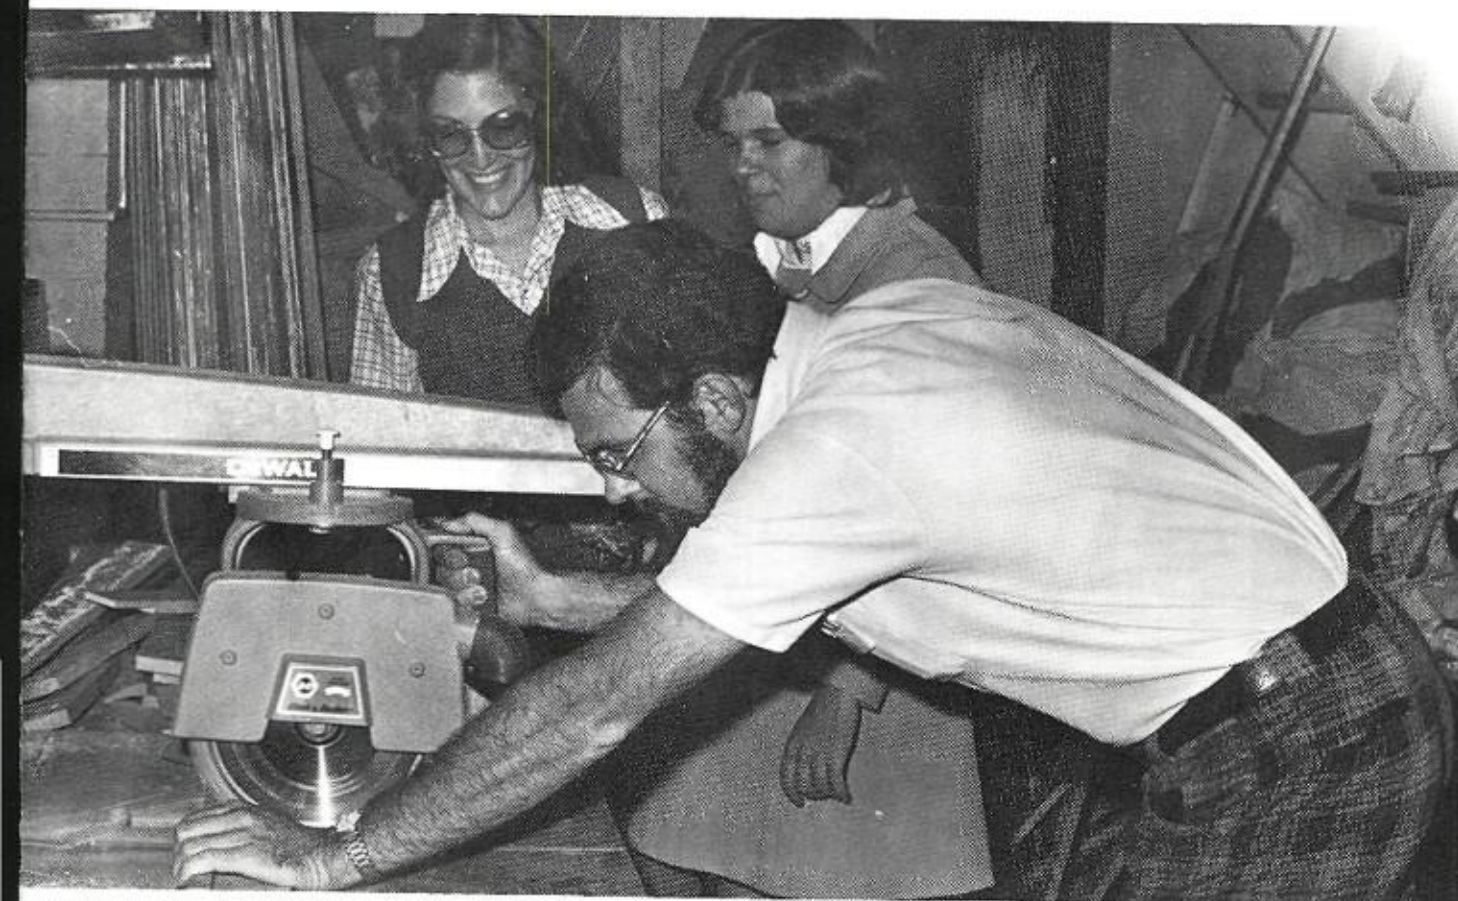

Communication is an important tool used in the construction and maintenance of a society. Students involved in drama, debate, and forensics gained additional skills and techniques in the art of communicating. While improving individually, the participants were also representing SM East as a whole.

The ability to defend a topic using intellect and logic, then reversing positions and arguing against the subject describes the qualities of a debater. Debate added self-confidence and leadership qualities to the individual, who also gained knowledge in researching procedures. Drama enabled a person to project the actions and feelings of another individual through physical as well as verbal means. Dramatic classes process future "stars" in the many SM East stage productions. Speech students, besides learning basic techniques in communication, became prepared to participate in the extracurricular forensics program. Basic speech class often led to more specialized study.

Social Science Offered Choices

The social science department tackled the job of enlightening students about man and his relationship with society, by using a variety of courses, required and electives, as well as alternative teaching methods. When enrolling for the required social studies classes, the student was given a choice between an American studies program and the traditional classes of American history and government.

The relatively new American studies program offered a learning experience by means of a thematic approach. Using this method, an attempt was made to build better thinkers who had the ability to solve problems independently. While at the same time learning the important factors involved in the American experience. American history and government courses were taught on a more conventional level following chronological units, but the goals were basically the same as those of the American studies program.

The wide range of elective courses enabled students to pursue individual interests, from economics to anthropology to sociology.

Licking a foreign tongue proved to be a tasty endeavor for many language students. Overhead labs in five classrooms were used to a better advantage than ever this year. Under the enthusiastic direction of Charles Pearce, the foreign language department has strived for an increasing enrollment in three modern languages and Latin. By researching another language, students were able to gain a better understanding of their own.

The foreign language resource center was a functioning part of the entire program this year. Students were able to utilize the room for make-up assignments and independent work, along with consulting various audio-visual aids that were made available. Playing a very important role, the resource center provided a necessary service for both students and teachers.

Each language class strived to improve four basic language skills: reading, writing, listening, and speaking. Beginning students concentrated on basic grammar and vocabulary growth, while the more experienced studied various literatures.

The value of knowing a second language became greater as each young person grew more aware of other peoples in other lands. For many, foreign countries and lifestyles were that much closer.

G. H. Hardy, the English mathematician, described mathematicians and their studies in this way: "what we do may be small, but it has a certain character of permanence; to have produced anything of the slightest permanent interest, whether it be a copy of verses or a geometrical theorem, is to have done something utterly beyond powers of the vast majority of men."

Students at Shawnee Mission East studied mathematics ranging from basic geometry and algebra to specialized trigonometry—analytic geometry and calculus. Some students found math confusing and useless; the inquisitive students viewed math as rewarding. Endless hours of study and practice developed into mathematical knowledge for interested students. Some students discovered that once useless theorems they learned in geometry could be applied to answer questions dealing with everyday life. "What are the chances for fair weather tomorrow if it rained every day last week?" Or, "is it possible for our economy, with a constant rate of expansion, to be in equilibrium!" With application of simple theorems and properties, the answers to these questions could be acquired easily.

The mathematics department at SM East not only taught basic skills of math, but also demonstrated usage of these skills in life.

Expansion in Sciences Seen at East

The 1975-76 school year brought major additions to the science department's curriculum. Meteorology and electronics were added to the already existing programs in physics, chemistry, and biology students were able to choose between a structured or individualized class situation, or between a normal or advanced level of study.

Experimentation was a key word in all of the science classes, enabling students to utilize and evaluate the facts and theories they had learned. Classroom lab facilities were in constant use, as was the department resource center, which acted as a supplementary tool in the student's pursuit of scientific knowledge. Meteorology students added an interesting note to life at SME through their lab work; weather forecasts were made and placed in the daily announcements for student benefit.

Music Interests

The SM East Choral, represented by several select singing groups, performed at concerts throughout the year. The Chamber Singers, Choraliers, Concert, Girls' and Sophomore Choirs, directed by Mr. Dan Zollars, established a reputation of excellence and originality. Deviating from the traditional holiday vespers program, SM East experienced its first "Black Christmas." Mr. Jester Hairston, an authority on Negro spirituals, directed the choirs in the performance.

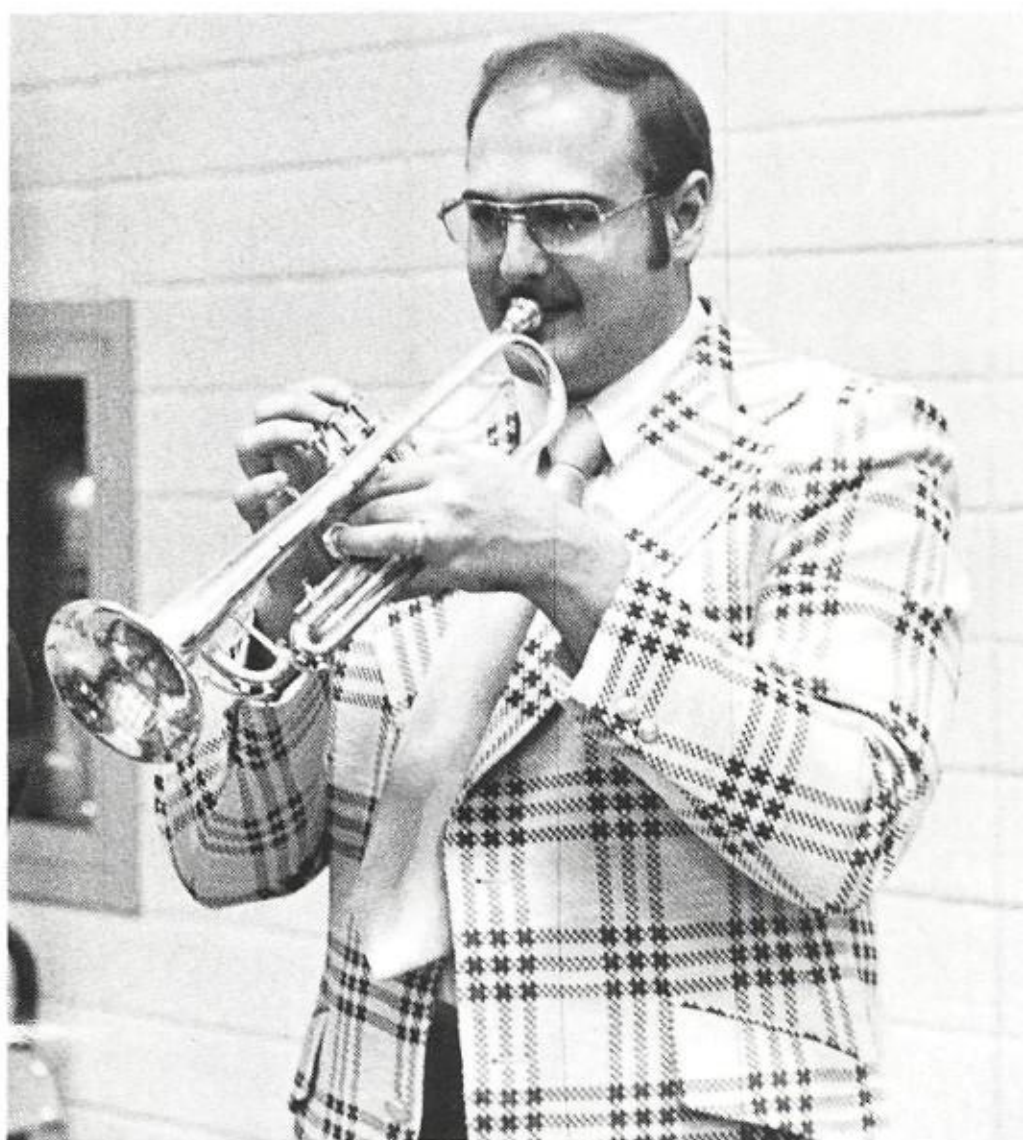

The Lancer marching band, under the guidance of Mr. Stephen Phalp, achieved recognition for earning top ratings at both the District and State Marching Band Festivals. The Pep Band promoted enthusiasm at assemblies and athletic events.

Demonstrating instrumental talent, the orchestra, led by Mr. Kenneth Tebow, also maintained a concert schedule.

The efforts of the choirs and orchestra combined in a tribute to American music in the Masterworks Concert. The State Music Festival, held in April, provided an opportunity for all aspects of the SM East Music department to be evaluated according to their skills.

Art Rouses Creativity

Developing self-expression and creativity, art students took advantage of a wide variety of course offerings. Independent studies and open labs provided artists the opportunity of exploring such crafts as pottery and weaving.

Students enrolled in the basic art course, Art 1, dabbled in water colors, acrylic paints, sculpture, ceramics, and printmaking. Designed to give students a sample of many medias, Art 1 was taught on the trimester basis for the first time. The rotation of three teachers during one course permitted each instructor to demonstrate his particular specialties. After the completion of Art 1, students were able to enroll in any of the ten available art courses, including textiles and weaving, design, and jewelry. Art resource materials normally found in the library were kept in the art rooms for easy-reference. Students not taking art classes were also encouraged to use them.

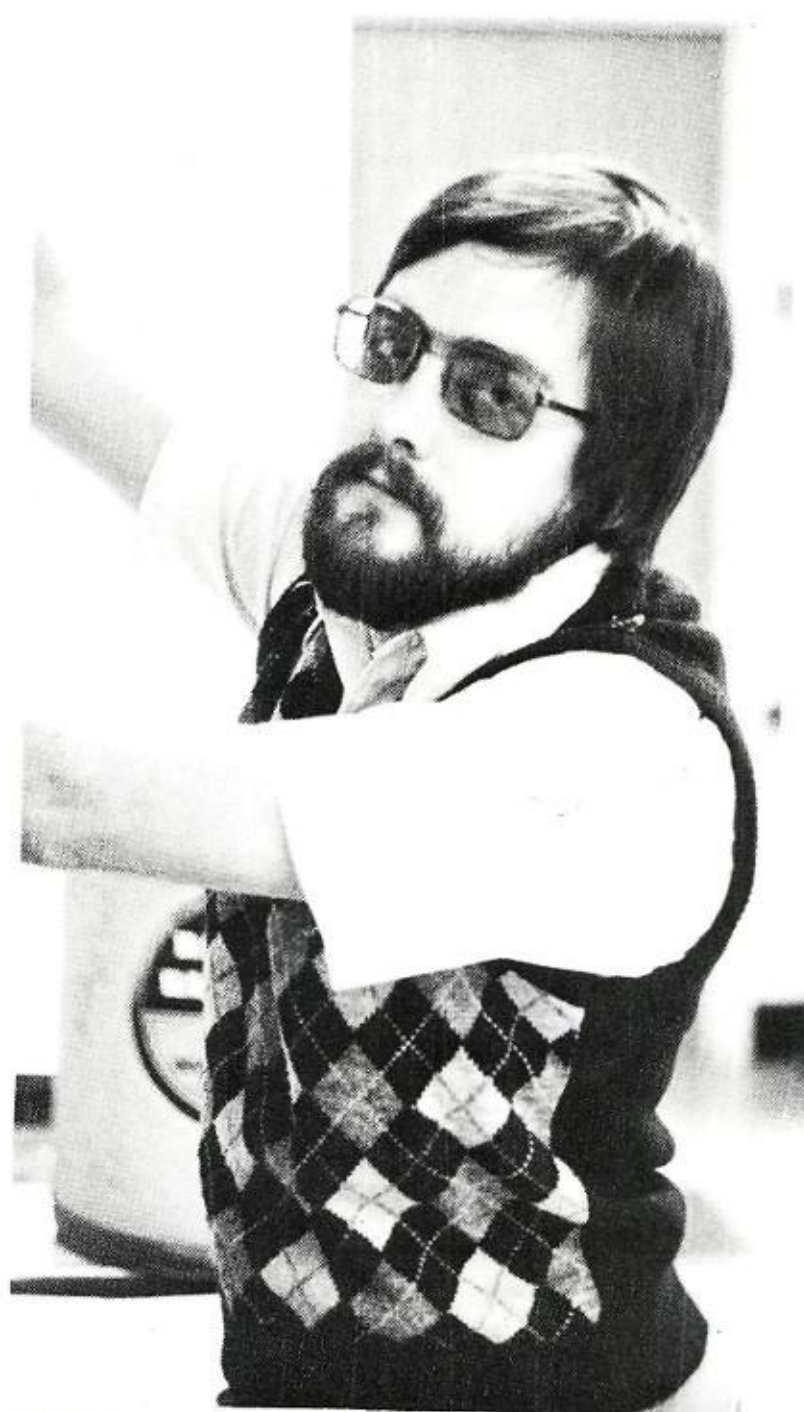

A unique combination of enthusiasm and individuality gave the art department a character of its own. Students gained valuable self-confidence and creative ability.

Business Interest Up

As economic conditions remained uncertain, the enrollment in the business department was up. The practical side of education—the business curriculum—was appealing to many students who were searching for specific preparation to enable them to enter the business world with full training.

The total scope of business education was available through a variety of courses. Shorthand, bookkeeping, business machines, typing, and record keeping all provided students with a wide spectrum of the basic business skills. Other available classes furnished business students with practical opportunities where they could build upon their elementary knowledge. The office education class offered on-the-job training in the school office, and students in typing III class were participants in a simulated office experience. In business law and personal finance, the student could gain skills valuable to any career.

Home Challenges

In our modern society, home economy is a necessity. Rising prices and the devaluation of the dollar make the task of homemaking a challenge. The domestic arts department at S.E. East educated girls and boys in the science of home economics, coupled with the art of creativity. The students were taught the planning and preparation of food, clothing, and interior design.

The knowledge and skills acquired within the home economics department enabled the student to better prepare himself for the future. Clothing classes not only learned how to sew and tailor articles of clothing, but they also developed other skills such as needlepoint, embroidery and quilt-making. A dinner theater was created by the foods classes as an experiment of applying their knowledge towards a useful endeavor. The child development class also sponsored a "kiddie school".

Drivers Braved Traffic

Emphasizing the importance of behind-the-wheel experience, the drivers' education instructors at SM East developed a new program centering around the recently built driving range. Young drivers were able to spend less time in the classroom, and concentrate more on driving maneuvers.

Adding another dimension to the program, the driving range enabled students to experience blow-outs, skidding on a slippery surface, and parallel parking. Instructors were in radio contact with every car, lending advice and commands to its occupants. Although the range appears to be a complex maze of asphalt and lines, it was hoped that area residents would also be able to take advantage of it. The future holds the possibility of a motorcycle course and the arrival of smaller cars for the range.

Leading up to the state driver's license examination, the course covered all facets of driving, including skills in perception and prevention of collisions. As students coped with actual traffic situations, they learned correct driving habits and attitudes. Before acquiring a license, students realized certain responsibilities.

'If I Had a Hammer'

The bell rang with its usual omnipresence . . . the score was obvious . . . Man: fourteen; Machine: twelve. Only the great and mighty DOLS, alias Dinesen, Odom, Lebar and Sulzen would know tomorrow's outcome. Hopefully, they will choose to drill the press, a feat never before attempted in the presence of a visual communicator.

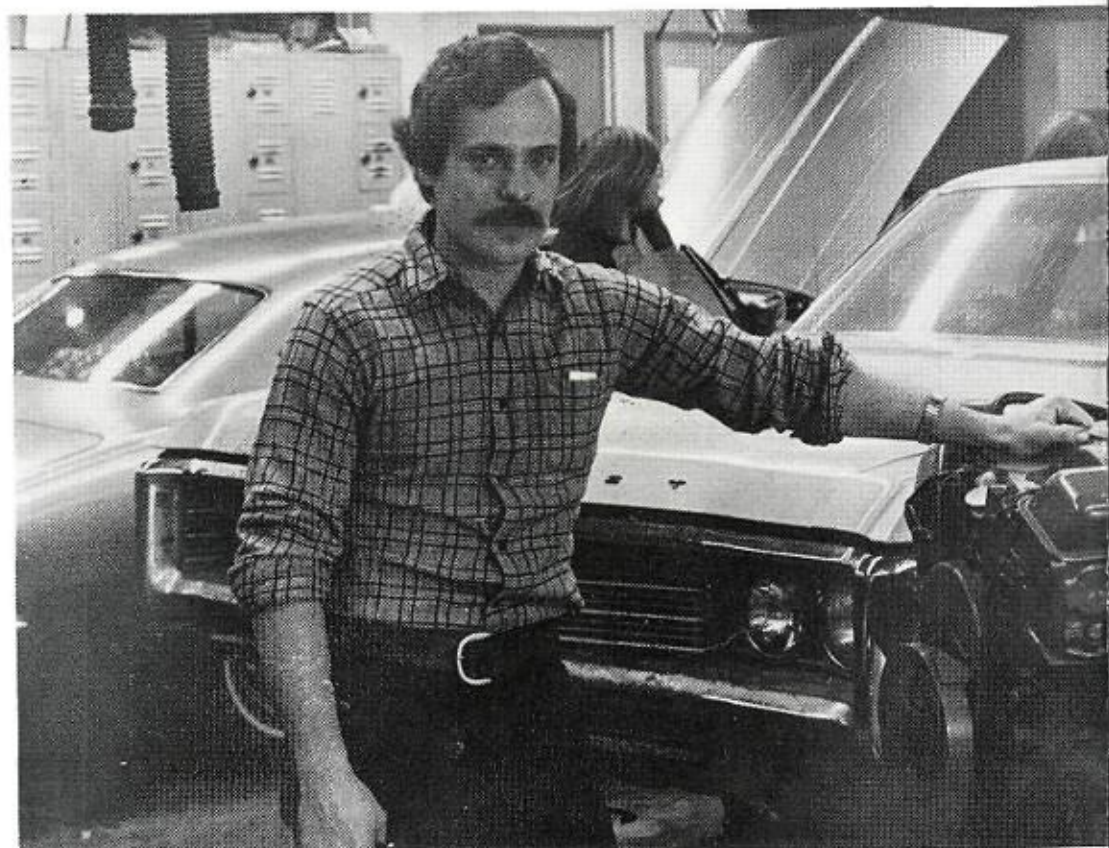

A scene from a recent science fiction movie? No. This is the world of Industrial Arts at SM East. The department encouraged education by experimentation while acquainting students with the fundamental processes of industry. Offering a diverse group of courses, the program was designed to accommodate a wide variety of interests and abilities ranging from architectural drawing to automobile maintenance.

In the machine drawing classes, students studied blueprints and orthographic projections, while architectural classes drew actual floor plans of houses. The newest course, graphic arts, taught printmaking and photography.

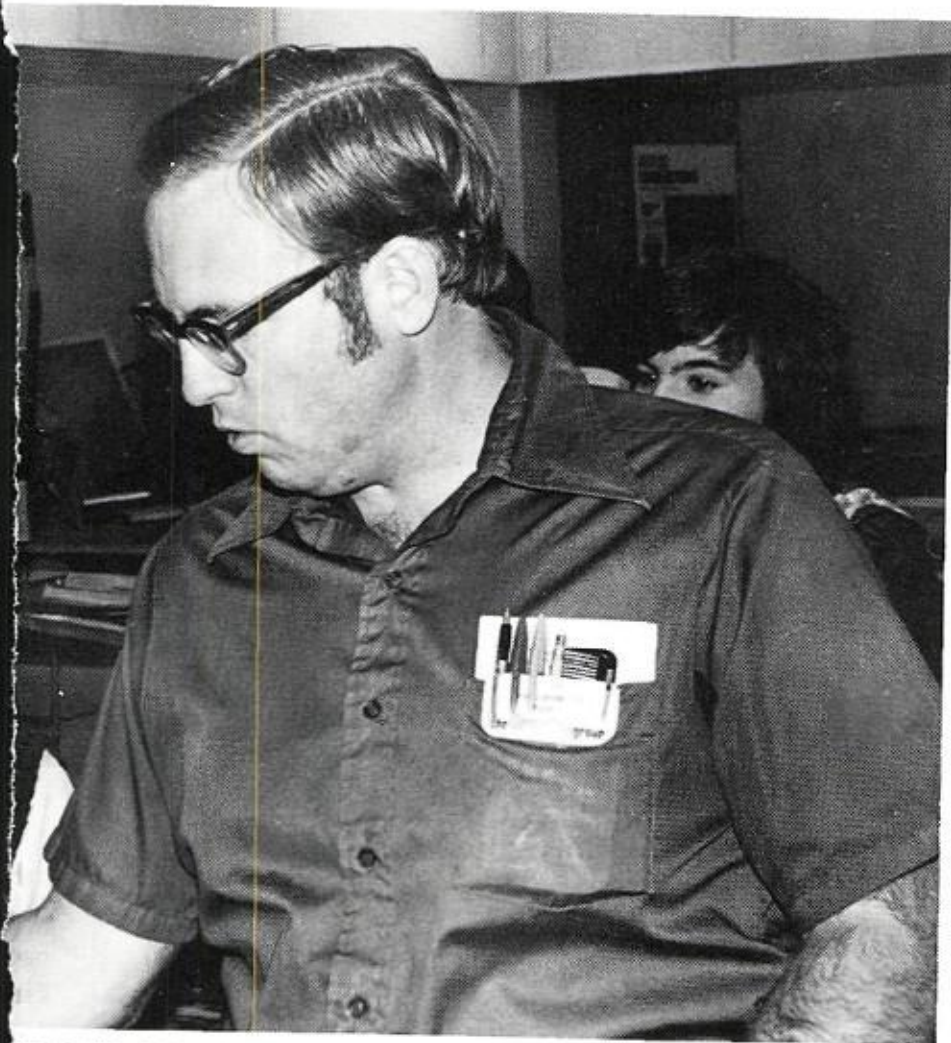

In the woodshop, students progressed from the basic skills of handling wood to the construction of more complex projects, while metal classes exposed the student to foundry and welding. While working on students' cars, members of the auto technology classes learned valuable skills that may be used the rest of their lives. Amidst a facade of confusion, the possibilities presented by the combination of man and machine are endless.

A Break in the Day

Physical Education, to many students, was a well-deserved break in their rigorous schedules. A quick swim or an exhilarating game of handball could have released unwanted tension and given a person a brand new outlook on the day. Physical Education strove to develop new capacities and desires of the students. To develop physical skills required a broad program with specific activities. Physical Education classes not only drew on physiology, but even sociology and psychology.

With a much more diverse curriculum, Physical Education extended something for everybody. Girls were offered Aquatics, Gymnastics, and Modern Dance along with the standard P. E. program. Boys had their choice in Tumbling, Gymnastics, and for all the future Tommy Bells, there was an elective in rules and officiating. In addition, for the person who had more on his mind than learning the fundamentals of volleyball, co-ed team sports were also offered.

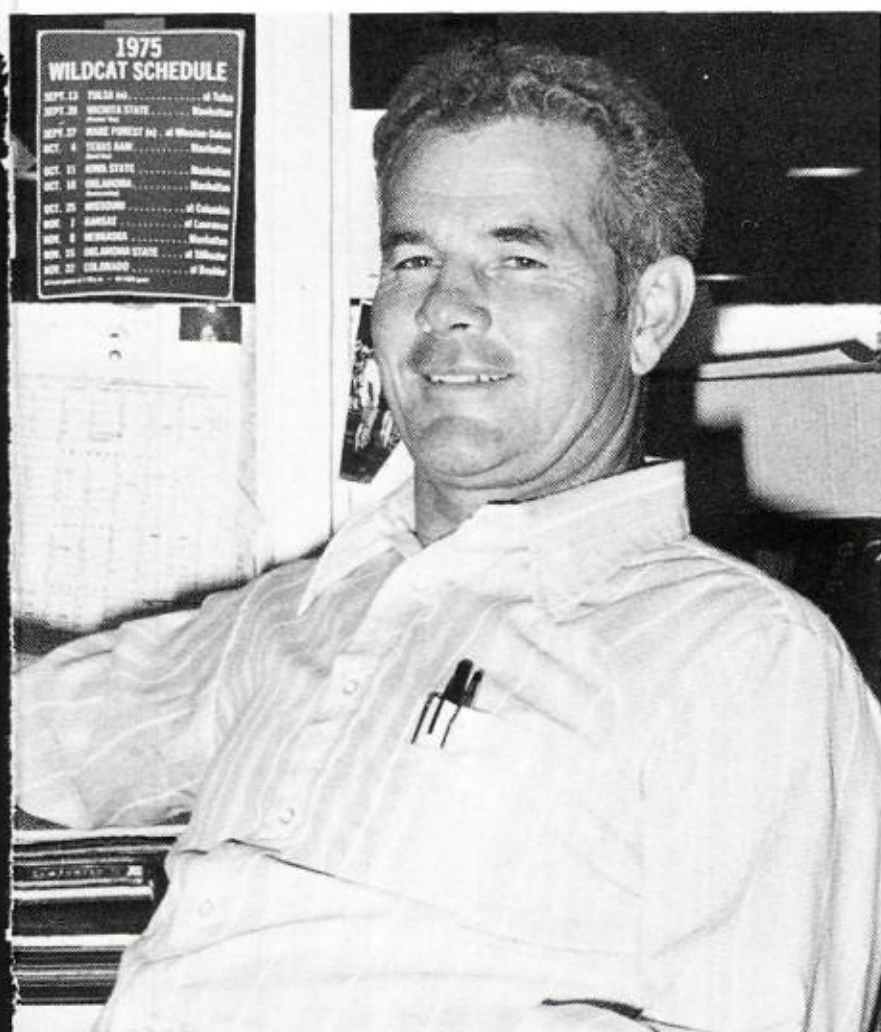

A well-rounded selection of electives not only constituted a challenge for those who participated, but also a good time. In all of these activities the spirit of fun should prevail; ideally, the focus is on education in leisure activity.

Student Body

There is no "typical" SM East student.
Each one of us is unique.

Because each of us possesses personal characteristics, the SM East Student Body cannot be defined.

Yet we neatly categorize others, conveniently limiting ourselves to a small number of friends, and thus,
values and ideas

Jocks, freaks, sophomores, juniors, seniors—all assigned a place in the social strata.

If we feel comfortable in accepting such a label at face value, either for ourselves or others, we have failed to grasp the meaning of personal relationships—individuals in search of understanding.

Yet self-expression is difficult.

In a school as large as East we can pass from room to room, year to year, unnoticed.

Naturally we seek the confidence that accompanies a group—the ease of being with others—wearing tee shirts bearing nicknames every Thursday, developing special codes and secret mottos.

And as long as we acknowledge our search for self-identity, we are not confined.

We have room to grow.

If we realize individuality can't be reached through others, we can be part of a group without being stifled by it.

If lacking self-awareness, where are we when our protective label is removed?

Sophomores

As sophomores, we are just as important as seniors.

We participate in activities.

We contribute to the whole.

But sometimes it seems that East is geared primarily towards the juniors and seniors.

In the midst of PSAT's, ACT's, junior varsity and varsity sports, and college representatives—the sophomores are often overlooked.

We meet this frustration, however, with insight.

The sophomore year is one of transition—meeting people, making friends, acclimating ourselves to a new environment, blending as a class.

Though confusing, the newness of East is exciting.

The discovery of new interests marks an increased awareness of ourselves and others.

Our initial responses to the opportunities that East offers, are vital in establishing the foundation on which we build our high school experiences.

Junior iors

Part of what you gain with a good education is the quality of your idle moments, your play. A student grows and develops twenty-four hours a day—not just the five or six he might be in the classroom. Juniors took advantage of these idle moments, acquiring new ideas and interest. As individuals we remained distinct, but as a class we were held together by several goals. What we learned as individuals influenced the attitudes, the aspirations, the motivations and the experiences that will affect our lives for years to come. As a class, we united to plan and construct Prom—together we endured the many frustrations that went hand in hand with the joys of working with one another and making new friends. The result was a unique bond among members of the Junior class. Looking ahead, we can see the climax of our school days approaching. As kindergartners, we hardly knew where the end would be—And now, with one special year ahead of us, we no longer view it as an end, but a very special beginning. We want to make our last year in high school count, to further enrich our lives, and those of our classmates.

See how many friends I have?

Senior

It is impossible that by our senior year we could be totally void of any feeling for East.

No matter how involved we were, or how apathetically we viewed high school, we retain memories of its impressions. Like any other year, we can consider the emotions, activities and academics with feelings of ambivalence.

But the experiences we share as a class make our senior year somewhat different than others.

We all endured senior English and SAT's just as we shared the thrill of beating South in basketball and of graduation.

And for the first time, we were forced to face the decisions of the future.

This too created a bond.

At some point between the time we got our senior picture taken in June, and graduation in May, a transformation occurred.

We acquired the outlook of a senior.

As spring approached, we found ourselves less aware of grades and more aware of people.

The concept of time evoked mixed emotions—wanting to retain the security of the present, but anxious to explore the challenge of what lies ahead.

Advertisements

Perhaps something that made the Hauberk unique was its advertisement section.

This method of supplementing yearbook funds served as more than a medium for business representation.

The ad section provided an outlet for personal expression—a space to convey a private message or an inside joke.

Pictures captured the esprit de corps shared by a swim team, ski club or special friends.

The ad section of the Hauberk perhaps best depicts the personalities of the student body—

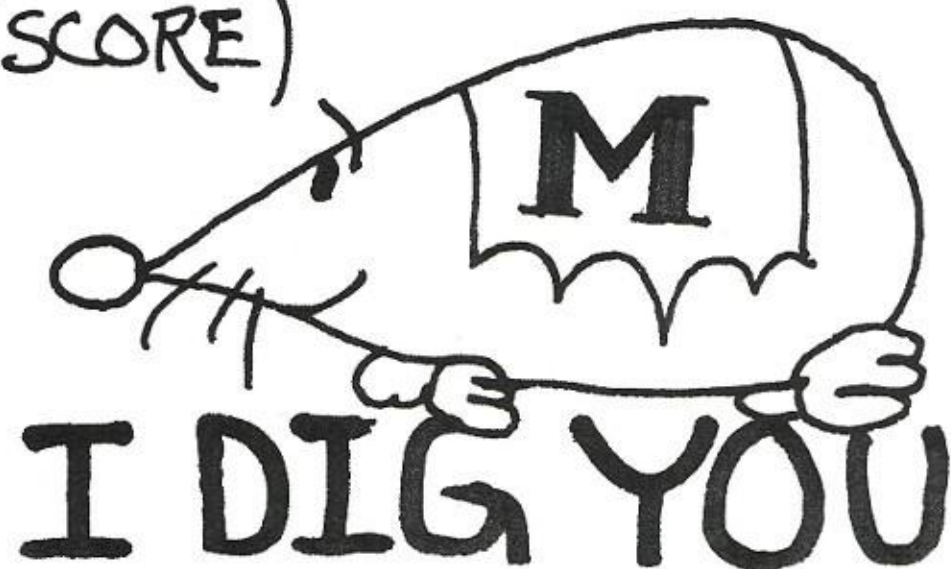

It displays how we choose to communicate our thoughts and feelings.

*Have you not known? Have you not heard?
The Lord is the everlasting God, the creator of the ends of the earth.
He does not faint or grow weary, his understanding is unsearchable.*

*He gives power to the faint,
and to him who has no might he increases strength.*

*Even youths shall faint and be weary,
and young men shall fall exhausted;
But they who wait for the Lord shall renew their strength.*

*They shall mount up with wings like eagles, they shall run and not be weary,
they shall walk and not faint.*

The HAUBERK Staff

Editor's Letter

As editor, I would like to point out several changes in the 1976 HAUBERK, some of the problems we encountered, and some staff members who were of outstanding help to me.

This year, we have changed the order of the sections in the book. We noted that, upon receiving their books, most students immediately turn to the section on activities. Thus, we placed this section first, and we put the faculty section immediately ahead of the student body. Also, we decided that, as an integral part of the yearbook, the advertisements should be treated as a separate section, with its own division page. In addition, a new style of division page was used. Each section was introduced by a full-page picture, and a special technique of steel engraving was incorporated.

The change in HAUBERK class from third hour to seventh hour was a difficult adjustment. This time period conflicted with the schedules of many of our staff members, as they were involved in numerous other aspects of the school.

However, the most difficult problem that we faced in the production of this book was the early printer's deadline of March 15th. At this point in the school year, the spring sports had not even begun to compete, and the cast of the spring play had not started practicing. I extend my apologies to those groups which were slighted due to unavoidable circumstances.

With the insurmountable job of indexing every page of this book, Melanie Waxman also found the early deadline to be a problem. As a flood of pictures were turned in only a few days before the deadline, Melanie miraculously produced a complete index of the student body.

This year's photographers helped me immensely, as they were exceptionally cooperative. They gave up a great deal of their valuable time to attend activities solely for the sake of the HAUBERK. I would especially like to thank Mike McMullen, who willingly turned out excellent photos dealing with the most difficult circumstances.

Joe Dickey deserves special recognition, as the designer of the cover. Along with his staff, Joe created almost the entire ad section within two weeks.

The Studio/Production Staff, headed by Susan Barth, worked diligently every day in class, typing the copy, along with the senior summaries and the indexes. Someone from this staff was always on hand to type up my last-minute corrections and additions.

And finally, I would like to express my gratitude to Mrs. Thomson. She saw me through all my frustrations, advised me wisely, and helped me the most by simply being my friend.

Along with the people mentioned above, the entire HAUBERK staff labored for seven months to create this book. All of these students have tried their best to produce an accurate and concise representation of this school year. As spokesman for the staff, we hope you enjoy the book, and that it captures the 1975-76 year at Shawnee Mission East for each one of you.

Satisfaction in life is derived from identifying with personal challenge.

Upon entering high school, we are not expected to immediately align ourselves with our ideals.

Instead of responding dogmatically to the bombardment of external influences, hopefully we learn to search with an open mind.

Experimentation . . . discovery . . . East provides a beginning to our growth as an individual.

We alone can determine if we have come to grips with ourself, accepted the challenge of self-discovery, recognized the beauty in others, assessed what we feel warrants value, and tried to live accordingly.

If so, we have established some basis for the future.

To be able to question, is more important than knowing all answers.

For as suddenly as we were thrust into this stage of our lives—it is over.

Three years pass quickly, and the future involves a need for greater understanding.

For our characters are not only shaped, but revealed by the challenges we assume tomorrow.
